CALCUTTA, THE 14TH JULY 1916.

RESOLUTION No. 9054P.

READ—

The Annual Report on the Police Administration of the Town of Calcutta and its Suburbs for the year 1915.

SIR FREDERICK HALLIDAY held charge of the office of Commissioner of Police until the 31st March 1915, when he proceeded on two years' leave.

Mr. R. Clarke officiated as Commissioner for the remainder of the year. Twenty-nine Sergeants resigned on rejoining the army to proceed on active service, and owing to the war it has been found impossible to replace them. By the death of Captain A. P. Wodehouse at the Battle of Ctesiphon in Mesopotamia, the Calcutta Police have lost the services of a very efficient officer whose untimely death is much regretted by the Governor in Council.

2. During the year the Commissioner of Police was empowered to grant rewards up to Rs. 500 in any one case for the apprehension of offenders and for intelligence leading to the discovery of crime. There has been a considerable increase in the total amount of the rewards granted, a sum of Rs. 18,857 having been disbursed against Rs. 8,612 in 1914. Owing to the financial situation it has unfortunately been found impossible to proceed with several important building schemes which are still pending for allotment of funds. The problem of housing the police force in Calcutta is becoming very serious, and a sum exceeding two lakhs of rupees was spent during the year in renting houses for the accommodation of officers and men.

3. The total number of cognizable cases reported to the police and to the Magistrates in 1915 was 95,583 against 96,488 in 1914 and 107,871 in 1913. The decrease was mainly in cases of public nuisance and road obstruction and appears to be due partly to a reduction in cart traffic owing to the war and partly to the absence of the hawkers who formerly sold cheap German goods on the footpaths. There was also a marked decrease in the number of non-cognizable cases, in spite of the fact that cases under the Indian Motor Vehicles Act are now treated as non-cognizable. This decrease was due to a reduction in the number of prosecutions under the Municipal Act and the Hackney Carriage Act. It is satisfactory to note in connection with cases of cruelty to animals that there has been an increase in the number of horses sent to Belgachia for treatment. The attention of Magistrates in Calcutta and Alipore has recently been drawn to the remedy, both penal and preventive, provided by section 5B of Bengal Act I of 1869, as amended by Bengal Act III of 1900, and the Governor in Council trusts that Magistrates will make a more extended use of their powers to order the treatment at an infirmary, at the owner's expense, of animals suffering from cruelty. The Committee appointed by Government in March 1915 to consider certain questions relating to the administration of the Cruelty to Animals Act have submitted their report, and their recommendations are now being dealt with by Government.

4. Of the 73 cases tried at the High Court Sessions 62 ended in conviction. Fifteen convictions were obtained at the Alipore Sessions out of 16 cases committed. Of the cases brought to trial in other Courts, 98 per cent. ended in conviction, or omitting minor cases of nuisance and petty offences under local laws, 82 per cent. Property valued at nearly Rs. 7½ lakhs was stolen during the year. The value of the property recovered was only a little over a lakh, but of the total amount of property stolen nearly 2½ lakhs consisted of coin or unidentifiable currency notes.

5. More than 1,000 juvenile offenders were brought to trial during the year. Most of them were tried in the special court in the House of Detention, and it is satisfactory to find that only 14 were actually sent to jail, the remainder being dealt with in other ways. Two probation officers have been appointed to supervise the conduct of juvenile offenders released from the House of Detention. They attend the Juvenile Court daily and receive instructions from the trying Magistrates as to the treatment of juvenile offenders.

6. The year was unfortunately marked by the occurrence of several political outrages in the city. In February, two dacoities, in which motor cars and pistols were used, were committed, one at Garden Reach and the other at Belliaghata. One of the persons concerned in the Garden Reach case was eventually convicted and sentenced to seven years' rigorous imprisonment. In the other case, a band of 15 Bengali youths, armed with revolvers and pistols, attacked the house of a banker and looted Rs. 19,000 in currency notes. The dacoits wounded a cashier by a revolver shot and subsequently shot dead the driver of the taxi-cab in which some of them had arrived at the scene of the occurrence. The bystanders were unable to identify any of the dacoits, but subsequent enquiries led to the discovery of the gang responsible for the outrage, and some of the members of the gang have been interned under the Defence of India Act. On the 24th February, a man was shot in Pathuriaghata Street by Jatindra Nath Mukherji, a well-known revolutionary, who mistook him for a police spy. Four days later, Sub-Inspector Suresh Chandra Mukherji was shot dead in Cornwallis Street by some Bengali youths belonging to Jatindra's gang, whose arrest he was endeavouring to effect. There is good reason to believe that three of the men concerned in this outrage belonged to the gang which was captured later in the year by the Balasore Police, after offering a desperate resistance, in the course of which Jatindra and another man were killed. The two others were subsequently hanged. In October Sub-Inspector Girindra Nath Banerji of the Bengal Police was shot dead in a house in Masjidbari Street by a number of Bengalis who appeared suddenly at the door and opened fire with pistols. No clue has been obtained to the perpetrators of this outrage. In November, a constable on guard duty in Serpentine Lane was shot by two Bengali youths, and subsequently died from his injuries. Four more dacoities and one case of robbery took place in November and December. In four of these cases no evidence of identification was forthcoming, but in the remaining case, the recovery of part of the stolen property led to a clue being obtained, and certain persons will shortly be placed on their trial in connection with this case.

7. Vigorous action has been taken to cope with the new form of crime known as motor-dacoities. Alarms and traffic barriers have been erected in suitable localities, and patrols by armed motor cars have been established. These measures, together with the action which has been taken in other directions to break up the revolutionary gangs and to segregate and restrain the movements of the most dangerous leaders, led temporarily to a perceptible improvement in the situation, but recent outrages in Calcutta and elsewhere show that the evil has not yet been eradicated. The Government of Bengal have had to deplore the loss of many brave police officers during the past ten years, but the spirit of those members of the force who are engaged in the dangerous work of combating revolutionary crime has seldom wavered and their pluck and devotion to duty are beyond all praise. Liberal provision has been made for the maintenance of the families of the police officers and constables who have lost their lives in the service of Government, and steps are being taken to improve the conditions of service of those who are employed on exceptionally dangerous work, and to afford them more efficient protection against their relentless assailants.

8. Among the miscellaneous duties of the Calcutta Police force may be mentioned the administration of the revised motor car rules, which came into force on the 1st April 1915. There was at first some opposition to the new regulations among a section of the taxi-cab drivers, who struck work for a few days, but the trouble was speedily overcome. The work of supervising hostile aliens was materially reduced by the repatriation of a considerable number in November 1915. The Governor in Council is greatly indebted to Mr. V. H. MacCaw, Mr. T. Curtis Hayward and Mr. J. Mackenzie for the assistance they have given as special constables in looking after these people.

9. The working of the Calcutta Fire Brigade under its Chief Officer Mr. B. A. Westbrook shows continued improvement. The Brigade was called up on 272 occasions during the year, and the average loss per call was only Rs. 1,273 as compared with Rs. 4,656 in the previous year, and an average of Rs. 5,735 during the preceding five years. This satisfactory result must be attributed not merely to the increased efficiency of the Brigade but also to the growing confidence of the public, who now realize the importance of giving the earliest information of the outbreak of fire. His Excellency in Council regrets to notice that three Indian firemen lost their lives by suffocation at a fire which occurred at Belliaghata on the 24th December.

10. The Governor in Council has read with pleasure the list of officers who have been commended by the Commissioner of Police for good work done during the year. The discipline of the force shows steady improvement, and all ranks deserve credit for the results achieved. The thanks of Government are especially due to Mr Clarke for his efficient administration of the department.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, for information.

Ordered also that a copy of the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Governor in Council,

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Preliminary forecast of the Jute Crop for 1916.

(Note.—On an average of five years ending 1912-14 the area under jute to which the forecast relates represents 87·1 per cent. of the total area under jute in British India.)

THE present forecast is confined to the estimates of area sown and to a general survey of the prospects and condition of the crop. No attempt is made to estimate the outturn. The estimates are based on figures obtained through the agency of panchayats, as in previous years.

Area sown.—Last year's report showed a large decrease in the area sown in consequence of the sudden drop in prices soon after the declaration of war. The subsequent recovery of prices however has, to a certain extent, restored confidence amongst the growers, and where practicable a larger area has been sown in jute. Sowing in many of the districts, however, has been interfered with through want of sufficient moisture at seeding time. For the same reason sowings were unduly delayed in the western districts and the returns from this part of the province will probably prove below the mark, as some sowing was done after the panchayat figures had been submitted. On the other hand, it is quite possible that these extra late sowings may not mature if the weather is unfavourable.

Character of the season.—In February and March the rainfall was generally below normal; consequently sowings were delayed in the eastern and northern districts, where the season is generally about six weeks earlier than in the western part of the province. Rainfall in April, however, considerably improved the situation.

In May the rainfall was again defective, and this, combined with high temperatures, retarded growth considerably. In the western districts the land was still much too dry for sowing.

The June rainfall did an enormous amount of good to standing crops and allowed the western districts to get a considerable area sown.

Prospects.—On the whole, the present condition of the crop is fairly good, except in the late-sown tracts (mostly under the deshi crop), where the situation is still doubtful. The absence of excessive rainfall during the current month would, however, greatly improve prospects in this area.

Consolidated acreage figures.—The acreage figures for the three provinces, as compared with the figures returned for the final forecast last year, are shown as follows :—

Bengal—
Western	325,858	315,842	......	10,016
Northern	601,614	661,131	59,517	......
Eastern	1,158,798	1,305,105	146,307	......
Cooch Behar	27,556	31,741	4,185	... ..
Bihar and Orissa	188,090	226,047	37,957	......
Assam	75,400	73,100	......	2,300
Total ...	2,377,316	2,612,966	247,966	12,316

The following are therefore the percentages of increase or decrease in acreage :—

		Percentage of increase.	Percentage of decrease.
Western Bengal	...	... ...	3
Northern ,,	...	... 10	...
Eastern ,,	...	... 13	...
Cooch Behar	...	... 15	...
Bihar and Orissa	...	... 20	...
Assam ...	...	... ...	3

The total increase in acreage over that of last year (Final Jute Forecast) is 235,650 or about 10 per cent.

Stocks.—From the District Officers' reports (Appendix I) it appears that very little jute is left over from last year's crop in the districts. There seems to be, however, a fair amount in Calcutta.

Offg. Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

Preliminary Jute Forecast of 1916.

DISTRICT.	ESTIMATED AREA UNDER JUTE—		Whether much, little or no jute remains in the district from the crop of 1915.	Date by which the sowing of the crop generally commenced this year, and whether the date was early, normal or late.	REMARKS BY DISTRICT OFFICERS.
	Last year.	This year.
1	2	3	4	5	6
	Acres.	Acres.
24-Parganas	69,791	62,567	Little	In Diamond Harbour Subdivision—Middle of May; late. In Sadar Subdivision—June; late. Sowing was normal in other subdivisions.	The decrease in area as compared with [illegible] is due to want of rainfall at sowing time. The weather conditions have, however, been favourable since [illegible].
Nadia	53,098	67,278	Little	End of May; late ...	The increase in area is due to the comparatively high price of jute last year. The rainfall was late at sowing time, otherwise the season has been favourable.
Murshidabad	20,403	27,931	Little	From May to June; late.	The increase in area is due to the fairly good price obtained last year. Character of weather has been unfavourable throughout. At first there was a prolonged drought which delayed sowing, then continuous rainfall rendered weeding difficult. The condition of the crop has, however, improved at present.
Jessore	85,037	77,401	Very little	Middle of April ...	Weather was unfavourable at sowing time for want of rain but it is favourable now. In some parts the crop did not grow owing to drought. The present condition of the crop is good.
Khulna	20,586	22,0[illegible]2	Little	Beginning of April; normal.	The increase in area as compared with that of the last year is due to the rise in the price of [illegible] during the latter part of last year. The season was unfavourable at sowing time for want of rain, but it is favourable now. The present condition of the crop is fair.
Burdwan	8,363	6,400	No jute remains ...	Latter part of April to first week of June; a little late in many places.	The decrease in area sown is due to continued drought. The soil was much too dry to enable sowing on a large scale. The weather at sowing time and [illegible] now has been unfavourable. The present condition of the crop is not good except in Katwa, where it is hopeful. The plants have suffered materially from untimely sowing and want of moisture at the start.
Midnapore	12,976	[illegible],520	No jute remains ...	Beginning of June; late.	Decrease in area sown is due to want of timely rainfall. There has been no jute cultivation in Ghatal subdivision up to the time of submission of this report, but some sowing is still expected. Want of rain at sowing time and subsequent heavy rainfall in June adversely affected the growth of the crop. The present weather conditions are, however, favourable.
Hooghly	39,531	32,585	Little	Last week of May; late.	The decrease in the area sown this year is due to want of timely rainfall. The character of weather was unfavourable at sowing time but it has turned favourable now. The present condition of the crop is good.
Howrah	16,013	10,078	No jute remains ...	Beginning of June; late.	The decrease in the area sown this year is due to want of timely rainfall. Want of rain at the beginning of the season and subsequent constant rain impeded the growth of the plants. The present condition of the crop is not good.
Rajshahi	63,100	7[illegible],200	Little	March and April; normal.	The increase in area sown is due to the better prices obtained last year. Weather was not quite favourable at sowing time, as there was no rain. It is, however, favourable now. Some damage is reported from the Naogaon Subdivision owing to the insufficient rainfall after the crop was sown. Present condition of the crop is on the whole good.
Dinajpur	66,500	67,200	Little	April; normal ...	Weather was not favourable after the sowing was over. The present condition of the crop is fairly good.
Jalpaiguri	50,870	48,240	Little	Middle of April; normal.	Weather was unfavourable owing to [illegible] and heavy rains. Excessive growth of weeds due to heavy rain was very much unfavourable to the crop. The present condition of the crop is not good.
Darjeeling	2,351	2,945	No jute remains ...	First week of April; normal.	The increase in area sown is due to the prospects of fetching a better price. Weather at sowing time and up till now has been favourable. The present condition of the crop is good.
Rangpur	228,216	242,000	Little	Middle of March; normal.	The increase in area sown is due to the rise in the price obtained last year. Weather was favourable at sowing time but continued rainfall in April somewhat interfered with the weeding operations. The growth of the crop was also retarded owing to scanty rainfall in May. The present condition is, however, very favourable.

DISTRICT.	ESTIMATED AREA UNDER JUTE— Last year.	This year.	Whether much, little or no jute remains in the district from the crop of 1915.	Date by which the sowing of the crop generally commenced this year, and whether the date was early, normal or late.	REMARKS BY DISTRICT OFFICERS.
1	2	3	4	5	6
	Acres.	Acres.
Bogra	63,800	63,121	Little	Middle of March to middle of May; normal.	Want of rain at sowing time and thereafter retarded the growth of the crop. The present condition of the crop is fair.
Pabna	101,777	134,425	Little	First week of April; a little late.	The increase in area is due to high price of jute obtained last year. There was not sufficient rainfall in March to enable the sowings to be done in usual time. The operations, therefore, had to be postponed till the first week of April, when good rain fell. The young plants were damaged to some extent by the excessively hot and dry climatic conditions in May. The break of monsoon in June, however, relieved the situation. The present outlook is favourable.
Malda	25,000	31,000	Little	End of April; normal	The increase in area is due to rise in price in 1915 as compared with that in 1914. Weather was not good at sowing time but since middle of June up till now it has been favourable. Owing to drought in May, cultivation was delayed and growth of the crop was impeded.
Dacca	232,975	256,285	Little	March; normal ...	The increase in area sown is due to the rise in price of jute to its former pitch. The weather was not very favourable at sowing time. Rainfall during the latter part of May and in the beginning of June improved the condition of the crop. The outlook at present is hopeful.
Mymensingh ...	484,321	582,912	Little	End of March ...	The increase in area is due to the high price of jute obtained last year. Absence of rain in April and May interfered with the growth of the early sown crop. Since then weather has been favourable. The condition of the crop sown somewhat late in the season is so far excellent.
Faridpur	186,500	214,300	No jute remains ...	Beginning of April; normal.	The increase in area as compared with that of last year is about 15 per cent. and is mainly due to the rise in the price of jute last year. Insufficient rainfall at sowing time and drought till the end of May affected the growth of the crop. Weather is, however, favourable now. The present condition of the crop it promising.
Bakarganj ...	47,000	45,000	Nil	First part of April; late.	The decrease in area is due to absence of rain at sowing time. Weather has been unfavourable at the beginning but turned favourable afterwards. The condition of the crop sown a little late is more favourable than the crop sown early.
Chittagong ..	200	20	Nil	Middle of April; normal.
Tippera	180,861	179,333	Very little ...	March; normal ...	The weather was abnormally dry at sowing time; afterwards it was very wet in April. A dry spell followed in May which caused some premature flowering in Brahmanbaria Subdivision. The condition of the crop was improved by the break of monsoon in June.
Noakhali	26,941	27,075	No jute remains ...	Latter part of March; normal.	Weather was unfavourable at sowing time as it was abnormally dry. Rain fell in April. The season has been favourable since then. The present condition of the crop is good.
Total for Bengal ...	2,086,270	2,282,078
Add for Cooch Behar ...	27,556	31,741	Little	March and April; normal.	The increase in area sown is due to the high price of jute realized during the latter part of last year. Weather was favourable at the time of sowing, but it was not so afterwards. Excessive rain during the weeding time retarded the operations, which resulted in the stunted growth of the crop. The crop was also destroyed over an extensive area by the accumulation of water. The present condition of the crop is not good.
GRAND TOTAL ..	2,113,826	2,313,819

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BIHAR AND ORISSA.

Preliminary Forecast of the Jute Crop of Bihar and Orissa, 1916.

(NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1913-14 the area under jute to which the Bihar and Orissa forecast relates represents about 9·8 per cent. of the total area under jute in British India.)

THE present forecast deals only with the estimated area sown. It gives also a general survey of prospects but makes no reference to the probable outturn either in percentage figures or in bales.

2. Acreage.—The estimated area sown during the current and four preceding years in round numbers is given below :—

Year.	Acreage.
1913	318,400
1914	330,100
1916	226,000

3. Weather conditions.—In March there was practically no rain. In April the rainfall was above the normal in the jute-growing districts, except in Cuttack and Balasore, where it was below the normal. In May it was defective everywhere. The absence of rain early in the season retarded sowings in the important jute districts. The rainfall in June was in excess of the normal in all the jute districts, except in Champaran, where it was slightly below the normal. The rainfall facilitated sowings and improved prospects of the crop to a great extent. In Cuttack, however, the fall was excessive and further retarded the sowings.

4. District returns.—The total area under jute, as reported by the District Officers, is estimated in round numbers at 226,000 acres as compared with 188,100 acres of last year. Sowings are, however, still incomplete in Muzaffarpur and Cuttack. The increase in area is due to the effect of favourable prices realized in 1915. For Purnea, which is the most important jute-growing district in this Province, the figure for acreage has been arrived at by a census of jute fields taken by the panchayats under the supervision of Special Officers.

5. Condition and prospects.—The area under jute this year is greater than that of last year; but a considerable part of this area has been sown late, and the growth of the late-sown crop has been somewhat retarded by the subsequent heavy rains. The condition of the crop, however, is reported on the whole to be promising.

6. General.—Little jute from the crop of 1915 remains in the districts.

JOHN R. DAIN,
Offg. Director of Agriculture,
Bihar and Orissa.

APPENDIX I.

First Forecast of the Jute Crop of Bihar and Orissa, 1916.

Division.	District.	Total area of the district.	Estimated total area under cultivation.	Estimated normal area under jute. (This figure has been arrived at by taking the average of 10 years immediately preceding the year to which this forecast relates.)	Estimated area under jute. Last year (1915).	Estimated area under jute. This year (1916).	Whether much, little or no jute remains in the district from the crop of 1915.	Date by which the sowing of the crop generally commenced this year and whether that date was early, normal or late.	Remarks by District Officer.

		Acres.	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.
Tirhut ...	Champaran ...	2,259,840	1,447,600	2,200*	1,500	2,000	No jute remained in the district from the crop of last year.	End of March ...	The weather and rainfall have been favourable. The present condition of the crop is good. The sowing was normal and is almost complete. The crop is expected to be better than that of last year.
	Muzaffarpur...	1,942,324	1,627,000	1,900*	1,000	1,600	Little	March	The early monsoon commenced late and so the sowing continues still in the subdivision of Hajipur. The standing crop is promising.
Bhagalpur ...	Bhagalpur ...	2,661,020	1,684,100	4,500	2,560	1,920	Little	April to May ...	Only 75 per cent. of the last year's area has been sown this year. The decrease is due to the want of timely rainfall. The condition of the crop was bad before but is now improving.
	Purnea ...	3,196,153	1,694,100	239,400	158,830	197,027	Very little ...	Sowings commenced from beginning of March in Kishanganj and eastern part of Sadr and Araria, which is the normal time, but in the western parts of Sadr and Araria sowings commenced in middle of May, which is late.	Season was favourable in Kishanganj and in parts of Sadr and Araria. A large area now under jute in Sadr was sown after 31st May. This late-sown crop has been subjected to early monsoon rains which have retarded its growth. The expansion in area under jute in 1916 is due to the effect of favourable prices realized in 1915.
	Santal Parganas.	3,466,100	1,698,200	4,100	1,500	1,100	Little	Middle of May ...	Owing to an almost complete absence of rain for the first two months of the year the sowings have been much less than those of last year. The general condition of the crops is now favourable as reported by the Subdivisional Officers, Rajmahal and Pakour.
Orissa ...	Cuttack ...	2,340,307	1,223,500	14,800	20,200	19,700	No jute remained in the district from the crop of 1915.	First week of May. (The date of sowing was late this year.)	Scarcity of rain at the sowing season retarded the sowing of the crop. Subsequent excessive rain affected the growth. The present condition of the crop is fair. Sowings are still going on. The decrease in area as compared with the first and final forecast of last year is due to the fact that on account of recent excessive rain certain areas could not be sown. They may possibly be sown if weather permits.
	Balasore ...	1,332,621	982,200	3,500	2,500	2,700	Very little ...	Last week of May. (The sowing was late this year.)	Weather is now favourable to the crop. The plants have in some places grown from 9 inches to 18 inches high. In Ballapal thana a larger area has been sown than in the previous year and hence the increase.
	Total ...	17,198,365	10,307,000	270,400	188,090 or in round numbers 188,100.	226,047 or in round numbers 226,000.

* The average of nine years immediately preceding has been taken, as earlier figures are not available.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, ASSAM.

First Forecast of the Jute Crop in Assam, 1916.

[NOTE.—On the average of the five years ending 1913-14 the area under jute in Assam represents some 2·9 per cent. of the total area under jute in British India.]

Character of the season.—The rainfall in February was somewhat light, but it was rather in excess in March and continued to be so in April in most districts. On the other hand, May and June were drier than usual and the total rainfall of these months was below normal. The weather was not favourable at the time of sowing, with the result that there was a tendency for the area that would have been put under jute to diminish, particularly in the districts of Sylhet and Goalpara. Conditions are, however, reported to have improved since and the crop is expected generally to be better than that of last year.

Area sown.—According to the estimates of the Deputy Commissioners the total area under the crop amounts to 73,100 acres or some 12 per cent. less than that shown in the preliminary forecast of last year which was 83,100 acres. The area sown this year has decreased in every district except Darrang, Nowgong and the Garo Hills; in the last two districts the increases are about 27 and 32 per cent., respectively. In Goalpara and Sylhet, the two most important districts in the Province from the point of view of jute, decreases of 9,700 and 1,200 acres, respectively, are reported. Unfavourable conditions of weather and the low prices obtained for last year's crop are said to be responsible for the decrease.

Stocks.—According to the Deputy Commissioners' reports, little jute remains from last year.

Director of Land Records and Agriculture, Assam.

First Forecast of Jute Crop, 1916.

DISTRICT.	Normal area under jute.	ESTIMATED AREA UNDER JUTE.		Whether much, little or no jute remains in the district from the crop of 1915.	Date by which the sowing of the crop generally commenced this year and whether that date was early, normal or late.	REMARKS BY DEPUTY COMMISSIONERS.
		Last year.	This year.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.
Cachar ...	400	300	200	None	First part of April; normal.	The weather and rainfall were favourable to the crop. The condition of the crop is good. The sowings were normal as regards time and have been completed. The crop is expected to be better than that of last year. The area sown was restricted, owing to excessive rainfall at the time of sowing.
Sylhet ...	18,000	12,700	11,500	Little	First week of April; late.	The weather was not favourable at the beginning of the season. Subsequent fall of rain in April improved the conditions, which are now fair. The sowings were rather late this year and have been completed. The crop is expected to be better than that of last year. The decrease in area is due to the low prices of last year, to cattle mortality and to want of rain in March as well as to great demand for food crops.
Goalpara ...	30,000	15,700	38,000	Little	Middle of March-April; normal.	At the beginning of the season the weather and rainfall were not favourable, but since sowing, weather conditions have improved. The condition of the crop is fair. The sowings were generally in normal time, but retarded for want of timely rain. The crop is expected to be better than last year. There has been a decrease in the area sown this year owing to want of seasonable rainfall, and the fall and uncertainty in the price of the crop.
Kamrup	5,500	8,900	7,600	Little	1st April; normal.	Weather and rainfall have been favourable. The condition of the crop is fairly good. The sowings were in normal time and have been completed. The crop of this year is expected to be better than that of last. The decrease in area is due to the fall in the price of jute last year.
Darrang	1,000	7,500	[illegible],000	Little	End of April in the Sadar Subdivision late. Middle of April in the Mangaldai Subdivision; normal.	The weather and rainfall were on the whole favourable. The condition of the crop is good, except in the Tezpur circle, where it is reported to be poor. Sowings were in normal time in the Mangaldai Subdivision and have been completed, but are late in the Sadar Subdivision where sowing is still going on in places. The crop is expected to be somewhat better than last year, except in the Tezpur circle, where it is worse on account of damage by insects. The increase in area is small and may be attributed to ordinary fluctuation.
Nowgong	[illegible]00	3,700	4,700	Very little ..	1st April; early ...	The weather and rainfall were not favourable. The condition of the crop is fair. The sowings were early and have been completed. The crop is expected to be better than in last year.
Sibsagar ...	300	600	500	Nil	First week of April; normal.	The weather was not favourable owing to excessive rain in May. The condition of the crop is fair. The sowings were in normal time and have been completed. The crop is expected to be worse on the whole than that of last year. The small decrease in area compared with that of last year may be put down to ordinary fluctuations.
Lakhimpur ...	200	300	100	None in Sadar, but a little in North Lakhimpur Subdivision.	1st April; normal	The weather and rainfall were seasonable. The condition of the crop is fair. Sowings were normal and have been completed. The crop is expected to be better than that of last year. In the Sadar Subdivision the decrease in area is due to the fact that some people gave up jute cultivation, owing to loss on it last year, and took to paddy cultivation, while the decrease in the North Lakhimpur Subdivision is due to the prevalence of cholera in that Subdivision at the sowing season.
Garo Hills ...	1,000	3,100	1,500	Nil ...	Begun in middle of January and completed by first week of April; late.	The weather and rainfall were not favourable when the sowing commenced, but they became much better later on and are so still. The present condition of the crop is good. Sowing was generally late, as it was retarded in the beginning for want of rain. The sowings have been completed. The crop of this year is expected to be better than that of the last.

4. Credit system of payment of duty.—From the statement furnished by the Collector of Customs, Calcutta, it appears that securities to the extent of Rs. 45,58,800 were deposited during the year as compared with Rs. 43,34,500 in 1914-15. The amount of duty debited during the year under the system was Rs. 87,57,960¼ against Rs. 92,20,683½ in the previous year. There were 44 depositors during the year, four of whom closed their accounts, leaving a balance of 40.

5. Extension of the salt-bonding accommodation and replacement of turn-tables at Sulkea.—In the year under review, the East Indian Railway completed the replacement of the four small railway turn-tables at the golas by two larger ones and also removed one from the south to the north end siding at a sanctioned cost of Rs. 3,192, thereby saving the cost of a new turn-table. This greatly expedited the work of placing wagons for loading purposes. Two new gangways supplied to No. 6 pontoon and shore connections renewed together with new brick-on-edge footpaths completed the requirements for bonding operations for the year.

6. Salt Golas at Chittagong.—Notwithstanding the rush of imports between the latter half of June and the end of October, the storage capacity was sufficient owing to the fact that all the new golas at Moheshkhal were available for storage as well as the old golas at Sadarghat and in the Custom House compound. Considerable repairs to the kutcha golas were undertaken to provide the necessary storage space, and a special allotment on this account was made by Government. At Moheshkhal the floors were raised in all the compartments save one, and the result has so far proved satisfactory in curtailing the abnormal wastage of the previous year. The nine golas used for storage before the floors were raised gave an average wastage of 2·17 per cent., whereas the wastage in the four golas loaded and cleared after the work had been carried out was ·85 per cent. only.

The workshop at the new golas was completed during the year and all the tools, stores, etc., removed there. The Inspector and the Assistant Inspector also took up their quarters in the gola compound.

7. Consumption of duty-free salt for Commercial purposes.—The quantity of salt delivered free of duty for commercial purposes or on which a drawback of duty was subsequently allowed for the same reason amounted to 13,750 maunds as compared with 7,900 maunds in 1914-15.

8. Enhancement of the duty on salt.—The duty to be paid on salt manufactured in or imported into British India was raised from Re. 1 to Re. 1-4 per maund with effect from the 1st March 1916 by India Government Notification No. 1545 Exc. of that date and by the Indian Tariff (Amendment) Act IV of 1916.

CHAPTER II.

Stocks, imports and clearances.

9. Accounts of stocks and issues.—The stocks, imports and clearances of salt in and from the ports of Calcutta and Chittagong for the years 1914-15 and 1915-16 are shown below :—

Stocks, imports, etc.	1914-15. Mds.	1915-16. Mds.
Total of all stocks at the commencement of the year	31,63,664	6,48,173
Total quantity imported during the year	1,19,66,504	1,41,91,910
Excess found in the golas	6,071	5,972
Total ...	1,51,36,239	1,48,46,055
Quantity on which duty was paid during the year	1,38,65,658	1,23,04,167
Quantity which passed free of duty for the manufacture of glazed stoneware, etc.	4,352	7,273
Quantity of non-duty-paid salt removed under bond to all inland warehouses ...	5,20,322	5,88,052
Quantity written off during the year for wastage or otherwise	97,734	75,775
Total ...	1,44,88,066	1,29,75,267
Balance at the close of the year ...	6,48,173	18,70,788

The import figures show an increase of 22¼ lakhs of maunds, though there was a decrease of over 15½ lakhs of maunds in clearances.

10. Imports.— * * * * The total imports into Calcutta increased by 14·5 per cent. There was an increase in imports from the United Kingdom, Spain, Port Said and Massowah, due to the demand for salt and the low stocks at the close of the year 1914-15. The decrease in imports from Aden was due to the unsettled state of the country owing to the war, and that from Bombay to the want of tonnage. There was no import from Salif during the year.

There was an increase of nearly 6½ lakhs of maunds or 59·5 per cent. in the imports into the port of Chittagong. While imports from Aden decreased by 82·9 per cent., there was an increase of 176·7 per cent. in imports from Port Said. Eight lakhs sixty thousand and seventy-two maunds of salt were imported from Spain against nil in the previous year.

Out of the total importation of 1,24,65,788 maunds into the port of Calcutta, 79,86,432 maunds or 64 per cent. were bonded in the Sulkea golas during the year as against a percentage of 66 in the previous year. The decrease in percentage was due to large clearances from boardship during the last quarter of the year in anticipation of a heavy rise in the rate of duty.

11. Sales of imported salt from shipboard and bond.— * *
In Calcutta the sales direct from shipboard show an increase of 22·7 per cent., and those from bond a decrease of 24 per cent. In Chittagong the sales direct from shipboard exhibit an increase of 46·3 per cent., and those from bond a decrease of 33·5 per cent. The decrease in clearances from bond was due to the restriction placed on deliveries from bond in February by the ordinance issued by the Government of India. There was a decrease of 11 per cent. in the total sales of imported salt. All the vessels carrying salt to Calcutta were steamers.

12. Transactions in the golas.—The total transactions at the golas in Calcutta and Chittagong for the past five years are given below :—

Year.			Calcutta.	Chittagong.
			Mds.	Mds.
1911-12	...	...	1,89,16,765	14,60,568

* * * * * *

14. Inland bonded warehouses.—There were 9 private bonded warehouses in this Presidency against 8 in the previous year, viz., 2 at Narayanganj (Dacca), 1 at Bhairab Bazar (Mymensingh), 1 at Madaripur (Faridpur), 4 at Jhalakati (Bakarganj), and 1 at Chandpur (Tippera). A new gola was opened at Narayanganj during the year. The quantity of salt despatched to the 9 inland warehouses from shipboard and golas in the ports of Calcutta and Chittagong was 5,22,052 maunds as compared with 3,91,336 maunds in 1914-15, showing an increase of 33·4 per cent. The quantity of salt despatched from shipboard to the bonded warehouses at Chandbali in Bihar and Orissa and at Ajmiriganj in Assam was 36,000 maunds and 30,000 maunds, respectively, against 81,986 maunds and 47,000 maunds in the previous year, showing an aggregate decrease of 62,986 maunds or 48·8 per cent.

* * * * * *

CHAPTER III.

Consumption and prices.

17. Consumption.—The total quantity of salt which passed into consumption in this Presidency during the year 1915-16 was 78,55,974 maunds. This is exclusive of 47,82,859 maunds, the net export by rail, road or river, but inclusive of 60 maunds educed from saltpetre.

18. Prices of salt in Bengal generally.— * * * *
There was an increase of 9 annas 10 pies in the average as compared with the previous year, which is attributed to the rise in the price of imported salt and to the enhancement of the salt duty.

The retail prices in the saliferous districts showed an increase, the price per seer ranging from 1 anna to 2 annas. The average wholesale price per 100 maunds of Liverpool salt, as sold from the ship's side in the port of Calcutta, exclusive of duty, was Rs. 142-8-9 against Rs. 77-4-9 in the previous year. The Collector of Customs, Calcutta, reports that prices in the salt market ruled high throughout the year. A temporary fall during the second quarter was due to the increased stocks at the golas consequent on larger importations. The year closed with abnormal prices on account of very high freights and the anticipated enhancement of the salt duty. In the port of Chittagong the abnormal rise at the end of the year was probably due more to anxiety as to obtaining tonnage for further supplies from abroad than to the restriction of issues.

* * * * * *

Preventive Measures.

* * * * * *

CHAPTER V.

Financial Results.

22. Receipts and charges.— * * * * As compared with 1914-15 receipts show a decrease of Rs. 16,58.113 or 11·8 per cent., and charges a decrease of Rs. 52,251 or 14·1 per cent. The net revenue was Rs. 1,20,50,450, which was less than that of the previous year by Rs. 16,05,862 or 11·7 per cent. The decrease in the receipts occurred mainly under the head "Import duty on Salt." The charges do not include any share of the cost of the Customs Preventive Service, which is largely employed in safe guarding the salt revenue.

* * * * * *

CHAPTER VI.

Miscellaneous.

23. Saltpetre refineries and soda factories.—There were 2 licensed saltpetre refineries at Kakurgachi and Maniktola as compared with 3 in the previous year. There were also 2 factories for the manufacture of sulphate of soda by artificial heat at Tangra and Pagladanga against 1 in the year 1914-15. Work in the refinery at Kakurgachi was stopped owing to * * want of funds, although a license was taken out.

The quantity of refined saltpetre produced during the year was 3,139 maunds against 1,824 maunds in the previous year. The increase was due to greater demand on account of the European war. The quantity of salt educed in the process of refinement of saltpetre was 40 maunds as compared with 24 maunds in 1914-15, and the quantity of sitta (impure salt) left in the course of refinement was 8 maunds against 41 maunds. Sixty maunds of educed salt were sold during the year against 80 maunds in the previous year. the duty realized being Rs. 60 against Rs. 80 in 1914-15. The license fees realized from the two saltpetre refineries and the factories for the manufacture of sulphate of soda were Rs. 100 and Rs. 4, respectively.

Transplanting commenced in places.

III. State of standing crops.—The standing crops were in a fairly satisfactory condition excepting jute in the western districts, owing to insufficiency of rainfall at sowing time.

IV. Prospects and probable outturn.—The prospects of jute and other autumn crops were reported to be fair.

V. Condition of agricultural stock.—The condition of agricultural stock was fairly good. The number of districts from which cattle-disease was reported varied from four to seven.

VI. Failure of pasturage and fodder.—The rainfall during the month greatly relieved the fodder scarcity in some of the districts of the Burdwan Division.

VII. Prices of food-grains.—During the second fortnight of the month under review the prices of common rice rose in 3 districts, fell in 6 and remained stationary in the rest. It varied from 6 seers 14 chitaks a rupee at Comilla to 9 seers a rupee at Jalpaiguri.

In the Tippera district rain fell during the week but more rain is wanted. Harvesting of autumn rice crop is progressing and the cutting of jute has begun. No emaciation. Public health is good. The number of persons on test works was 1,489 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 9,155, total 10,644. The decrease in the number of persons on test w[illegible]as due to the gradual closing down of works in Brahmanbaria subdivision owing to earthwork being impossible and agricultural employment being available.

MEDICAL COLLEGE DELHI COMMITTEE.

MEMORANDUM.

IT is notified for the information of candidates intending to join the Lady Hardinge Medical College for women at Delhi that the institution will be open to students on the 28th September 1916 and that lectures and classes will begin on the 2nd October. The College has been affiliated in the preliminary stages to the Punjab University, and will prepare students for the M.B., B.S. degree of that University. Candidates seeking admission should produce certificates of physical fitness to undergo a course of medical training as well as of good moral character. Preference will be given to students who have passed at least the Intermediate Arts or corresponding examination, but a certain number possessing the minimum general educational qualification of the Matriculation or equivalent standard will also be admitted. Students of the latter class will be required to undergo a separate course in English and Mathematics for which special arrangements have been made within the college itself, and their entire course will extend to seven, instead of the ordinary six years.

2. The institution possesses separate hostel accommodation for Hindus, Muhammadans, Sikhs, and Christians (including Parsees and those accustomed to live in the European style). Boarding will be provided with due regard to caste and other considerations at moderate rates.

3. Forms of application for admission to the college, details as to scholarships, and any further information required may be obtained from the Principal of the College (Raisina, Delhi).

LIBERALITY OF RAJA RAO JOGENDRA NARAIN RAI BAHADUR OF LALGOLA.

No. 2259Medl., dated Calcutta, the 18th July 1916.

From—THE HON'BLE MR. J. DONALD, M.A., I.C.S., Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Financial (Medical) Department,

To—The Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

WITH reference to your letter No. 55Mis.—G., dated the 30th June 1916, in which you report that Raja Rao Jogendra Narain Rai Bahadur of Lalgola has spent a sum of Rs. 18,000 in constructing a building for the out-door dispensary at Berhampore, I am directed to request that you will be so good as to convey to the Raja the thanks of Government for his liberality and public spirit.

REPORT ON FAMINE AND SCARCITY IN THE DISTRICTS OF BANKURA AND TIPPERA FOR THE WEEK ENDING 15TH JULY 1916.

IN the Bankura district the state of affairs in the affected areas is generally unchanged. Transplantation of winter paddy is being retarded for want of rain. The relief measures are adequate. The condition of people on relief works is generally good. Private charitable funds are giving relief. Loans are being advanced to weavers. Artizans are being relieved in their own trade. Prices are rising. The price of rice was 7½ seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 8,980, and in receipt of gratuitous relief 22,150, total 31.130. The decrease in the number of persons was due to the continuance of agricultural operations. Two thousand nine hundred and niney-two persons were relieved on private works.

In the Tippera district, rain fell during the week, but more rain is wanted. Harvesting of autumn rice crop and the cutting of jute are progressing. There was no emaciation. Public health is good. The continuance of distress in the Sadar subdivision is due to partial failure of the early autumn rice crop. No epidemics or cattle-disease is reported. The price of rice is 7¼ seers per rupee. The number of persons on test works was 1,140, and in receipt of gratuitous relief 5,664, total 6,804. The decrease in the number of persons on test works was due to the gradual closing of test works.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS

For the week ending on the 24th July 1916.

Summary.—During the week under report the rainfall was above the normal in Northern Bengal and from light to moderate in other parts of the Province. More rain is urgently needed for the transplanting of winter rice in the western districts and in places operations are being retarded for want of sufficient rain. Paddy seedlings are reported to be withering in parts of Burdwan. The heavy showers in Northern Bengal have caused damage to the standing crops, especially on low lands. Damage by floods is also reported from Dacca and Faridpur. Harvesting of jute and autumn paddy is in progress in Eastern Bengal. Injury by insects too is reported from the 24-Parganas, Nadia, Howrah and Chittagong districts. Cattle-disease prevails in two districts only. The average price of common rice for the Province has remained almost stationary as compared with that of the previous week.

4. In any case where the Governor General in Council has made an order under section 4 of the Ordinance, he may direct that all

5. A winding up order made under section 4 of the Ordinance shall be deemed to commence from the date of the notification in the Gazette of India directing such winding up:

Provided that, where a hostile firm is being liquidated under a license granted under the Hostile Foreigners (Trading) Order, the Government may by the winding up or any subsequent order provide for the adoption of all or any proceedings in such liquidation for the purposes of such winding up.

Insolvent hostile firms.

6. If, in the opinion of the liquidator of hostile firms, any hostile firm in respect of which a winding up order has been made under section 4 of the Ordinance is insolvent, such liquidator shall forthwith report the fact, together with the grounds of his opinion, to Government, and the Governor General in Council shall pass such special order in respect of such firm as appears to him to be necessary in the circumstances of the case.

Enforcement of orders.

9. All orders made by Government under the applied provisions or this Order may be enforced in the same manner in which orders of any Court exercising jurisdiction under the Indian Companies Act, 1913, may be enforced. VII of 1913.

Disclaimer of onerous property.

10. Where any part of the property of a hostile firm consists of land, of any tenure burdened with onerous covenants, or shares or stocks in companies of unprofitable contracts or of any other property that is unsaleable, or not readily saleable by reason of its binding the possessor thereof to the performance of any onerous act or to the payment of any sum of money, the liquidator of hostile firms may, notwithstanding that he may have endeavoured to sell or have taken possession of the property or exercised any act of ownership in relation thereto, at any time within twelve months after the date of the order to wind up or after he first became aware of such onerous property, whichever date shall be latest, disclaim the property.

Operation of disclaimer.

11. The disclaimer shall operate to determine as from the date thereof the rights, interests and liabilities of the hostile firm in or in respect of the property disclaimed, and shall also discharge the liquidator of hostile firms from all personal liability, if any, in respect of the property disclaimed, as from the date when the property vested in him, but shall not, except so far as is necessary for the purpose of releasing the hostile firm and the liquidator of hostile firms from liability, affect the rights or liabilities of any other person.

Disclaimer of leaseholds.

12. The liquidator of hostile firms shall not be entitled to disclaim any leasehold interest without leave of the Local Government, and the Local Government may, before granting such leave, require such notice to be given to persons interested, and impose such terms as the condition of granting leave as the Local Government may think just.

Power to call on liquidator to disclaim.

13. The liquidator of hostile firms shall not be entitled to disclaim any property in pursuance of rule 12 in any case where an application in writing has been made to him by any person interested in the property requiring him to decide whether he will disclaim and the liquidator of hostile firms has for a period of twenty-eight days after the receipt of the application, or such extended period as may be allowed by the Government, declined or neglected to give notice that he disclaims the property; and in the case of a contract, if such liquidator after such application as aforesaid does not within the said period or extended period disclaim the contract he shall be deemed to have adopted it.

Exclusion of claims of hostile foreigners.

14. In a winding up under the Ordinance, the claims of creditors who are not hostile foreigners are to be paid if there are sufficient assets, irrespective of the claims of hostile foreigners, and no provision is to be made for these latter by way of dividend or otherwise.

15. Subject as aforesaid, every creditor shall prove his debt, unless the Local Government in any particular winding up shall give directions that any creditors or class of creditors shall be admitted without proof.

Proof of debts.

16. A debt may be proved in any winding up by delivering or sending through the post to the liquidator of hostile firms an affidavit verifying the debt.

Mode of proof.

17. An affidavit proving a debt may be made by the creditor himself or by some person authorised by, or on behalf of, the creditor. If made by a person so authorised, it shall state his authority and means of knowledge.

Verification of proof.

18. An affidavit proving a debt shall contain or refer to a statement of account showing the particulars of the debt, and shall specify the vouchers, if any, by which the same can be substantiated. The liquidator of hostile firms, to whom the proof is sent, may at any time call for the production of the vouchers.

Contents of proof.

19. An affidavit proving a debt shall state whether the creditor is or is not a secured creditor.

Statement of security.

20. A creditor shall bear the cost of proving his debt, unless Government otherwise orders.

Costs of proof.

21. A creditor proving his debt shall deduct therefrom all trade discounts, but he shall not be compelled to deduct any discount not exceeding 5 per cent. on the net amount of his claim which he may have agreed to allow for payment in cash.

Discounts.

22. When any rent or other payment falls due at stated periods, and the order to wind up is made at any time other than one of those periods, the persons entitled to the rent or payment may prove for a proportionate part thereof up to the date of the winding up order as if the rent or payment grew due from day to day:

Periodical payments.

Provided that where the liquidator of hostile firms remains in occupation of premises let to a hostile firm which is being wound up nothing herein contained shall prejudice or affect the right of the landlord to claim payment by the hostile firm of rent during the period of occupation by the hostile firm or the liquidator as the case may be.

23. On any debt or sum certain, payable at a certain time or otherwise whereon interest is not reserved or agreed for, and which is overdue at the date of the winding up order, the creditor may prove for interest at a rate not exceeding 4 per cent. per annum up to that date from the time when the debt or sum was payable, if the debt or sum is payable by virtue of a written instrument at a certain time, and if payable otherwise, then from the time when a demand in writing has been made giving notice that interest will be claimed from the date of demand until the time of payment.

Interest.

24. Unless otherwise ordered by the Local Government, the liquidator of hostile firms in any winding up may, from time to time, fix a certain day which shall be not less than twenty-one days from the date of notice on or before which the creditors of the hostile firm are to prove their debts or claims, or to be excluded from the benefit of any distribution made before such debts are proved, and the liquidator of hostile firms shall give notice in writing of the day so fixed by advertisement in such newspapers as he shall consider convenient.

Notice to creditors to prove.

25. The liquidator of hostile firms shall examine every proof of debt lodged with him, and the grounds of the debt, and in writing admit or reject in whole or in part, or require further evidence in support of it.

Examination of proof.

26. If a creditor is dissatisfied with the decision of the liquidator of hostile firm in respect of a proof, the Government may, on the application of the creditor, reverse or vary the decision.

Appeal by creditor.

27. (1) Not more than two months before declaring a dividend, the liquidator of hostile firms shall give notice of his intention to do so by advertisement in such newspapers as he thinks fit. Such notice shall specify the latest date up to which proofs can be lodged, which shall not be less than twenty-one days from the date of such notice.

Dividends to creditors.

(2) Where any creditor after the date mentioned in the notice of intention to declare a dividend as the latest date up to which proofs may be lodged, appeals against the decision of the liquidator of hostile firms rejecting a proof, notice of appeal shall, subject to the power of the Local Government to extend the time in special cases, be given within seven days from the date of the notice of decision against which the appeal is made, and the liquidator of hostile firms may in such cases make provision for the dividend upon such proof and the probable costs of such appeal in the event of the proof beirg admitted. Where no notice of appeal has been given within the time specified in this rule, the liquidator of hostile firms shall exclude all proofs which have been rejected from participation in the dividend.

(3) Immediately after the expiration of the time fixed by this rule for appealing against the decision of the liquidator of hostile firms, he shall proceed to declare the dividend, and shall send a notice of dividend to each creditor whose proof has been admitted.

Payments into and out of a Bank.

28. All moneys received by a liquidator of hostile firms shall be paid into such Bank as the Government may direct to the credit of an account entitled "The Hostile Firms Liquidation Account", and all payments out of such account shall be made in such manner as the Government may direct.

Next.—The necessary disbursements of the liquidator of hostile firms other than the actual expenses of realisation heretofore provided for.

Next.—The costs of any person employed under the general or special sanction of Government, or in accordance with these rules by the liquidator of hostile firms.

Next.—The dividend payable to creditors who are not hostile foreigners and whose proofs have been admitted.

Disposal of surplus.

30. Any surplus remaining after making the payments in the last preceding clause mentioned shall be held by the Custodian to be dealt with by him as the Governor General in Council may direct.

General order not to override special order.

31. Nothing in the foregoing general order shall be construed to override or conflict with any special order which the Governor General in Council may make in regard to the winding up of any hostile firm.

Interpretation of the order.

32. The General Clauses Act, 1897, shall apply for the purposes of the interpretation of these rules in like manner as it applies for the purposes of the interpretation of an Act of the Governor General in Council.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Preliminary Forecast of the Sugarcane Crop of Bengal, 1916-17.

(Note.—On an average of the five years ending 1913-14, the area under sugarcane in Bengal represents some 9·5 per cent. of the total area under sugarcane in British India.)

Character of the season.—Weather conditions were generally unfavourable owing to inadequate rainfall at the time of planting and a spell of drought thereafter. The crop sufferred in its early stages ; but subsequently conditions improved with the rainfall in May and June. In the districts of Khulna, Rangpur, Chittagong and Mymensingh, however, weather conditions have been favourable. The prospects at present are, on the whole, fairly satisfactory.

Area planted.—The area planted with sugarcane is reported to be 223,300 acres against 232,900 acres last year (now revised) and against 233·900 acres reported in the corresponding forecast of last year.

Outturn.—According to the estimates of District Officers, outturn percentage of the crop for the province works out at 80 against 88 per cent. for the corresponding forecast of last year.

Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

APPENDIX I.

Preliminary Forecast of the Sugarcane Crop of Bengal, 1916-17.

District.	Estimated normal area under sugarcane.	ESTIMATED AREA UNDER SUGARCANE.		TAKING 100 TO REPRESENT THE NORMAL, WHAT WOULD BE THE AVERAGE OUTTURN PER ACRE CROPPED.		Date by which the planting of the setts generally commenced this year, and whether that date was early, normal or late.	Remarks by District Officers.
		Last year.	This year.	Last year.	This year.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.
24-Parganas ...	5,100	3,800	3,200	100	108	December ..	The decrease in area is due to want of rain at the time of planting. The weather was not favourable at planting time owing to drought, but has since improved and continued to be favourable to the growth of the crop.
Nadia	7,900	5,100*	5,700	96	83	End of January. Normal	The increase in area is due to increase in the price of gur. The weather conditions have not been favourable in the Sadar and Ranaghat subdivisions. Hence the outturn is estimated to be somewhat less than the normal.
Murshidabad ...	3,600	3,400	2,600	92	75	December to April ...	The decrease in area is due to unfavourable weather conditions consequent on the want of rainfall at planting time. The weather has not been favourable. The recent rain, however, has done some good to the crop. The outturn is estimated to be below the normal owing to want of rain which affected the growth of the crop.
Jessore ...	3,900	3,700	3,400	83	66	February and March. Normal.	The decrease in area compared with last year is partly due to insufficient rainfall during the time of plantation and partly due to the fact that in some parts the cultivators prefer the cultivation of paddy to sugarcane, the latter having destroyed the fertility of their lands. The weather conditions have been favourable except in the Narail subdivision where drought affected the cultivation and growth of the plants and caused much damage. Hence the outturn is expected to be below the normal.
Khulna ...	1,500	1,300	1,300	100	100	February. Normal ...	The weather conditions have been favourable to the growth of the crop.
Burdwan ...	25,800	23,000	14,600	100	67	March to May. A little late in places.	The decrease in area is due to want of rain at planting time. The character of weather at planting time was not favourable, but has since been favourable owing to recent rain, except in Sadar subdivision. The cultivation was retarded and the growth of the crop has suffered for want of moisture in places where there is no scope for irrigation from the tanks.
Birbhum	9,000	10,000	6,000	100	58	June. Late	The decrease in area was due to continued drought at planting time. The weather conditions have not been favourable.
Bankura	15,000	10,500	10,500	83	83	First week of May. Normal.	The weather and general condition of the crop have been fair.
Midnapore	3,000	3,000	3,000	84	66	March and April. Normal	The unusual drought at the planting time exercised an unfavourable influence on the crop. The recent rain has improved the prospects on the crop, but in certain areas excessive rain has caused partial damages.
Hooghly	7,200	6,100	6,000	98	88	March. Normal	The weather at planting time has not been favourable, but since then it has been favourable.
Howrah	8,500	5,000	5,400	100	83	Middle of January to March. Normal.	The increase in area is due to rise in the price of sugar. The weather was not favourable till the end of May, which has retarded the growth of the crop. The rains have commenced from the first week of June and improved the condition of the crop.
Rajshahi	18,000	13,100	12,500	85	76	End of January to March. Normal.	The decrease in area is due to unfavourable weather owing to want of rainfall at planting time. At present the weather is favourable.
Dinajpur	25,000	26,700	30,300	78	88	November to March. Normal.	The increase in area is due to extension of cultivation owing to rise in the price of gur. The weather at present has been favourable and the growth of the crop fair.

* Revised.

Jalpaiguri	5,300	4,300	3,800	100	93	Middle of February to end of March. Normal.	The decrease in area was due to want of rain at planting time. The weather at planting time was not favourable, which affected to some extent the growth of the crop, but it is now satisfactory.
Darjeeling	100	100	100	100	85	Middle of March. Normal	The weather conditions have not been favourable.
Rangpur	20,500	11,800	13,000	90	100	Last week of February. Normal.	The increase in area this year is due to rise in price of sugar. The weather conditions have been favourable and the growth of the crop is good.
Bogra	20,000	20,000	20,000	80	70	March and April. Normal	Want of rain was felt at the planting time, but the conditions have since much improved.
Pabna	10,000	10,000	10,000	60	70	Middle of April. Normal	The weather conditions at planting time were fair, but want of rain in May has affected the crop to some extent. Hence the outturn is expected to be much below the normal.
Malda	200	300	300†	80	75	May. Normal	The weather conditions from the planting time up till now have not been good. The drought at planting time affected the growth of the crop to some extent. But since then continuous rain has also been unfavourable to the crop.
Dacca	21,100	21,800	21,900	70	60	January to March. Normal.	Want of timely rain has retarded the growth of the crop. Hence the outturn is expected to fall below the normal.
Mymensingh ...	18,600	13,300	12,800	90	100	The planting was normal in all subdivisions except in Jamalpore where it commenced in the middle of May.	The weather conditions have been generally favourable.
Faridpur	7,100	7,400	7,500	85	82	January. Normal ...	The weather at planting time was not favourable for want of rain, which has affected the growth of the crop, but it has since been favourable.
Bakarganj	11,000	16,600	18,800	90	95	December to March. Normal.	The increase in area is mainly due to high price of sugar and gur last year. The weather conditions have been satisfactory.
Chittagong ...	6,400	5,000	5,000	90	99	March. Normal ...	The weather condition has been favourable and the growth of the crop good.
Tippera	8,000	5,800	4,000	60	50	March. Normal ...	The decrease in area is due to small outturn last year owing to heavy flood. The weather has not been very favourable for want of rain.
Noakhali	900	800	500	75	70	March. Normal ...	Want of rain has affected the growth of the crop. Hence a low outturn is expected.
Chittagong Hill Tracts.	1,000*	1,000	1,000	70	80	Middle of March. Normal.	The weather and its effects on the crop have been fair.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Forecast of the Summer Til Crop of Bengal, 1916-17.

(Note.—On the average of the five years ending 1913-14 the area under Til in Bengal has represented some 5·3 per cent. of the total area under Til in British India).

Character of the Season.—Except in the districts of the 24-Parganas, Bankura, Rangpur and Chittagong weather conditions are reported to have been unfavourable throughout the Province owing to insufficient rain at sowing time and a spell of drought later in the season. In the districts of Howrah and Malda, where the area under the crop is generally very small, there has been no cultivation this year owing to lack of moisture. Heavy and incessant rain just before harvesting did considerable damage to the crop in some districts.

Acreage.—The total area sown with the crop this year is estimated to be 184,700 acres against 194,300 acres last year. The decrease in area is, as stated above, due to unfavourable weather at sowing time.

Outturn.—According to the estimates of District Officers the average outturn of the crop for the Province works out at 67 per cent. of the normal against 69 per cent. last year. Taking the normal yield per acre at 4¼ maunds, the gross outturn of the Province is estimated at 19,300 tons against 20,900 tons last year.

Offg. Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

REPORT ON FAMINE AND SCARCITY IN THE DISTRICTS OF BANKURA AND TIPPERA FOR THE WEEK ENDING 22ND JULY 1916.

In the Bankura district the state of affairs in the affected areas is generally unchanged. More rain is needed for transplantation, and for the sowing of seedlings. The relief measures are adequate. The condition of people on relief works is generally good. Private charitable funds are giving relief. Advances are being made to weavers. Some people who were formerly relieved gratuitously are being employed on light work. Prices have fallen. The price of rice is 8 seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 8,780 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 21,944, total 30,724. The decrease in the number of persons was due to the continuance of agricultural operations. Two thousand eight-hundred and thirty-one persons were relieved on private works.

In the Tippera district rain fell during the week but more rain is wanted for standing winter paddy and jute crops. The harvesting of autumn rice crop and the cutting of jute is progressing. The prospects of the Barshal paddy crop in low lands are not favourable owing to the faulty selection by cultivators of imported seed. Public health is good. The continuance of distress in the Sadar subdivision is due to the partial failure of the early autumn rice crop for want of seasonable rain. The price of rice is 7¼ seers per rupee. The number of persons on test works was 791 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 5,770, total 6,561. The decrease in the number of persons on test works was due to the closing of works except in one thana.

Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS

For the week ending on the 31st July 1916.

Summary.—During the week under report heavy rain fell in a number of places in Northern and Eastern Bengal, but the fall varied from light to moderate elsewhere. Want of seasonable rainfall is keenly felt in Western Bengal, especially in the districts of the Burdwan Division. Some damage to paddy and jute has been reported from Malda owing to floods and from Cooch Behar, Dinajpur and Jalpaiguri owing to excessive rainfall. Harvesting of autumn paddy and jute continues in Eastern Bengal. Steeping and washing of jute have also commenced. Transplanting of winter paddy is in full swing everywhere. Insects are reported to have caused slight damage to paddy and jute in parts of Nadia and Burdwan. Cattle-disease is reported from four districts. The average price of common rice for the province has remained stationary with a tendency to fall.

FIELD OPERATIONS.

No. 839.—A despatch from General Sir J. E. Nixon, K.C.B., A.-D.-C., General, Commanding Indian Expeditionary Force "D," on the operations at Bushire and Dilwar, July—September 1915, is published for general information.

No. 168-9-O., dated 15th January 1916.

From—GENERAL SIR JOHN NIXON, K.C.B., A.-D.-C., General, Commanding Indian Expeditionary Force "D",

To—The Chief of the General Staff, Army Headquarters, India.

SIR,

I have the honour to furnish a report on operations conducted at Bushire and in its vicinity between July and September 1915.

2. On July 12th, 1915, a force of Tangistani tribesmen, at the instigation of enemy agents in Persia, made an unprovoked attack on the British detachment at Bushire.

3. The attack was repulsed, but two British Officers—(Major E. H. Oliphant, 96th Berar Infantry, and Captain J. G. L. Ranking, Assistant Political Officer)—and one sepoy were killed, and two sepoys wounded.

4. As the Persian Government failed to make reparation for the hostile action of the Tangistanis, His Majesty's Government ordered forcible measures to be taken.

5. It was decided that the port and town of Bushire should be seized and occupied by a naval and military force until the Persian Government complied with our demands.

6. Further, as a punishment to the tribesmen implicated in the incident of July 12th, orders were issued for a naval and military force to attack Dilwar, a fortified village which was the headquarters of the hostile Tangistanis.

7. On August 8th, Bushire was occupied by a British force without opposition.

8. A naval squadron under the command of Captain D. St. A. Wake, R.N., arrived off Dilwar on August 10th, but weather conditions were unfavourable for landing operations until August 13th. On that day, a mixed force composed of troops and a naval landing party, under the command of Major C. E. H. Wintle, successfully disembarked on the beach in the face of opposition by the Tangistanis.

The operation was assisted by the naval guns which made excellent practice and drove the enemy inland.

9. Several actions took place with the tribesmen on August 14th and 15th. Stiff opposition was encountered and the heat was great. As a result of the operations Dilwar fort and village were destroyed and heavy losses were inflicted on the Tangistanis by rifle and machine gun fire, also by shell fire from the ships. Our casualties were comparatively small.

10. The object of the expedition having been successfully accomplished, the force was re-embarked, without interference by the enemy, on the night of August 15th-16th.

11. The combined naval and military expedition against Dilwar is an excellent example of co-operation between the two Services, and it was very creditably carried out by all concerned.

12. On the eastern side of Bushire, a low lying sandy tract joins the "island" to the mainland. This is known as the "Mashileh." It is about 7 miles across to the mainland and the same distance divides the sea which flanks the Mashileh on the north and south. During high tides it is liable to inundation. Along the edge of Bushire Island, overlooking the Mashileh, extends a line of cliffs, much intersected by nullahs and broken ground.

13. During the period under report the British garrison at Bushire maintained an outpost line for the protection of the northern part of the island from attack from the mainland. The eastern section of the outposts lay along the line of cliffs; the southern section extended across the island to the sea on the west side of the island.

14. Tangistani raiding parties frequently crossed the Mashileh at night and attempted to break through the outpost line. Early in September it was reported that they intended to make an attack in force

15. At daybreak on September 9th a patrol from the outposts located a party of enemy in the nullahs at the edge of the Mashileh, at a spot where the Tangistanis had collected a strong force on a previous occasion.

16. On receiving this report, Brigadier-General H. T. Brooking, C.B., commanding the British garrison, immediately made dispositions to attack the enemy in front and to turn their left flank, and for the cavalry to move out on the Mashileh on their line of retreat.

17. After several hours' fighting, the turning attack, commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Lane, 96th Berar Infantry, charged with the bayonet

The enemy, some 600 strong, broke and fled across the Mashileh. The cavalry then charged them in the open, and our guns shelled them across the Mashileh until they were out of range.

18. Throughout the period of his command at Bushire, General Brooking dealt with an awkward situation in a most capable manner. On the occasion of the action of September 9th, thanks to his energetic and skilful command, the Tangistanis were defeated and lost heavily before they had time to deliver a serious attack.

19. In this action, the bravery and endurance of the troops in most trying heat, which claimed several victims, was most commendable.

A landing party of the Royal Navy afforded valuable assistance.

The charge by a squadron of the 16th Cavalry, led by Major W. H. Pennington, 12th Cavalry, in which both British officers and half of the Indian officers lost their lives, was a most gallant affair.

20. I append a list of names of those specially brought to notice in connection with the operations at Bushire and Dilwar.

I have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient servant,

JOHN NIXON, General,

DESPATCHES ON OPERATIONS OF THE TSINGTAU EXPEDITIONARY FORCE.

[Despatch No. 1.]

From Brigadier-General N. W. Barnardiston, M.V.O., to the War Office.
Investing Line before Tsingtau, 9th October, 1914.

SIR,—

I have the honour to report that the force under my command embarked at Tientsin on the 19th September in the hired transports "Kwang Ping," "Shao Shing" and "Shuntien," and, escorted from Taku Bar by H. M. S. "Triumph" and the torpedo-boat destroyer "Usk," arrived at Wei-hai-wei at 2-15 P.M. on 20th September.

The number of mules necessary to complete our requirements in transport, which had been purchased by Captain Knaggs, Indian Army, were there embarked, that officer offering valuable assistance both there and also on disembarkation at Lao Shan Bay.

The ss. "Shenking," chartered by the Naval Authorities as a hospital carrier, for conveyance of sick and wounded to Wei-hai-wei, joined us, and the whole left at 4-0 P.M. on 21st September.

Before leaving, I inspected the arrangements made by Captain House, R.N., and Fleet-Surgeon Clarke, on the hospital carrier, and also on shore for the reception of the sick and wounded. These two officers, especially the last named, deserve the greatest credit for the excellent arrangements made to meet all our requirements.

Lao Shan Bay was reached at 2 P.M. on 22nd September, and arrangements were made with H. M. S. "Triumph," the Japanese Navy and the Military Disembarkation Authorities for the disembarkation of the Force on the following day.

Accordingly, on 23rd September, the 2nd Bn. South Wales Borderers, disembarked at 8 A.M., followed by stores, ponies, mules and carts, &c. The men worked hard and cheerfully at landing and stacking stores, &c., and the entire disembarkation was accomplished by 6 A.M. on 24th September, with the exception of Base stores not immediately required, which were left on board the ss. "Kwang Ping" in anticipation of a change of Base to Sha-tzu-kou Bay, within about 10 miles of the lines of investment.

The 24th September was spent in transferring stores from landing place to Base Supply Depôt.

I sent Major H. G. Pringle, General Staff, to Chimo, to ascertain the wishes of the Japanese Commander-in-Chief, who, I was informed, had just arrived at that place.

I despatched Captain C. D. Hamilton Moore, D.A.A. and Q.M.G., to reconnoitre two roads over the Lao Shan Range, by which I thought I could move the force towards the left of the line of investment, which would be the most convenient position for purposes of supply, as my transport was only sufficient to carry 4 days' rations.

One of these roads was found to be quite unsuitable and the other only possible with a complete reorganisation of the transport, using pack mules or coolies over the worst parts of the Pass, and man-handling such carts as were necessary for use on the further side.

I was prepared to make this reorganisation if necessary.

On arrival, however, on the 25th, at Pu-li, about six miles from Lao Shan Bay, I learned that the Japanese Commander wished to use the Force under my command in the centre of the line, and he desired me, therefore, to march viâ Chimo and Liuting towards Litsun.

I also gathered that the Japanese plan of operations was to advance south from Chimo on 27th and 28th, and to attack on 29th and 30th the German advanced line, extending from Prince Henry Hill to Ku Shan, in order that siege material might be brought up to bombard the main position in front of Tsingtau.

To comply with the wishes of the Japanese Commander implied a very heavy strain on my transport, and probably very short rations, as it implied a line of communications nearly 40 miles in length, over a single, bad narrow and congested road, or rather track.

It was essential, however, to make the effort, and I decided to do so, even if we had to exist on half rations.

On the 26th September the Force marched to Chimo, about 13 miles where it arrived at 11-30 A.M., the transport arriving later in the afternoon, and a convoy of supplies from the Base about 11 P.M., after experiencing the greatest difficulties, owing to the blocked roads.

I consider that the officers and others concerned deserved the greatest credit for accomplishing what seemed an almost insuperable task, and I desire specially to bring to notice the excellent services rendered by Captain Don, Indian Supply and Transport Corps.

To the men, the marches, although not long, were very trying, owing to the constant halts and checks owing to the road being blocked by Japanese artillery and transport, but, with the exception of a few cases of fever, no men fell out.

On arrival at Chimo my supply difficulties were greatly lessened by the offer of the Japanese military authorities to use their transport for the purpose of establishing an advanced supply depot at Chimo, from which point our own transport would be able to work forward to the refilling point.

On the 27th the force moved on about 9 miles to Liuting and halted. I rode on to Divisional Headquarters, where I was received very cordially by Lieutenant-General Kamio, the Japanese Commander-in-Chief, who gave me an outline of the following day's operations, in which we were to take part.

On the 28th, in accordance with his orders, the force proceeded towards Litsun with a view of participating in the attack on the German advanced position, which was then being reconnoitred by the Japanese troops.

The Germans holding the position retired, however, before the Japanese advanced troops who occupied the position which it was General Kamio's intention to have assaulted on the following night and morning.

The force under my command was therefore not engaged, and marched on to a village about 2½ miles in rear of the Japanese line, where it bivouacked.

This position, however, proved to be unsuitable, as we were exposed to the enemy's artillery fire, luckily without suffering any casualties; but on the 30th September I moved the force to the reverse slopes of a hill about 1 mile to the eastward of our former position, where the men were under cover, and were able to make splinter-proof shelters.

I have, &c.,

N. W. BARNARDISTON, Brigadier-General, Commanding Tsingtau Expeditionary Force.

Investing Lines before Tsingtau,
29th October, 1914.

Sir,—

In continuation of my despatch dated 9th instant, I have the honour to report that on the 10th instant I received orders from the Japanese Commander to the effect that the Force under my command was to take its place in the front line of the investing force, a front of about 600 yards being assigned to us.

Accordingly, on the 11th instant I directed the Officer Commanding 2nd Bn., South Wales Borderers, to take up, with 2 companies, a line running approximately north-west and south-west through a point a little north of Point 177 on Shuang Shan furnishing two piquets with their supports and a local reserve. The remaining companies of the 2nd Bn., South Wales Borderers, were distributed in such nullahs, south of Huang-Chia-Ving, as afforded the best cover from shell fire.

2. The range of heights forming the position of the line of investment south of that village, with their underfeatures, is intersected by numerous deep ravines of clay, excellent for protection and accommodation in dry weather. In wet weather, however, such as we have been unfortunately experiencing, the loose soil is washed away, the sides of the nullahs fall in, carrying with them the shelters for the troops; every valley becomes a torrent and every road or track a mass of deep mud. Cover for the men both from fire and weather becomes impossible. The men have been soaked through and through for as much as 48 hours, and equipment has been buried by falls of earth, and ammunition has rusted, but in spite of all hardships and privations the spirits and health of the troops have been excellent, and they have worked continuously at digging and at the heavy fatigue work of carrying rations and ammunition and heavy beams for head cover 1½ miles to the front where wheeled traffic has been impossible—often in liquid mud halfway up to the knees.

3. By degrees, and as I can obtain space, I am moving the rear companies up towards the front line preparatory to the attack on the fortress. Considerable delay has taken place in the preparations of the Japanese owing to heavy rains, but I learned yesterday that the bombardment will commence on the 31st instant.

4. The health of the troops, notwithstanding the hard work and trying weather, is most satisfactory.

5. The line of investment we now hold extends from Kiao-Chau Bay to the sea, running approximately through Kushan, 119 degrees 21 minutes, 36 degrees 8 minutes (Lat. 36° 8′ N. Long. 119° 21′ E.), the high ground south of Chia-Lien-Kow to Foushan (Prince Henry's Hill).

The following is a summary of the order for the attack on the fortress, so far as concerns the British Force :—

The whole of the enemy's main line of defence will constitute the front of attack. All arrangements are calculated for a deliberate advance, but any opportunity of attacking which presents itself will be seized upon.

The front of attack is divided into four sections, the right central section being assigned to the force under my command. One front of about 600 yards is roughly bounded by two parallel lines running north-east and south-west—the right flank line passing through Tashan, 119 decrees 22 minutes, 36 degrees 7 minutes (36° 7′ N. 119° 22′ E.), village and Point 375, 372? the left, the north-west corner of Ho-Hsi and the eastern corner of Tiu Tung-Chien (Tai Tung Chen ?).

To-morrow the line of investment will be advanced to a line running through Kushan, Shvang-Shan, 119 degrees 6 minutes, 36 degrees 6 minutes (36° 6' N. 119° 6' E.), Tung-Wu-Chia-Tsun, Tien-Chia-Tsun, Hsin-Chia-Chuang in the construction of which working parties from each section are employed daily and nightly.

When the bombardment begins, the Infantry and Engineers of the front line will prepare for the subsequent advance, and during the night of the 1st November will occupy a line through the high ground west of Han-Chia-Chuang, and south of Tung-Wu-Chia-Tsun, and north of Fou-Shan-So—also that village.

The first position of attack will be prepared on this line, and during the first two or three nights will be strengthened, communicating trenches completed, and preparations made for the next advance.

The second position of attack will be strongly constructed, approximately on the line Pump Stratton, Hsi-Wu-Chia-Tsun, the high ground east of Kang-Chia-Chuang and the ridge west of Fou-Shan-So, and in this position preparations will be made for the destruction of obstacles and the subsequent approach.

The main portion of the seige artillery will first fix on the enemy's forts and the remainder against his war vessels. Subsequently, as the first line advances, this portion of the artillery will fire on the enemy's redoubts

Co-operation with the Navy is arranged for.

6. I am collecting 12 days' supplies at a suitable place in rear of the advanced position to provide against the eventuality of its being found impossible, in this very difficult country, to bring them up during the bombardment. A suitable place for my Brigade Ammunition Reserve, about 2 miles in rear of the first position of attack, has been selected.

The field Hospital has been established at Che-Chia-Hsia-Chuang, about half-way between Litsun-Erh-Shan and Prince Henry Hill, and dressing stations have been arranged for in nullahs in rear of the front line.

7. The half battalion of the 36th Sikhs under command of Lieutenant-Colonel E. L. Sullivan disembarked at Lao-Shan Bay on the 22nd instant and arrived yesterday at the front.

[Despatch No. 3.]

From Brigadier-General N. W. Barnardiston, M.V.O., to the War Office

Tsingtau,

10th November, 1914.

SIR,—

I have the honour to report the successful conclusion of this Expedition in the surrender of Tsingtau on the 7th instant.

The operations in which the force under my command have taken part proceeded as outlined in my Despatch No. 2, dated 29th October.

The advanced position indicated in that despatch was occupied on the 30th October. The bombardment commenced on the 31st, the enemy not replying to any great extent. During the first day some oil tanks and coal stores near the dockyard were burnt, and the forts and redoubts suffered severely. Throughout the bombardment the practice of the Japanese artillery was surprisingly good, and the accuracy of their fire and their numerical superiority in guns no doubt proved the principal factor in compelling the enemy's surrender. It is stated that the Germans expended all their gun ammunition. The bombardment continued with slight intermission until the fall of the place.

On the 1st November the First Position of attack (see my Despatch No. 2) was occupied, and the preparation of the Second Position commenced. This position was ready for occupation on the 3rd instant, but owing to its location in the immediate vicinity of the bed of the river, it was impossible to drain it or to occupy it permanently, and as it was everywhere under close infantry fire from the First Position, I merely held it during the night with piquets.

On the night of the 4th November somewhat heavy artillery fire was directed on our trenches, the 36th Sikhs losing 2 Sepoys killed and 2 officers wounded, while the 2nd Battalion, South Wales Borderers, had also several casualties.

On the 5th November I was ordered to prepare a Third Position of attack on the left bank of the river. This line was to a great extent enfiladed on both flanks by Nos. 1 and 2 Redoubts, especially the latter, from which annoying machine-gun fire was experienced.

The bed of the river (a small stream running over a broad bed of sand) had also to be crossed, and in doing so the working parties of the 2nd Battalion, South Wales Borderers, suffered somewhat severely, losing 8 non-commissioned officers and men killed and 24 wounded. The 36th Sikhs had only slight losses. Notwithstanding this a good deal of work was done, especially on the right flank.

I considered it my duty to represent to the Japanese Commander-in-Chief the untenable nature, for permanent occupation, of the portion of the Third Position in my front, but received a reply that it was necessary for it to be held in order to fit in with the general scheme of assault.

On the evening of the 6th, accordingly, I occupied it with piquets, and the working parties continued to improve it.

During the night, on hearing rumours of the evacuation of one or more of the redoubts, I sent out officer's patrols to ascertain if the enemy were still holding the trenches in front of us, and prepared to advance should the front be clear. They were met, however, with rifles and machine-gun fire, and reported that No. 2 Redoubt, on our left, was still held.

Between 5 and 6 a.m. on the morning of the 7th, the enemy started a further cannonade for field artillery and an occasional shot from their heavy guns, and I issued preparatory orders for an advance as soon as I knew the redoubts were captured. At 7 a.m. all firing ceased, and I was informed that the enemy had sent out a flag of truce. About 7-30 a.m. I received orders to advance, and the enemy along the whole of our front having then retired, I marched into Tsingtau.

The troops under my command have behaved extremely well under trying conditions of weather and those inseparable from siege warfare, and all ranks have worked loyally and hard.

I propose in a subsequent despatch to bring to your notice those who have merited special mention.

The total casualties in the force up to the present date are given in the annexure to this despatch.

Fourth Supplement dated the 31st May 1916, to the "London Gazette" of the 30th May 1916, pages 5419, 5420, 5421, 5422, 5423, 5424, 5425, 5426, 5427, 5428, 5429, 5430, 5431, 5432, 5433 and 5434.

War Office,

31st May, 1916.

The following Despatch has been received by the Secretary of State for War from Major-General Sir Charles M. Dobell, K. C. B., Commanding the Allied Forces in the Cameroons:—

General Headquarters, Cameroons,

1st March 1916.

MY LORD,—

I have the honour to forward herewith a summary of the operations carried out by the Allied force under my command, covering the period between the capitulation of Duala, 27th September 1914, and the termination of active operations.

I have, in this despatch, endeavoured to maintain a correct perspective, remembering that our operations in this theatre of war are incomparable in magnitude to those taking place elsewhere. For purposes of comparison I may, however, add that the number of troops of both nations at my immediate disposal at the commencement of the campaign amounted to 4,300 West African native soldiers; on the 21st November 1915, this number had been increased to 9,700, including Indian troops. In these numbers the British and French forces were approximately equal.

As your Lordship is aware, I have kept the proper authorities informed in some detail as to the proceedings and progress of the troops under my command. These despatches I have endeavoured to forward at intervals of about a fortnight; I do not, therefore, propose to enlarge on such questions as the organization and preparation of the force placed at my disposal, nor the naval measures that were taken in a campaign to which the adjective "amphibious" may be applied in its widest sense. It is perhaps sufficient to state I fully realized that the conquest of a country which is some 306,000 square miles in area, or roughly one and a half times the size of the German Empire, defended by a well-led and well-trained native force plentifully supplied with machine guns, was no light task.

2. On my passage from the United Kingdom early in September, 1914, I learnt at various ports of call that the operations which had taken place on the Nigerian frontier had not been as successful as had been anticipated, thus confirming my opinion that Duala, the capital and chief port of the Cameroons, must be made my immediate objective. I entertained no doubts as to the ability of the Royal Navy to overcome the difficulties and make a landing at Duala feasible, and my best hopes were realised when I was informed that H.M.S. "Challenger" could force a passage through the sunken wrecks and other obstructions in the Cameroon River, and reach a point 7,000 yards from the town. This was made possible owing to the mine sweeping and other preparatory work which had been carried out by the Royal Navy and Nigeria Marine, under the direction of Captain Fuller, R.N., H.M.S. "Cumberland".

On my summons for the surrender of the Colony being refused, and after duly notifying the German Commandant of my intention, I ordered a bombardment of the town to commence early on 26th September; this in combination with a land demonstration, made by way of one of the neighbouring creeks, was sufficient to induce the Commandant, on 27th September, to surrender the towns of Duala and Bonaberi, with a small strip of land in their environs. The surrender of Duala secured us a safe and convenient base for the future absorption of German territory; further, the capture of stores, supplies, field guns, and the removal of over 400 German Europeans was a great loss to the German Field Force, whilst the seizure of the large amount of shipping and numerous small craft in the harbour was an inestimable advantage to us.

3. My first object was to consolidate the position already won, and with this object in view an Allied force was allotted the task of clearing the country up to and including the Japoma Bridge, Midland Railway, whilst a British force commenced to make headway towards Maka on the Northern Railway line. Reconnaissances by land and water were carried out with uniformly successful results. I may remark incidentally that neither the climate nor the character of the country favoured the offensive, officers and men were exposed to the most trying conditions—incessant tropical rains, absence of roads or even paths, a country covered with the densest African forest—all contributed to the difficulties with which the troops were faced. Had it not been for the existing railways which formed a line of advance as well as supply, it is difficult to see how progress could have been made.

The country in the immediate vicinity of Duala is perhaps typical of the greater portion of the Cameroons in which my troops have operated, excepting beyond Northern railhead where the country becomes open and, on account of its greater altitude, healthier, but all the coast line, and for some 150 miles inland, one meets the same monotonous impenetrable African forest fringed, on the coast line, by an area of mangrove swamp in varying depth. The zone is well watered by numerous rivers of which the Wuri, Sanaga and Njong present serious military obstacles. Once outside this belt conditions change at once, supplies and live-stock are obtainable, and open grass lands are reached; the one unusual geographical feature is the Cameroon Mountain, some 13,000 feet high, which rises abruptly from the sea, its slopes clothed with valuable plantations, and on which the hill station of Buea, the former administrative capital of the Protectorate, is perched.

4. By the first week in October we had made good the country as far as Maka and the left bank of the Dibamba creek. The Japoma railway bridge, 900 yards in length, was broken in two places, but a fine feat was performed by the French tirailleurs in forcing this passage under a galling rifle and machine-gun fire. The Royal Navy and Royal Marine Light Infantry also materially contributed to this success.

I now judged that I could move a force by the Wuri River on Jabassi, so as to secure Duala from any attack from the north-east; a mixed Naval and Military force, supported by armed craft, was organized and an attack was delivered on 8th October. It is regrettable that this operation was not at first successful, difficult country, novel conditions, and the fact that our native troops encountered machine-gun fire for the first time are contributory causes to failure; nevertheless, it became necessary completely to reorganize the force and repeat the operation, with the result that Jabassi was taken on 14th October. From this place a force was pushed out to Njamtan and the country around Jabassi was cleared of the enemy.

My next objective was Edea, on which place I determined an advance should be made from three directions, two by land and one by river. Strong forces were moved from Japoma and by the Njong River to Dehane, thence by a track towards Edea. The third force proceeded by the Sanaga River; the navigation of this river is most difficult, dangerous bars hinder entrance into its mouth and sand banks obstruct the passage up to Edea. The feat performed by Commander L. W. Braithwaite, R.N., in navigating an armed flotilla on the Sanaga was a remarkable one. Thus the combined movement, outlined above, was entirely successful and Edea was occupied on the morning of 26th October. This result had not been achieved without hard fighting, particularly on the part of the force operating by the line of the railway. It was during the preliminary operations in this undertaking that Lieutenant Child, Director of Nigeria Marine, Commander Gray, and Captain Franqueville, of the French Army, lost their lives through the capsizing of their boat in the surf at the mouth of the Njong River—valuable lives whose losses it was difficult to replace.

5. During the latter half of October the small force under Lieutenant-Colonel Haywood was continuously engaged with the enemy on the line of the Northern Railway, but had made such good progress that I was in a position to arrange for an attack on Victoria, Soppo and Buea. As in previous operations I divided my force, part of which was moved by water to Tiko, part from Susa by Mpundu on the Mungoe River, and the third portion supplied by the Royal Navy and Royal Marine Light Infantry moved by sea to Victoria. The opposition met with cannot be described as serious, but the country was very trying to troops; the energy with which our advantage was pushed appeared to demoralise the Germans, and by the 15th November we had secured Buea, with Soppo and Victoria. We inflicted considerable casualties on the enemy whilst escaping very lightly ourselves.

With the double object of striking an effective blow at the enemy and at the same time relieving the pressure on the southern frontier of Nigeria I decided to clear the whole of the Northern Railway of the enemy, and for this purpose concentrated a force at Mujuka, under command of Colonel Gorges, on 30th November. This force gradually fought its way to the North and reached Nkongsamba (railhead), which was surrendered to us on 10th December. It is worthy of remark that we took two airplanes at this place—the first machines that had ever arrived in West Africa. The advance was continued to Dschang, which was occupied on 3rd January, and the fort destroyed; most of the hostile resistance was met with at the Nkam River, but our columns rarely remained unmolested and experienced difficulties in operating in a class of country totally different to that to which they had by then become accustomed. I decided, as soon as the fort at Dschang had been destroyed, that the place should be evacuated and Nkongsamba, with its outpost at Bare, should be our most advanced position. It was unfortunate that we could not continue to hold Dschang, as our withdrawal gave a false impression to the natives and emboldened the enemy. However, with the troops at my disposal I did not feel strong enough to maintain and supply a post, 55 miles north of railhead, in a difficult and mountainous country.

6. Early in 1915 the situation was as follows:—

British troops holding Duala, the Northern Railway with Bare, Victoria and Dibombe (a defended post south-west of Jabassi).

French troops on the line of the Midland Railway up to and including Edea, which place was partially isolated as one span of the first of the two bridges had been destroyed. A detachment at Kribi was protecting that seaport from land attack.

Ships and armed craft of the Allied Navies had visited the whole of the Cameroons sea board and had established bases for small craft to patrol the rivers where navigable.

By this time approximately 1,000 male Europeans, only 32 of whom were incapable of bearing arms, had been deported for internment in Europe.

Towards the end of 1914 the French, under General Aymerich, and Belgian troops based on French Equatorial Africa, commenced to make their presence felt in the South and South-East, but my force was separated from them by a distance of approximately 400 miles.

In the North an Allied force was fully occupied in observing Mora and Garua.

At and near Ossidinge a small British Force from Nigeria and German forces were in contact.

Notwithstanding the number of troops, British, French and Belgian, in the country it was impossible at this period to co-ordinate their movements, owing to the vastness of the area over which they were scattered and the impossibility of establishing any means of intercommunication between the various Commanders. Furthermore, it was difficult for me to pursue a very active policy, as it was necessary to maintain comparatively strong garrisons in the places already occupied. Posts on our lines of communication were also absorbing troops from my somewhat depleted force, amongst which sickness was beginning to play its part.

7. It was on the 5th January that the German Commander endeavoured to deliver a serious blow to the French force commanded by Colonel Mayer. Two practically simultaneous attacks were made against his force; the first at Kopongo, on the railway, the second at Edea. I had obtained some knowledge of the German Commander's intention, and the post at Kopongo had been slightly augmented, with the happy result that the attack on this point was easily repulsed, but not until the railway and telegraph lines had both been cut and all communication with Edea severed. The troops at Edea had, however, to bear the brunt of a more serious movement. The locality of Edea is by no means easy to defend owing to the proximity of the forest, the scattered nature of the buildings, and inequality of the ground; but so skilfully were the defences devised, and so good was the French marksmanship, that at the termination of the combat the Germans left on the field 23 Europeans dead and 190 native soldiers killed and wounded. The French loss consisted of one European Serjeant and three tirailleurs killed and 11 tirailleurs wounded. A machine gun, number of rifles, ammunition and equipment fell into the French hands. It is significant that this was the first and last occasion on which the Germans attempted an operation of this nature on a comparatively large scale.

Towards the end of January, Lieutenant-Colonel (now Brigadier-General) Cunliffe arrived at Duala on a mission from Lagos, and as a result of a conference it was agreed that a more active prosecution of the campaign in the Northern Cameroons should be undertaken. I detached Major (now Lieutenant-Colonel) W. D. Wright, V.C., a most able officer, from the Staff of the British Contingent under my command and placed his services at the disposal of the Officer Commanding the Allied Forces at Garua. I also arranged with Captain Fuller, R. N., for the despatch of a naval field gun to Yola, viâ the Niger and Benue Rivers, for eventual use against the forts at Garua.

The early days of February were marked by great hostile activity in the neighbourhood of Northern railhead. Lieutenant-Colonel Cockburn, Commanding a battalion of the Nigeria Regiment, had a serious encounter with the enemy at Mbureku on the morning of the 3rd February resulting in the capture of the hostile camp, a large quantity of small-arms ammunition, and equipment. We were, however, unable to reap the full advantage of our success as Lieutenant-Colonel Cockburn was obliged to transfer his force to the neighbourhood of Harmann's Farm, where the Sierra Leone Battalion was engaged with the enemy. During these two incidents we lost nearly 120 native soldiers killed, wounded or missing; but, after we had consolidated our position at Bare, the enemy did not follow up the slight advantage he had gained.

Constant activity during February had failed to gain for us any material advantage to the north of the railway, and there were a series of small incidents which culminated in the second attack by our troops on the points known as Stoebel's and Harmann's Farms on 4th March. I regret that this attack was not successful and we lost some valuable lives, including Major (Lieutenant-Colonel) G. P. Newstead, commanding the Sierra Leone Battalion, and Captain C. H. Dinnen, Staff Captain, an officer of great promise. The enemy must, however, have suffered in a similar degree, as it was later found that he had evacuated his defensive position and retired further north.

During February I received valuable re-inforcements from French and British West African Colonies, and I was enabled to reconstitute my force and place a more homogeneous unit at the disposal of Lieutenant-Colonel R. A. de B. Rose, commanding the Gold Coast Regiment.

8 On the 12th March a mission from French Equatorial Africa, at the head of which was Monsieur Fourneau, Lieutenant-Gouverneur du Moyen Congo, reached Duala. Its object was to invite my co-operation in an immediate advance, in conjunction with the troops under General Aymerich from south-east and east, against Jaunde. Since the occupation of Duala Jaunde had been transformed into the temporary seat of the Colonial Administration. I fully realised the political and strategic importance of Jaunde, but demurred embarking on such an operation at that moment. It was late in the season and the rains were already beginning, besides which the troops I was able to employ were insufficient to ensure success in the absence, of effective co-operation in the immediate vicinity of Jaunde, by the troops under General Aymerich. Owing to the difficulty of communication it was quite unsafe to count on this. However, in view of the great advantage which would follow an early occupation of Jaunde, I consented to co-operate with all my available strength, and the 20th April was fixed as the date on which an advance should be made from the line Ngwe—So Dibanga, on the Kele River. I consequently entrained a British force, commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Haywood, on 7th April, which was to commence a methodical advance in co-operation with the French troops under Colonel Mayer. The forcing of the line of the Kele River and the position at Ngwe, both of which places were obstinately defended, occasioned my troops some losses. I further found it necessary to despatch a force to Sakbajeme to deny the crossing of the Sanaga River at that place to the enemy. It soon became evident that the enemy was withdrawing troops from other and more distant parts of the Colony to resist our further advance.

At midnight 23rd-24th April the blockade of the Cameroons was declared, and every artifice was used to deceive the enemy and incessant and unremitting activity was maintained by the Royal Navy on the coast line, so as to induce the enemy to believe that disembarkation would be made at a point from which a force could be marched on Jaunde. Campo had been occupied by a Naval detachment, and boat patrol of the river as far as Dipikar was maintained.

The advance from the line already mentioned was subsequently postponed till 1st May on which date the French and British columns moved forward to make good Eseka and Wum Biagas, respectively.

The French advance on Eseka was conducted with some difficulty, as broken bridges denied them the use of the railway line for supply trains. Commandant Mechet, who conducted the advance, successfully overcame all difficulties and, after being seriously opposed at Sende, reached Eseka on 11th May.

Turning to the British advance, on 1st May Lieutenant-Colonel Haywood recommenced his march eastwards from Ngwe, and driving in the hostile outposts at Ndupe, on the 3rd May his force was facing the formidable position which the enemy had established on the left bank of the Mbila River at Wum Biagas. We captured the position on 4th May, but not without serious losses in European officers. A warm tribute is due to the bravery and steadiness displayed by our Native troops, and to the pluck and endurance of the European ranks in face of such stubborn resistance.

As previously arranged, the French force at Eseka now moved north and joined the British at Wum Biagas, and Colonel Mayer left Edea to assume command of the Allied expedition. Stores and supplies were pushed forward by road, and a naval 12-pounder gun was despatched to reinforce our artillery.

Owing to the heavy casualties which had occurred in the ranks of the two battalions of the Nigeria Regiment and the inability of Nigeria, owing to the many calls made by General Cunliffe's troops, to supply me with trained soldiers, I decided towards the end of May to establish a training depot at Duala. The recruits were enlisted in Nigeria, and transferred to Duala for training. This proved a great success and by its means 536 soldiers were trained and passed into the ranks.

9. On 11th May I received a message from the Governor-General of French Equatorial Africa, which informed me that the progress of the troops under General Aymerich had not been as rapid as expected, and that as neither Dume or Lomie had been captured, no definite date could be given for the advance from those places. As I realised that the advance on Jaunde, if delayed for any length of time, would be seriously interfered with by the rains, and the sickness among both Europeans and natives, which was already causing me some anxiety, would rapidly increase, I instructed Colonel Mayer to push on with all vigour, in consequence of which he left Wum Biagas on 25th May.

I regret that supply difficulties soon made themselves evident, the country was barren, and with all available carriers and the few motor vehicles at my disposal, at that time only three, I was unable to transport food for Europeans and natives with sufficient rapidity. Handicapped by the almost impenetrable bush and a terrain which afforded many defensive positions the advance became exceedingly slow. At every turn of the road the advance was met by machine-gun fire, so that during the 25th and 26th May only 5 miles was made good. It took two days to force the enemy from Njok. The enemy evidently had received reinforcements and commenced to interfere with our line of communication, which was peculiarly susceptible to attack, while the long convoys of carriers were singularly prone to panic. I received an appeal from Colonel Mayer for reinforcements, as in addition to other disabilities dysentery had broken out in his force. I sent forward such troops as were available and took measures to obtain more carriers from the West African Colonies.

From 31st May till 4th June Colonel Mayer was held up at a position at Matem, which presented more than usual difficulties owing to the swamps, which rendered a turning movement impossible. By the 5th June only 12 miles from Wum Biagas had been made good. About this date Colonel Mayer informed me that owing to sickness, specially amongst Europeans, and to the stubborn resistance, of the enemy, he was of opinion that the further advance of his column on Jaunde was impracticable, and he proposed, pending further instructions, to establish himself on the Puge River, where he could await the approach of General Aymerich's troops. I immediately informed the Governor-General of Equatorial Africa of the situation, adding that unless he had recent news of General Aymerich's advance I should be obliged to withdraw Colonel Mayer's force to the line of the Kele River. On 7th June Governor-General Merlin informed me by telegraph that he had received no further news from the Southern Cameroons. I thereupon decided to withdraw our force to the Ndupe River preparatory to holding a line So Dibanga—Ngwe. A serious attack on one of our convoys of 500 carriers, and the consequent loss of food supplies, decided Colonel Mayer to retire without further delay. During the 16th and 17th June our rearguards were harassed, but never broken, and the enemy suffered considerably in his attacks. I deemed it advisable to send forward a reinforcement of the last troops at my disposal so that the pressure on our withdrawal could be relieved; these troops, after leaving Duala on the morning of the 15th June, bivouacked the following day at Ngui, 35 miles beyond Edea, having completed much of the distance in heavy tropical rains. On the following morning, after resuming their march, they reached Colonel Mayer's column at a most opportune moment during a heavy attack on the rearguard. Not till 28th June did the hostile activity cease, when our posts were firmly established at Ngwe and on the Kele River at So Dibanga. In comparison to the size of our force the casualties were serious, 25 per cent. being either killed or wounded. I regret that this operation was not more fruitful in results, and I fully recognise the fact that Colonel Mayer was not in a position to undertake, singlehanded, an advance on Jaunde, but I had hoped that the pressure that was being brought on the hostile forces in the Southern Cameroons would have had the effect of preventing a concentration against us.

During this period our troops near Northern railhead were not in a position to undertake any serious offensive action.

10. There was now an unavoidable lull in the operations caused by the rains. I seized this opportunity to send as many British officers and non-commissioned officers as possible to the United Kingdom for a few weeks' rest, and I arranged that most of the native troops from Nigeria and the Gold Coast should, in turn, visit their own Colonies. I managed, however, to send detachments to operate near the Njong and Campo Rivers, respectively. A French detachment from Ngwe also carried out a successful reconnaissance in July.

It was on 25th and 26th August, 1915, at a conference which took place at Duala between Governor-General Merlin, General Aymerich and myself, that the plan was decided on by which the Cameroons was eventually conquered.

The fall of Garua, in the north, early in June enabled a British and French force to be set free which could move through the highlands of the Cameroons to the south.

General Aymerich, whose troops were now established at Bertua and Dume, promised definite co-operation, with Jaunde, as before, the objective, whilst a force under Lieut.-Colonel le Meillour moved parallel to the eastern frontier of Muni, and was to cross the Campo River and move in the direction of Ebolowa. It was also arranged that I should show such activity as was possible from Northern railhead so as to assist the British force at Ossidinge in its attempt to link up with other troops from Nigeria, and further that a force should land at Campo and move parallel to the northern frontier of Spanish Guinea.

It was unfortunate that Brigadier-General Cunliffe was unable to attend this conference, but all details were communicated to him, and he was asked to exercise all possible pressure from the north. His role was most admirably carried out.

The arrival of the 5th Light Infantry of the Indian Army strengthened my command, and further reinforcements from French West Africa were promised. The General Officer Commanding at Freetown and the Governors of Nigeria and the Gold Coast agreed to send me the carriers I required and to maintain them by monthly drafts. It was, thanks to these officers, that, in spite of a rather heavy sick roll among carriers, an efficient transport service was maintained throughout. My requirements in motor transport were also met; this service proved invaluable and far exceeded my expectations. Thus by 22nd September preparations were sufficiently far advanced for a move to be made in an easterly direction. Many of the earlier operations were a repetition of those which had taken place in May and June, but the general plan differed in so much that I arranged for the British and French lines of supply to be kept distinct, whilst I also determined that Eseka should be made the French advanced base from which operations could be carried forward to the Jaunde—Kribi road, and that our general advance should be carried out by means of parallel columns by road and railway. Our communications needed much repair, including the total reconstruction of a heavy railway bridge and a deviation necessitating considerable labour on earthwork. Many other smaller bridges were broken or destroyed, those on the road were made fit for heavy traffic, those on the railway were practically rebuilt.

The British force, as previously, experienced stiff resistance at Wum Biagas, but on 9th October that place was captured after a lively action, in which the Nigerian and Gold Coast troops once more distinguished themselves. From here we were enabled to send out flanking columns and render some assistance to the French troops who were fighting their way to Eseka. The Kele River, in flood, proved a formidable obstacle, and its crossing somewhat delayed the British flanking columns sent out from Wum Biagas. Sende was occupied by the French on 25th October, and the enemy was driven from Eseka on 30th October. Considerable rolling stock, left behind after our previous advance, was retaken, and proved a valuable addition to our exiguous supply of engines and wagons. By 23rd November, both British and French forces were ready for the final advance, the bush track from Edea to Wum Biagas had been converted into a good motor road, and through railway communication, Duala—Eseka, was nearing completion. There were also over 7,000 carriers employed on such sections of the communications as were still unfit for motor or rail traffic. Dschang Mangas was selected as the primary objective of the British force, whilst the French were directed to make good the line of the Jaunde—Kribi road. Both forces slightly modified their tactics and the advance was generally carried out by a main body, with two wings moving on as wide a front as the nature of the country permitted. The method of our advance appears to have entirely disconcerted the enemy and, although he still continued strenuously to resist our advance, it became apparent that his strength was gradually becoming exhausted. Towards the end of November the fighting in and around Lesogs by the troops under Lieut.-Colonel Cockburn was of a very severe nature, but the troops from the Northern Provinces of Nigeria gallantly rose to the occasion and, despite all difficulties of the country, were not to be denied in their endeavour to dislodge the enemy. Much credit is due to these troops and their leaders for the admirable conduct of this operation. Ngung was reached on the 30th November, and, up to this place, every defensive position was disputed by the enemy. On 7th December the advance on Dschang Mangas was continued and both main and flank columns were subject to opposition. A well executed move by a small force of the Gold Coast Regiment, under Captain Butler, V. C., considerably disturbed the enemy, the capture of one of his machine guns and several thousand rounds of ammunition, in addition to important documents, produced considerable effect. On 17th December the more open and cultivated country was reached and we took Dschang Mangas.

From 26th November onwards the French were fighting their way through very broken country to Mangeles; they had to face determined opposition and lost a considerable number of European and native soldiers, but their tenacity of purpose was rewarded by the capture of Mangeles on 21st December, after intermittent fighting covering a period of five days. The column halted at this place for rest and to establish a supply depôt.

11. I must now indicate the turn that events had taken beyond Northern railhead. I was informed from Nigeria that the British force at Ossidinge, under Major Crookenden, would be prepared to move on Bamenda on 12th October. I therefore ordered a force consisting of portions of the West African Regiment, 5th Light Infantry, and some artillery, under Lieut.-Colonel Cotton, 5th Light Infantry, to move on Dschang from Bare, also starting on 12th October. Hostile opposition was experienced at Mwu and Nkam Rivers and from an entrenched position at Sanschu. On 6th November Dschang was occupied. On receipt of information that Major Crookenden's force had reached Bamenda on 22nd October I ordered Lieut.-Colonel Cotton to leave a garrison in Dschang and move a force to Bagam to co-operate with Major Crookenden in an attack on that place. The enemy had, however, forestalled us and withdrawn to Fumban, whither we pursued him after experiencing some difficulty in effecting the crossing of the Nun River. On 2nd December the important centre of Fumban was occupied and an abortive effort of the enemy to retake it was frustrated. Brigadier-General Cunliffe, foreseeing the possibility of obstinate resistance at Fumban, had directed two other small columns to co-operate in our movement on that place. These columns arrived almost simultaneously with that under Lieut.-Colonel Cotton. Major Crookenden's troops then continued their advance under Brigadier-General Cunliffe's direction, whilst I placed garrisons in Fumban, Bana and Bagam, and the bulk of Lieut.-Colonel Cotton's troops returned to Railhead. I was thus enabled to withdraw a small force to move from Nkongsamba to Jabassi and penetrate the Bafia country, where I still believed there were small hostile parties. I also was enabled to detach a force to assist the French column operating from Campo. I think I may consider our operations in the Northern area were entirely satisfactory, and the simultaneous advance of our columns took the heart out of the remnants of the enemy forces in that district. Furthermore, we had established touch with Brigadier-General Cunliffe's columns, which were now converging on the Sanaga River, at a point known as the Nachtigal Rapids. Our losses were slight and the health of all ranks was considerably better than that of the troops fighting in the lower altitudes.

12. Reverting to the operations of the main forces. On receiving information that the British force had arrived at Dschang Mangas, I decided that it would be more advantageous to move on Jaunde direct, rather than await the French advance to the Jaunde—Kribi road. In arriving at this decision I was influenced by the fact that the mind of the native does not understand the meaning nor necessity of delay, and from a political point of view the early occupation of Jaunde appeared to be all important. From 22nd December, the hostile resistance gradually weakened, strongly entrenched positions were abandoned, and on the morning of the 1st January Colonel Gorges entered Jaunde with his force. The enemy appeared to have completely broken under the pressure which he was now experiencing from all sides. Allied troops from the north, troops from French Equatorial Africa and the Belgian Congo commenced to arrive in Jaunde during the first week of January. It is, I think, a remarkable feat that troops that had fought and marched for a period of seventeen months should have converged on their objective within a few days of one another.

The direct effect of the occupation of Jaunde was to relieve all pressure in front of the French force advancing from Mangeles, the Jaunde—Kribi road being reached early in January. British and French forces were moved during the first week in January to Widemenge and in the direction of Ebolowa viâ Olama and Onana Besa crossings of the Njong River. At Kol Maka, Lieut.-Colonel Haywood succeeded in securing the release of officers, non-commissioned officers, civilian and native non-combatants who had been taken prisoners by the Germans at various times during the war; his force, supported by a strong French column, continued its advance on Ebolowa, on which place a second Allied column was also advancing. A French force under Lieut.-Colonel Faucon occupied Ebolowa on 19th January, after experiencing some slight resistance. The definite move of the remnants of the German forces towards Spanish territory now became apparent, and Lieut.-Colonel Haywood proceeded with all despatch to follow them up as far as Nkan, from which place I diverted him viâ Efulen on Kribi, in order to clear the western area of stragglers. A British force was also moved to Lolodorf.

Colonel Morrison took command of a strong French force, and moving towards the Spanish frontier, succeeded in driving the German force in front of him across the Campo river into neutral territory. A similar operation was conducted by the French force which had operated from Campo, so that by the middle of February no Germans were left in the Cameroons, and the conquest of the country had been completed.

13. To that able soldier, Colonel Mayer, C.B., French Colonial Infantry, I desire to express my deep indebtedness, not alone for the skilled leading of his troops, but also for the clear and practical manner in which he handled the numerous perplexing problems with which he was confronted. I also desire to bring to Your Lordship's notice the name of Capitaine de Génie Chardy; without the assistance of this talented officer it is difficult to imagine how the repair and maintenance of the Chemin de Fer du Centre could have been carried out. To Capitaine Chardy and his subordinates I desire to tender my warmest thanks.

Capitaine André Charvet, of the French Colonial Infantry, served on my staff for the first year of the war; owing to the depletion in the European ranks of the French force I reluctantly surrendered his services to Colonel Mayer, an action which deprived me of the immediate services of an officer of whose military talent I had formed the highest opinion.

To the battalion and battery commanders and all the leaders in the ranks of our Allies I desire to express my grateful appreciation for the skill, energy and perseverance with which they led their troops. I desire also to pay a just tribute to the Senegalese soldiers, whose salient characteristics are extreme bravery in battle and great cheerfulness in all and every circumstance.

To the officers, petty and non-commissioned officers and men of the Allied Navies, the Royal Marine Light Infantry and Nigerian Marine, I desire to express my admiration of their unremitting and incessant toil. I am not overstating the fact when I say that without their assistance by sea, creek and land, the military forces of the Allies could not have accomplished the task which lay before them. Where so many have done such admirable work it is difficult for me to make an impartial selection, but I desire specially to bring to Your Lordship's notice the valuable services rendered by Capitaine de Vaisseau Carré, who has been Senior Naval Officer during the last eight and a half months of the operations. He has had no light task in handling the many questions connected with the naval side of the campaign; also the name of Captain Cyril T. M. Fuller, C.M.G., R.N., an officer who combines in one personality administrative ability and qualities of leadership of a high order.

The troops of the West African Frontier Force, with whom I happily was closely connected in peace, have realised my fullest expectations. To them no day appears to be too long, no task too difficult. With a natural aptitude for soldiering, they are endowed with a constitution which inures them to hardship; they share with their Senegalese brothers an inexhaustible fund of good humour.

I cannot overlook the good work that has been performed by the West African carrier; patient and amenable, he has borne his full share in our arduous task.

As regards my Staff, I am desirous of bringing to special notice the names of Major (temp. Lieut.-Colonel) J. Brough, C.M.G., M.V.O., Royal Marine Artillery, and Captain R. H. Rowe, Royal Artillery. Lieut.-Colonel Brough has rendered valuable service as a General Staff Officer during the whole of the operations, more especially so since November last, when he assumed duty, as Senior Staff Officer of the expedition, from temp. Lieut.-Colonel A. J. Turner, D.S.O., Royal Artillery, who was obliged to return to England on account of ill-health, after performing much useful work.

During these latter months the duties connected with this appointment have been of a more responsible and exacting nature than previously, but they have invariably been performed by Lieut.-Colonel Brough with the greatest credit to himself and to my entire satisfaction. Captain Rowe, in his appointment as Deputy Assistant Adjutant and Quartermaster-General, has had a more onerous task than that which usually falls to a junior officer, even in war. His tact, ability and powers of organisation single him out as one of the most promising officers I have met in West Africa.

Of those officers whose names I bring to Your Lordship's notice for distinguished and meritorious service I am anxious to give particular prominence to Brevet Lieut.-Colonel J. B. Cockburn, Royal Welsh Fusiliers, and Major (temp. Lieut.-Colonel) A. H. W. Haywood, D.S.O., Royal Artillery. Both these officers, in their capacity as battalion or column commanders, have experienced the brunt of the hard fighting which has fallen to the British force. In no case has their judgment or discretion been at fault, and I am greatly indebted to them.

To the services controlled by the Royal Engineers have fallen a very large share in the successful prosecution of the campaign, and my thanks are due to Colonel C. Pery, Royal Engineers, and Major F. L. N. Giles, D.S.O., Royal Engineers: the latter officer, as senior officer, Royal Engineers, for the first nine months of the operations, laid the foundation of that sound organisation which has proved so valuable throughout. Colonel Pery joined the expedition in June 1915, on appointment as Chief Engineer and Director of Works, and the work of the department has been subsequently carried out by him in a most efficient manner. It is, perhaps, the highest compliment I can pay these officers and their corps when I say that in the Cameroons, as elsewhere, the officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of the Royal Engineers have nobly upheld their best traditions.

The maintenance of a signal service, which has been in the hands of Major Giles in his capacity as Assistant Director of Army Signals, has, under the conditions in which we have been situated, been fraught with unusual difficulties—almost too numerous to mention—but the rapidity of communication has been kept up with great accuracy, and almost as quickly as under peace conditions. I do not think I exaggerate when I state that I could not have controlled numerous and widely separated columns without such satisfactory and ingenious means of communication as have been instituted here.

To Captain D. Wallbach, as Deputy Assistant Director of Supply and Transport, and to Lieutenant G. E. H. Migeod, who subsequently succeeded him, and to those who worked under them, I desire to give a special word of praise for the readiness with which they have overcome the many difficulties with which they have been confronted in organising, in a most efficient manner, the supply and transport services of the expedition.

In all operations in West Africa such as I have described the work of the Medical Service is of a peculiarly onerous nature. To Lieut.-Colonel J. C. B. Statham, C.M.G., Royal Army Medical Corps, and those officers and non-commissioned officers of his corps, as well as to the officers of the West African Medical Staff, the Sisters of the Nursing Service, and all subordinate ranks down to the native stretcher-bearer, I express a deep tribute of gratefulness for their unremitting care of the sick and wounded. Their actions have been stamped with a contempt for life in their endeavour to save that of others.

I have received much valuable assistance in dealing with the problems of administering conquered territory from Mr. W. F. Gowers, of the Nigeria Civil Service, and those officers of the Civil Departments of the Allies who have been associated with him.

I cannot conclude this despatch without placing on record my great obligation to the Governor-General of Nigeria, the Governors of the Gold Coast, Sierra Leone and the Gambia, as well as to Major-General J. F. Daniell, commanding troops West Africa. My demands have been numerous, insistent, and unusual, but all have been met without hesitation and in a hearty spirit of co-operation. The West African Colonies have been denuded both in personnel and material, and their resources have been considerably strained to fulfil my requirements.

I have the honour to be,

Your Lordship's most obedient Servant.

Colonial Office,
31st May, 1916.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies has received from the Governor-General of Nigeria the following report covering a despatch from Brigadier-General Cunliffe, C.M.G., on the military operations in the Northern Cameroons :-

Government House, Nigeria.
23rd March, 1916.

SIR,—In accordance with your instructions I have the honour to transmit a consecutive account by Brigadier-General Cunliffe, C. M. G., of the operations of the Nigerian and Allied Forces on the eastern frontiers of Nigeria and in the northern part of the Cameroons, from the outbreak of hostilities in August 1914, to their completion, by the conquest of the Cameroons, in February, 1916.

2. Early in 1915 I learnt from Major-General Dobell that the heavy task in which he was engaged in the south precluded as (indeed was manifest) the possibility of controlling the operations on the Nigerian frontier and in the north, with which he had no means of communication. I accordingly directed Colonel Cunliffe, Commandant of the Nigeria Regiment, to take command of these operations.

3. I have already reported to you—but it is appropriate that I should repeat it here—my appreciation of the way in which this campaign has been conducted by Brigadier-General Cunliffe. He truly says in his report that the efficiency—and I may almost add the gallantry—of the rank and file of our native troops is measured by the personnel of their leaders. They are capable, as they have proved, of undergoing privations and of performing feats of gallantry which will compare with those of any of the troops of His Majesty's Oversea Dominions, if led by officers whom they know and in whom they have confidence.

In the operations here recorded there were many such officers, but there was none who evoked the highest enthusiasm and confidence alike of British officers and native troops in the same degree as General Cunliffe himself, and it is in my judgment due to his own personality—aided by the sound judgment of his Staff Officer, Colonel Wright, V. C.—that the unbroken success of these operations is alone to be attributed.

4. There would be no need for me to invite the attention of any expert reader of this report to the extraordinary precision with which in a series of operations a number of columns converged on their objective, and the strategical skill with which position after position was rendered untenable to the enemy without heavy sacrifice by our troops, were it not that the report hardly gives an adequate impression of the difficulties of the country traversed. General Cunliffe advanced over 600 miles of mountainous country, intersected by deep ravines and tropical rivers swollen by the hardly finished rainy season. At Banyo and elsewhere were positions of almost impregnable natural strength, reinforced by German military science—his line of communication finally extended over a distance of 400 miles.

5. In spite of my desire to be terse I cannot refrain from adding that, so far as I can ascertain, the high traditions of the Force were maintained in relation to the native populations. Among the large number of troops and carriers looting and ill-treatment of the people was unknown.

6. General Cunliffe has submitted a list of officers and men whose conduct merits special recognition and reward, and I trust that his recommendations will be liberally considered. I have at the same time to bring his own services under your consideration and that of the Army Council, and to point out that he personally led his troops in the field throughout this difficult campaign.

I have, etc.,

(Signed) F. D. LUGARD,

Governor-General.

The Right Honourable

A. Bonar Law, M.P., P.C.,

Secretary of State for the Colonies,

Etc., etc., etc.

Headquarters, Nigeria Regiment,

Lagos, 16th March, 1916.

YOUR EXCELLENCY,—With the occupation of Jaunde on the 1st January 1916, by the troops under the command of Major-General C. M. Dobell, C.M.G., D.S.O., the task assigned to the Allied Forces in the Northern Cameroons, which it has been my privilege to command since the 5th February 1915, was practically completed.

The task was, briefly, to clear the enemy from that portion of the German Cameroons, which lies between Lake Chad to the north and the Nachtigal Rapids on the Sanaga River to the south, while the Allied Force under Major-General Dobell and the French forces under General Aymerich were converging on Jaunde from the west and east respectively.

When Jaunde fell to General Dobell the only point north of the Sanaga River which still remained in German hands was the mountain of Mora, and the garrison of that place surrendered on the 18th February.

2. I have now the honour to report as follows upon the operations of the various forces under my command :—

As Your Excellency is aware, I was not on the outbreak of war in August 1914, commanding the troops in Nigeria, but it will be necessary, in order to make this report clear, to commence with a short summary of the military events which had taken place on the Nigeria-Cameroons frontier between the date of the declaration of war and that on which I assumed control of the operations on or near the frontier.

3. On the outbreak of war, then, three columns drawn from the Nigeria Regiment were concentrated near the German frontier.

(i) The Maidugari Column at the place of that name, under the command of Captain (now Major) R. W. Fox, Royal Warwickshire Regiment.

(ii) The Yola Column at the place of that name, under the command of the late Lieutenant-Colonel P. Maclear, Royal Dublin Fusiliers.

(iii) The Cross River Column at Ikom, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel G. T. Mair, D.S.O., R.A.

4. Soon afterwards it became known that His Majesty's Government had, in conjunction with the French Government, decided to send an Allied Overseas expedition against Duala, and three battalions of Infantry (consisting of four companies each) and two batteries of Artillery (eight 2·95 inch guns), together with appropriate medical personnel drawn from the West African Medical Staff, and Marine, Engineer, Telegraph, Railway, Supply and Transport Sections drawn from the various civil departments in Nigeria, were held in readiness to embark at various Nigerian ports to take part in this expedition.

5. The role of the three frontier columns was henceforth to be confined to one of local activity, with the object of gaining information of the enemy's movements, and distracting his attention from our main objective—Duala.

6. The undertakings of these frontier columns were attended by misfortune at the outset. The Maidugari Column, having crossed the frontier on 25th August, encountered an enemy force in an almost impregnable position in the mountains near Mora, whence it was unable to dislodge them. After suffering some casualties, this column took up a position to the south of Mora with the object of preventing the enemy there from joining hands with the German garrison at Garua.

Here the British Column was joined, on the 13th October 1914, by a French force, based on Fort Lamy and under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Brisset, who had succeeded at the second attempt in capturing Kusseri on 25th September 1914.

7. The Yola Column crossed the frontier on 25th August. The mounted infantry, after a sharp fight, drove a party of the enemy from the village of Tepe. Our losses were, however, heavy.

The column continued its march on Garua, which place was attacked on the night of 30th-31st August. The attack failed, and, after suffering heavy losses, the whole force was compelled to fall back on Yola.

8. The advance troops of the Cross River Columns holding Nsanakang were, on the 6th September, suddenly attacked by a largely superior German force brought hurriedly from Duala, and, in spite of a most gallant resistance, were practically annihilated, only two officers and some ninety native rank and file escaped by forcing their way through the enemy at the point of the bayonet.

The German losses in personnel were even heavier than our own.

9. The immediate effect of the reverses suffered by the Yola and Cross River Columns was to reduce by one battalion of infantry and four guns the number of Nigerian troops to be put at the disposal of Major-General Dobell for the expedition against Duala.

10. The Yola and Cross River Columns were reorganised, the defences of Yola were strengthened, and the troops there placed temporarily under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel W. I. Webb-Bowen, Middlesex Regiment, but the frontier columns had to confine themselves for the time being to the task of containing before them the largest possible force of Germans in order to facilitate the operations under Major-General Dobell (who had, on 28th September 1914, established himself at Duala and Bonaberi), as well as the advance into the Cameroons of the French Columns under General Aymerich, based on the French Congo.

11. The last quarter of 1914, therefore, found the various frontier columns engaged in an active defence of our own territory. On several occasions enemy raids penetrated into the Muri Province, but none of these achieved any appreciable success.

One such attempt on the part of the enemy is worthy of mention here.

On the 17th September 1914, two British officers (Lieutenant B. E. Waters, R.N., and Major A. E. Churcher) with 57 Police were attacked at Takum by one German company with three Europeans and a machine gun. The fight continued from 11-30 A.M. till 5-30 P.M., when the enemy were finally repulsed and forced to beat a rapid retreat.

12. By 29th January 1915, the general situation was as follows:—

The Allied force under Major-General Dobell was holding the whole of the Northern Railway as well as the Midland Railway as far as Edea.

The French columns under General Aymerich had made some progress in their advance into the German Colony from the east and south-east.

In the north Mora still held out.

A French force under Lieutenant-Colonel Brisset had joined Lieutenant-Colonel Webb-Bowen's column, and was watching Garua from the east.

The Original Cross River Column, which had been reinforced after Nsanakang, was holding Ossidinge, to which place Lieutenant-Colonel Mair had been withdrawn after he had advanced between 25th December 1914, and 8th January 1915, in the face of very considerable opposition as far as Tinto. A smaller column under Major G. D. Mann, R.A., based on Ibi, was watching the frontier from Takum to Karbabi in the Muri Province.

13. On this date I went to Duala to confer with Major-General Dobell. There it was decided that the time had arrived when it would be of assistance to the general Allied plan if energetic action was taken in the Northern Cameroons.

14. On the 5th February I returned to Lagos, and in accordance with your instructions I left for Yola on the 15th, attended by Major (now Lieutenant-Colonel) W. D. Wright, V.C., as my Chief of Staff, to take command of all the Allied Forces in the Northern Cameroons, and to direct the operations of the Cross River and Ibi columns.

15. My first objective was to take Garua and prevent the German forces uniting with those further south on the Ngaundere Plateau, after which I hoped to move southward and co-operate with the forces under the command of Major-General Dobell and General Aymerich.

16. My information with regard to Garua was that the place was very strongly fortified, and that the German Artillery there could outrange any guns which either Lieutenant-Colonel Brisset or Lieutenant-Colonel Webb-Bowen possessed at the time. Before leaving Duala, therefore, I had made arrangements by which one of H.M.S. "Challenger's" 12-pr. guns, with 500 rounds of ammunition, should be placed at my disposal, while the French authorities had similarly directed that a 95mm. gun should be sent to Lieutenant-Colonel Brisset.

17. The naval gun left Duala on the 2nd February under the command of Lieutenant-Commander L. H. K. Hamilton, R.N., and reached Yola on the 12th March. As the last part of the journey up the River Benue, owing to the dry season, had to be made in canoes, its progress was necessarily somewhat slow.

18. I reached Yola on the 15th March 1915, and there met and discussed the situation with Lieutenant-Colonel Webb-Bowen and Capitaine Ferrandi, Staff Officer to Lieutenant-Colonel Brisset.

19. It was abundantly clear that it would be necessary to concentrate the largest possible British force for the attack on Garua, and also to assemble the French forces, which were at this time somewhat scattered. I therefore withdrew three companies from the Cross River column and one company from the Ibi column, and ordered them to Yola.

This move left the forces on the Eastern frontier somewhat depleted, and I recognised that there was a certain amount of risk of enemy raids on British territory and on my line of communications, the Benue River; that risk had, however, to be faced.

20. From the 12th April to 26th April telegraphic communication between Yola and Lagos was interrupted as the result of an enemy raid which penetrated as far as Mutum Biu, a town close to the Benue, where the Residency was destroyed.

21. On the 18th April I reached the British Camp at Bogole, near Garua, and commenced to extend the investing force to close in the enemy from the south and south-west. The strength of the British and French troops at that time was—

BRITISH.

8 companies infantry.
1 company mounted infantry.
3 guns (including the naval gun).

FRENCH.

3 companies infantry.
1 squadron cavalry.
2 guns.
2 mitrailleuses.

22. On the night of the 21st-22nd April a German force, said to consist of about 9 Europeans and 100 mounted men and 170 infantry, under the command of Hauptmann von Crailsheim, broke out of Garua to the south, passing to the westward of our most westerly detachment. This force was joined about half way between Turua and Ngaundere by some four Europeans and 50 native soldiers from the latter place, and I had every reason to suppose that it was von Crailsheim's intention to escort this reinforcement back to Garua.

The next information received of the party was, however, that it was attacking our small post at Gurin. The attack failed, owing to a most gallant defence, during which the Officer Commanding Gurin was unfortunately killed, and the enemy, by avoiding all roads and making a wonderful march of 28 hours without a halt, succeeded in avoiding the troops I had sent to intercept him, and made his way safely back to Garua.

23. After several reconnaissances I had by this time decided that the line of attack which offered the greatest prospect of success was from the north, and by the 25th May I had concentrated the bulk of the British force secretly at Jamboutu Manga. This concentration took time, owing to the large amount of material and stores to be moved by man transport but it remained unknown to the enemy until 26th May.

24. From the 26th May onwards our outposts were for several days subjected to shell fire from the German guns, but soon after the arrival of the French heavy gun (95mm.) on 28th May the superiority of our artillery begun to be apparent.

The heavy French gun was transported from Lagos to Yola by the Nigeria Marine, a performance of which that Department may well be proud, for the river had fallen considerably.

25. The night of the 30th-31st May found the bulk of the Allied force entrenched 3,000-3,500 yards from the German Fort A.

26. From 31st May to 10th June we pushed forward our advance, entrenching under cover of darkness until on the 10th June we had established a line of trenches with a frontage of about 400 yards within 1,000 yards of Fort A, with an efficient service of communication trenches to the rear.

The question of water-supply was one of considerable difficulty, water having to be carried to the trenches in pots over a distance of two miles.

27. On the night of the 9-10th June the enemy made an attempt to break out to the south, but were met by the fire of a British infantry company at Bilonde, and driven back. A second attempt was made between the infantry company and the mounted infantry company, but the Benue was now in flood, and, although some 45 native rank and file succeeded, by discarding their arms and uniform, in making their escape, a far larger number were drowned—we recovered 70 bodies from the river—and the remainder returned to Garua.

28. At 3-30 p.m. on the 10th June, the enemy native troops having by this time got quite out of hand, the white flag was hoisted in all the forts, and Hauptmann von Crailsheim offered to surrender on terms These were refused, and he was informed that, failing an unconditional surrender within two hours, hostilities would recommence automatically.

29. Garua surrendered unconditionally at 6 p.m. the same day. Garua and its surroundings—naturally strong—had by artificial means been turned into an entrenched camp, which would have done credit to the engineers of an European battlefield.

The Commander, Hauptmann von Crailsheim, acknowledged after the fall that he had employed 2,000 labourers for five months on the construction of the defences.

The amount of personnel and material consisted of:—

37 Europeans.
212 native ranks.
5 guns with 858 shell.
10 maxims.
114,920 rounds small arm ammunition.

In addition also a large quantity of stores of all kinds—tools, medical equipment, etc.

30. Immediately after the fall of Garua it was considered imperative to follow up our success, keep all fugitives on the run, and, most important of all, to seize the northern edge of the Ngaundere plateau without delay, thus anticipating any enemy concentration there and securing a line from which I might later advance to the assistance of the Allied Forces in the Southern Cameroons. With this object in view I directed a force under Lieutenant-Colonel Webb-Bowen from Garua on Ngaundere, giving Lieutenant-Colonel Brisset, who remained at Garua, instructions to reinforce him with the bulk of the garrison of that place, should he appear to be in difficulties.

31. On the 15th June, in order that I might be in direct telegraphic communication with Your Excellency and also with Major-General Dobell at Duala, I moved my headquarters to Yola.

On reaching Yola I further despatched a small force under Captain C. E. Roberts, Northamptonshire Regiment, to Kontscha, Maio Kaleh, and Tschamba.

32. On the 27th June Kontscha and Maio Kaleh were occupied, after slight opposition, the enemy retiring towards Banyo with our mounted infantry in pursuit. There were no casualties on our side.

33. On the 28th June the German outposts holding the steep paths leading up to the edge of the Ngaundere plateau were, in the midst of a terrific tornado, completely surprised and defeated by the advanced guard troops of Lieutenant-Colonel Webb-Bowen's column, under the command of Captain C. H. Fowle, Hampshire Regiment, and Ngaundere itself was occupied the same evening. During the night the enemy garrison returned and attacked the station. This counter-attack—with a loss to us of one native non-commissioned officer and five native soldiers wounded—was driven off and the Germans retired on Tibati.

Soon afterwards Lieutenant-Colonel Brisset, with a force from Garua, arrived at Ngaundere. Lieutenant-Colonel Brisset then pushed reconnaissances towards Kunde and Tibati.

34. At this time I learnt that Major-General Dobell's operations in the south had temporarily been brought to a standstill owing to the rains.

I therefore considered that it would be unwise for the present to push on towards Banyo for, though I recognised the importance of this point, I doubted whether, in the face of a cessation of all active offensive operations in the south by Major-General Dobell, I should be in a position to maintain myself there with the force at my disposal.

35. I therefore decided to content myself for the time being with the occupation of the line Ngaundere-Kontscha-Gashaka.

I accordingly strengthened the Ibi column, placed the troops on the eastern front, except the Cross River column, under the command of Major (now Lieutenant-Colonel) G. D. Mann. R.A., and directed him to occupy Gashaka and establish a strong line of communications to his rear with Ibi, on the Benue.

36. In the meantime, as the rains in the north do not hinder operations to the extent which they do in the south, I determined myself to attempt the reduction of Mora, since, if I could effect this, I should release the investing force to take part in the offensive movement southwards when the time arrived for it to commence.

I understood that I had from August to November in which to accomplish this task.

37. On the 9th August I left Yola and on the 23rd August I arrived at Sava, four miles from Mora mountain, which in the following days I proceeded to reconnoitre.

38. Mora mountain has a base perimeter of about thirty miles, it rises precipitously to a height of 1,700 feet, and its sides, which are so steep as to be accessible only in a few places to men using both hands and feet, are covered with huge boulders, affording excellent cover to the defenders.

39. I eventually decided that my best chance of success lay in launching an attack from a hill called Ouatchke already in our possession, the summit of which is nearly level with, but separated by a deep valley 600 yards wide, from the northern end of Mora mountain, which end goes by the name of Dabascoum.

40. From Ouatchke I made three separate attacks on Dabascoum. The third attack at length succeeded in gaining a footing on the summit, but found further progress barred by a redoubt. A portion of the first Nigeria Regiment attempted to carry this work with the bayonet, but was stopped by fire within 60 yards of the enemy defences. Our men held on to the position they had gained for forty-eight hours without food or water, and after every effort to supply them had failed I was compelled to order a withdrawal. Our casualties included Captain R. N. Pike, Nigeria Political Service, killed, a most gallant officer and fearless leader who had already distinguished himself on several occasions.

41. I now realised that to take Mora two things were indispensable—more artillery ammunition and more time.

Time was unfortunately not at my disposal. On 15th September I learnt by telegram that as a result of a conference which had been held in Duala, and attended by Major-General Dobell, General Aymerich, and M. Merlin (Governor-General of French Equatorial Africa), it had been decided to resume the offensive in the south early in October instead of in November, which I had hitherto believed to be the time appointed.

42. Thus it was I was forced to abandon the Mora enterprise and leaving behind troops equal in numbers to the original investing force, I marched on 17th September with the remainder to Yola, arriving on 26th September.

43. In the meanwhile several minor events had occurred on the Ngaundere-Kontscha-Gashaka line. Captain C. H. Fowle with one company from Ngaundere had occupied Tingere on 23rd July, and had there been counter-attacked by an enemy force of some four Europeans and 150 natives from Tibati. The German attack broke down, and was turned to a rout by one of our native non-commissioned officers leading his section from their trenches in a bayonet charge.

44. Gashaka was occupied on 13th August as a result of the excellent handling of his company by Captain C. G. Bowyer-Smijth, Gloucestershire Regiment, who, after a turning movement lasting 12 hours through most difficult mountainous country intersected by many rivers, succeeded in occupying a hill two miles east of Gashaka.

The enemy fled in all directions, leaving all his property in our hands.

45. It was now my intention to advance to and occupy the line Tibati-Banyo-Bamenda, and with this end in view I issued orders to set the following forces in motion:

(i) The French column (Lieutenant-Colonel Brisset), to move from Ngaundere on Tibati on 15th October.

(ii) Lieutenant-Colonel Webb-Bowen's column, from Tingere on Galim on 15th October.

(iii) One company from Takum on Kentu on 12th October.

(iv) The Cross River column (Major Crookenden, East Kent Regiment), from Ossidinge (leaving a sufficient force to hold that place), viâ Widekum on Bamenda on 12th October.

I asked Major-General Dobell if he could assist this latter move by sending a force from Bare to Dschang on 12th October.

(v) My own advance from Kontscha was timed for 14th October, and Major Mann was ordered to move from Gashaka in time to be in position at Gandua when my main column was at Mba, from which two places the combined advance on Banyo was to take place. While, to protect my left flank and cut off any of the enemy who might be retiring from Galim towards Banyo, the mounted infantry were to move by a route east of the Genderu Pass.

46. On the night of the 22nd-23rd October Major Mann was at Gandua, and my main column at Mba, with the mounted infantry (Major H. A. Porter, D.S.O., Liverpool Regiment, Reserve of Officers) at Mbamti.

The latter were now ordered to move on and cut the Banyo-Tibati road, and, leaving a post on it, to get astride of the Banyo-Fumban road. This was done; on 23rd October the advance from Gandua and Mba on Banyo began. At 10 P.M. on the night of the 23rd October I got into signalling communication with Major Mann, and on the morning of the 24th October he occupied the European settlement of Banyo, one hour ahead of my advanced guard. The country was difficult, being mountainous, intersected by rivers, and covered with elephant grass. Both columns were opposed, but our converging advance continually threatened the enemy communications and prevented his making any prolonged stand.

47. The effect of the other moves referred to in para. 45 above was that Tibati, after slight opposition, was occupied by Lieutenant-Colonel Brisset, whose advance on that place had been facilitated by a movement of Lieutenant-Colonel Webb-Bowen's column from Galim to Tibati, both columns practically entering Tibati together on the 3rd November.

Kentu was occupied by a company from Takum on 17th October.

Bamenda was occupied by Major Crookenden after a brisk fight on 22nd October.

Dschang was occupied by Lieutenant-Colonel W. L. Cotton, 5th Light Infantry, Indian Army, from Bare on the 6th November.

48. My line then ran through Tibati—Banyo—Bamenda—Dschang, but the occupation of Banyo town had brought no decisive result since the enemy had prepared another defensive position, similar to that at Mora in the mountains close by.

It was impossible to advance further until this position was in our hands.

49. Banyo mountain is a single feature rising 1,200 feet above the surrounding country, which is much broken by small hills. The slopes of the mountain are very steep and covered with large boulders which had been linked together by some 300 sangars. Every prominent commanding point had been strengthened by a small fort. On the summit cement reservoirs for water had been constructed, brick houses with glazed windows had been erected to accommodate the Europeans, and some 40 tons of grain, 226 head of cattle, hundreds of fowls and a vast quantity of agricultural implements and other material had been accumulated. In short Banyo mountain was the rallying point for the garrisons of Banyo, Dschang and Bamenda.

Every preparation had been made to enable the Germans to withstand a prolonged siege.

From captured correspondence, intercepted letters, statements of Europeans and native prisoners, an absolute confidence reigned throughout the German forces in the Cameroons that the garrison would hold out till the end of the war.

50. By the 2nd November I had established five companies of Infantry on the under-features and disposed the mounted infantry on a wide circle below to give notice of any enemy attempt to break out. The attack was to be supported by three 2·95" guns to the north, north-west and south respectively.

51. Our attack was timed to commence at daybreak on 4th November, and until 9 A.M., that morning the mountain was shrouded in thick fog, which enabled our troops to make considerable progress, though it prevented the different units from mutually assisting each other or benefiting during their advance by covering fire from the guns.

Under cover of the fog Captain Bowyer-Smijth succeeded in leading his company right up to the summit. Here, however, they came under a cross-fire from several directions, and Captain Bowyer-Smijth, one of our most able and dashing Company Commanders, having been killed, the company was forced back to the foot of the mountain.

52. Noon on the 4th November found the remaining companies about halfway up the slope, holding on stubbornly within thirty yards of an entrenched position, and unable to progress further in daylight.

During the night of the 4-5th November the enemy expended a large number of dynamite bombs, a new, and to our native troops, trying weapon. During that night, however, and throughout the following day our men fought their way upwards, turning sangar after sangar, until by dusk on the 5th November they were within about 100 yards of the top.

The task of supplying the troops with food and water was one of no little difficulty and danger, and great credit is due to the transport carriers who performed this service.

At 7 P.M., on the 5th November a violent thunderstorm broke, and at daybreak on 6th November the summit was carried.

53. It was found that under cover of the storm the enemy had broken up into small parties and crept down the mountain, the majority only to be captured later by our posts on the road below.

54. This action may, I think, be justly described as one of the most arduous ever fought by native African troops.

55. My next objectives were—

(i) An advance to the line Yoko-Ngambe-Ditam.

(ii) thence to move on the Nachtigal Rapids, on the Sanaga River, a point which is only about forty miles north of Jaunde, on which Major-General Dobell and General Aymerich were converging from the west and east respectively.

55. With these ends in view the troops at Kentu were ordered to join Major Crookenden at Bamenda. Major Crookenden was ordered to move with as strong a force as possible on Fumban.

Another column (Major G. L. Uniacke, Royal Lancaster Regiment, Special Reserve, Reserve of Officers), was directed from Banyo on Fumban via Gorori, while Lieutenant-Colonel Cotton co-operated from Dschang on Fumban.

56. Lieutenant-Colonel Cotton and Major Crookenden joined hands at Bagam; they were opposed at the crossing of the Nun River, but a turning movement made by Major Crookenden, and the threat to the enemy's communications from Major Uniacke's column, drove the enemy from their position, and Fumban was occupied by Lieutenant-Colonel Cotton and Major Uniacke on the 2nd December.

The enemy retired to the south-east pursued by Major Crookenden, but through receiving false information he was led fifty miles astray and touch was lost.

57. The eastern column (Lieutenant-Colonel Brisset) entered Yoko on the 1st December with only slight opposition, while my centre column, after meeting with steady resistance all the way from Gorori, occupied Ngambe on the 4th December, the enemy crossing the Kim River, destroying the bridge and canoes, and entrenching himself on the far bank.

On the 11th December I arrived at Ngambe with the reserve column, and on the same day, fresh canoes having been procured, the German position on the south bank of the Kim was turned.

58. I then ordered the following moves:—

Lieutenant-Colonel Webb-Bowen's column on Linte, 13th December.

Major C. C. West, Royal Highlanders, with a detachment gun on Ditam.

As a result Linte and Ditam were occupied simultaneously after slight opposition on the 18th December.

59. From the line Yoko-Linte-Ditam I ordered an advance to the line Ngila-Ndonge, and by the 1st January I had concentrated the whole of my striking force on this latter line.

60. On the 4th January I ordered Lieutenant-Colonel Brisset to seize the crossing of the Sanaga at the Nachtigal Rapids, and placed Lieutenant-Colonel Webb-Bowen's column at his disposal to assist him in the operation.

61. On the 8th January I learnt that Major-General Dobell's troops had on the 1st January occupied Jaunde. I had at this time been for several days in communication with General Aymerich through Lieutenant-Colonel Brisset. My advanced troops were on the Sanaga, about 40 miles from Jaunde, having marched and fought continuously over 600 miles since the 18th September.

62. My line of communications with Ibi was, however, 400 miles long, and strained to the utmost, and it was obvious that my force must either soon come to a standstill to await further supplies or that I must open a new line of supply through Jaunde and Duala.

The latter alternative I deemed to be impracticable owing to the congestion which must inevitably exist in the Jaunde district, into which General Aymerich's troops were pouring from the east.

I therefore decided on a partial withdrawal along my lines of communication, and removed my Headquarters to Fumban, there to await developments. My orders were, however, too late to prevent Lieutenant-Colonel Webb-Bowen and his command from entering Jaunde on the heels of General Aymerich and Lieutenant-Colonel Brisset.

Lieutenant-Colonel Webb-Bowen and the British troops under his command were then evacuated by Major-General Dobell viâ Duala and sent back to Nigeria by sea, while Lieutenant-Colonel Brisset and the French troops under his command came henceforth under the direct control of General Aymerich.

63. I returned to Fumban on 21st January, and while there learnt that Your Excellency desired to see me in Lagos, and as Major-General Dobell had also expressed a wish to meet me, I left Fumban for Lagos viâ Duala on 28th January.

I arrived at Duala on the 5th February and at Lagos on the 9th February, having left garrisons at Fumban, Bamenda, Banyo and Kontscha, and ordered certain units back to Nigeria overland.

64. There now remained only the one spot in the whole of the Cameroons still occupied by an enemy garrison, namely, Mora.

It was considered imperative to capture this place as soon as possible.

Before, however, proceeding to do this, it was deemed advisable to send something in the shape of an ultimatum to Hauptmann von Raben, the Commander, offering generous terms in case of surrender. These terms were:

(i) Officers to be allowed to retain their swords.

(ii) Native ranks to be released and given safe passages to their homes

(iii) All Europeans to be sent to England as prisoners of war.

On the receipt of this message Hauptmann von Raben accepted the terms offered, and on the 18th February capitulated with his whole force.

65. The general health of the troops throughout the campaign in the Northern Cameroons has been excellent. This result is due to the untiring devotion, energy and skill of the medical officers attached to the different columns.

In this connection I would particularly wish to mention the services of my medical officers.

66. I have pleasure in here recording my appreciation of the services rendered by our French Allies, commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Brisset, upon whom, to the great satisfaction of myself and my officers, His Majesty was pleased to confer the dignity of the Companionship of the Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George. The Eastern Column was under his command until it reached Yoko, after which the French troops were absorbed in General Aymerich's command.

67. I wish to express my grateful appreciation of the services rendered by the civil officials and non-officials of Nigeria placed at my disposal by Your Excellency to take part in these operations.

Several of these have lost their lives, gallantly fighting in the field; others still have the satisfaction of remembering that in a time of emergency they cheerfully and loyally came forward and offered their services. They have assisted in upholding the honour of their country in a theatre of war far removed from more striking events, a circumstance which redounds to their greater honour and credit.

I wish also to express my indebtedness to all Departments of the Nigeria Civil Service for their assistance, and to those residents of Provinces whose proximity to the frontier brought them more closely into contact with the troops in the field, and who always rendered me every assistance in their power, though their civil work was greatly increased thereby.

68. This report would be incomplete were I to conclude it without a word of praise to the native rank and file of the Nigeria Regiment, who have borne the brunt of the fighting, as well as to those natives, the transport carriers, who have toiled incessantly under heavy loads and at times also under heavy fire to keep the troops in the field supplied with food and munitions

The Nigeria Regiment is composed of men of many different tribes—their characteristics, traditions, and even their languages differ as widely as does the food to which they are accustomed.

They have been called upon to take part in a great struggle, the rights and wrongs of which they can scarcely have been expected dimly to perceive.

They have been through the, to them, entirely novel experience of facing an enemy armed with modern weapons and led by highly-trained officers.

Their rations have been scanty, their bare-foot marches long and trying, and their fights at times extremely arduous, yet they have not been found wanting either in discipline, devotion to their officers, or personal courage, as the list of recommendations, which I am proud to enclose, amply testifies.

69. In the various reports which I have from time to time made during the course of the operations summarised above, I have brought to Your Excellency's notice the names of Officers, Non-Commissioned Officers and men who have distinguished themselves either by individual acts of gallantry or by the exceptional zeal and ability with which they have carried out their duties.

As this report is intended to cover the whole of the operations in the Northern Cameroons from start to finish, I take this opportunity of recapitulating all such names, and append a list (Appendix* A) containing the names, of all those whose services I consider deserve recognition.

* Not printed

70. I have found it difficult in a comparatively brief report of this nature, covering as it does a period of over eighteen months' hostilities, in which some 3,000 to 4,000 Allied French and British troops have been engaged, to give a very definite idea of the arduous nature of the work which has been done.

I have, etc.,

(Signed) F. J. CUNLIFFE,
Brigadier-General,
Commanding Allied Forces, Northern Cameroons.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY.

(COMPANIES.)

RESOLUTION.

Simla, the 20th July 1916.

REPRESENTATIONS have been received by the Government of India to the effect that the fees prescribed under the Indian Companies Act (VII of 1913) for filing documents and for registration of Companies having share capital compare unfavourably with those levied under the English law, and the question of the reduction of these fees has accordingly been under consideration.

2. The registration fees chargeable in India are as follows :—

	Rs.	A.	P.
1. For registration of a company whose nominal share capital does not exceed Rs. 20,000, a fee of	40	0	0
2. For registration of a company whose nominal share capital exceeds Rs. 20,000, the above fee of forty rupees, with the following additional fees regulated according to the amount of nominal capital (that is to say) :—
For every 10,000 rupees of nominal share capital, or part of 10,000 rupees, after the first 20,000 rupees up to 50,000 rupees ...	20	0	0
For every 10,000 rupees of nominal share capital, or part of 10,000 rupees after the first 50,000 rupees up to 10,00,000 rupees ...	5	0	0
For every 10,000 rupees of nominal share capital, or part of 10,000 rupees, after the first 10,00,000 rupees	1	0	0

1. For registration of a company whose nominal share capital does not exceed £2,000 ...	2	0	0
2. For registration of a company whose nominal share capital exceeds £2,000, the following fees, regulated according to the amount of nominal share capital (that is to say) :—
For every £1,000 of nominal share capital, or part of £1,000 up to £5,000	1	0	0
For every £1,000 of nominal share capital, or part of £1,000, after the first £5,000 up to £100,000	0	5	0
For every £1,000 of nominal share capital, or part of £1,000 after the first £100,000 ...	0	1	0

A maximum limit of Rs. 1,000 in India and of £50 in England has been fixed for such fees.

It will thus be seen that the Indian scale, if registration fees alone are taken into consideration, is approximately double the English scale except in respect of the maximum limit, where the proportion is somewhat less.

This fact has no doubt given rise to the impression that Indian Companies were more heavily taxed than in England. This, however, is very far from being the case. In England a stamp duty 5*s.* per cent. is levied on the nominal share capital of all companies having a share capital, while no corresponding duty is levied in India. It may be convenient to compare the amounts payable by an English Company with a capital of £5,000 with those payable by an Indian Company with a corresponding capital of Rs. 75,000.

The English Company pays :—

An ad valorem registration fee	5	0	0
Stamp duty on share capital at 5 Sh. % ...	12	10	0
Stamp duty on Memo. and Articles of Association 10*s.* each	1	0	0
Total ...	18	10	0
or	Rs. 277-8

	Rs.
An ad valorem fee	115
Stamp duty on Memo. and Articles of Association	40
Total ...	155

For Companies with a larger share capital the proportional difference will be even greater. The Government of India accordingly consider that the registration fees do not call for any reduction.

The fee for filing documents at present charged in India is five rupees, and, in England, five shillings. The Government of India consider that the Indian rate is high and they are pleased to reduce the rate to three rupees, in the case of all documents other than the memorandum or abstract required to be filed with the Registrar by a receiver, or the statement required to be filed by the liquidator in a winding up. In the case of returns of allotments prescribed under section 104 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913 (forms VI and VII published with Notification No. 1271-C., dated the 28th March 1914), the Government of India are also pleased further to reduce the rate to one per cent. in cases in which the aggregate paid up value of the shares allotted does not exceed Rs. 100. These reductions have been separately notified.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the foregoing Resolution be forwarded to all Local Governments and Administrations for information, and that it be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India.

A maximum limit of Rs. 1,000 in India and of £50 in England has been fixed for such fees.

It will thus be seen that the Indian scale, if registration fees alone are taken into consideration, is approximately double the English scale except in respect of the maximum limit, where the proportion is somewhat less.

This fact has no doubt given rise to the impression that Indian Companies were more heavily taxed than in England. This, however, is very far from being the case. In England a stamp duty 5*s*. per cent. is levied on the nominal share capital of all companies having a share capital, while no corresponding duty is levied in India. It may be convenient to compare the amounts payable by an English Company with a capital of £5,000 with those payable by an Indian Company with a corresponding capital of Rs. 75,000.

An ad valorem registration fee	5	0	0
Stamp duty on share capital at 5 Sh. % ...	12	10	0
Stamp duty on Memo. and Articles of Association 10*s*. each	1	0	0
Total ...	18	10	0

	Rs.
An ad valorem fee	115
Stamp duty on Memo. and Articles of Association	40
Total ...	155

For Companies with a larger share capital the proportional difference will be even greater. The Government of India accordingly consider that the registration fees do not call for any reduction.

The fee for filing documents at present charged in India is five rupees, and, in England, five shillings. The Government of India consider that the Indian rate is high and they are pleased to reduce the rate to three rupees, in the case of all documents other than the memorandum or abstract required to be filed with the Registrar by a receiver, or the statement required to be filed by the liquidator in a winding up. In the case of returns of allotments prescribed under section 104 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913 (forms VI and VII published with Notification No. 1271-C., dated the 28th March 1914), the Government of India are also pleased further to reduce the rate to one per cent. in cases in which the aggregate paid up value of the shares allotted does not exceed Rs. 100. These reductions have been separately notified.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the foregoing Resolution be forwarded to all Local Governments and Administrations for information, and that it be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India.

EMIGRATION.

No. 6687.

The 2nd August. 1916.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Department of Commerce and Industry.

THE following letter received from the Government of the East Africa Protectorate is published for general information:—

P. S.

THE SECRETARIAT,

No. S.-99-30.

NAIROBI,

East Africa Protectorate,

June 27th, 1916.

SIR,

I have the honour to inform you that the Government of the British East Africa Protectorate has recently had under consideration the desirability of enforcing more strictly the provisions of the Immigration Restriction Ordinance, 1906, and the Immigration Restriction Amendment Ordinance, 1910, copies of which are enclosed herewith.

2. Section 11 of the original enactment provided that any* person appearing to be a prohibited immigrant under Section 5 (a)* might be permitted to enter the Protectorate on payment of a deposit according to nationality.† In the course of time this restriction was shown to be acting as a deterrent in the case of persons who might well be admitted to the country, and the amending Ordinance was promulgated whereby the Immigration Officer was empowered to accept security in lieu of the deposit.

3. In the great majority of cases no arrangements for this security are made prior to embarkation and in consequence such persons have hitherto been allowed to land in order that they may be given the opportunity of finding a surety. This concession has led to abuse and is in itself objectionable inasmuch as the deposit prescribed by Section 11 of the Ordinance of 1906 is payable before landing, and if this section is read together with Section 3 (1) of the amending Ordinance of 1910 it is clear that the demand for security must also be complied with before landing.

4. The Government has therefore decided that all immigrants should either make the necessary deposit, or provide the security required, before leaving the ship on arrival in port. The strict enforcement of this regulation will take effect as from the 1st of September 1916 and I have the honour to request that steps may be taken to make this procedure known in those districts from which immigrants to British East Africa usually arrive. Persons who cannot deposit the necessary sum or have failed to find the requisite security will after that date be sent back to India, and the Government of this Protectorate will not hold itself responsible for any expenditure thus incurred.

I have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient servant,

C. C. BOWRING,

Chief Secy. to the Government.

Local Governments and Administrations are requested to make the intimation contained in the letter as widely known as possible, particularly in places from which emigration to British East Africa is believed to be most common. Intending emigrants should also be warned of the risks they run in proceeding to the Protectorate if they are unable, before landing, to deposit the sum of Rs. 50 or to comply with the demand for the requisite security in lieu of the deposit.

Ordered that a copy of the above Resolution be forwarded, for information and guidance, to all Local Governments and Administrations, and to the Foreign and Political Department for communication to the Native States.

Ordered, also, that a copy be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE APPOINTED BY THE GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL TO CONSIDER CERTAIN QUESTIONS CONNECTED WITH MUHAMMADAN EDUCATION.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

EDUCATION.

CALCUTTA, THE 3RD AUGUST 1916.

RESOLUTION—No. 1227Edn.

READ—

The report of the Committee appointed by the Bengal Government to consider questions connected with Muhammadan Education.

BY Resolution No. 2474, dated 30th June 1914, the Governor in Council appointed a committee of official and non-official representatives of the Muhammadan community to consider (1) certain suggestions made by the Government of India regarding the education of Muhammadans, (2) the resolutions passed by the Provincial Muhammadan Educational Conference which met in Dacca in April 1914, and (3) any other matters relating to the furtherance of Muhammadan education which the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, might wish to place before them. The Committee was presided over by Mr. W. W. Hornell, Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, and its members were as follows :—

- The Hon'ble Nawab Sir Khwaja Salimullah Bahadur, G.C.I.E., K.C.S.I., of Dacca (since deceased) ;
- The Hon'ble Mr. A. K. Ghaznavi ;
- The Hon'ble Nawab Syed Nawab Ali Chaudhuri, Khan Bahadur ;
- The Hon'ble Mr. A. K. Fazlul Huq ;
- The Hon'ble Maulvi Mazharul Anwar Chaudhuri ;
- Nawab A. F. M. Abdur Rahman Khan Bahadur ;
- Shams-ul-Ulama Maulvi Abu Nasr Muhammad Wahed ;
- Khan Bahadur Diwan Khondkar Fazl-i-Rabbi ;
- Khan Bahadur Haji Mirza Shuja'at Ali Beg ;
- Khan Bahadur Maulvi Ahsanullah ;
- Khan Bahadur Maulvi Muhammad Ibrahim ;
- Khan Bahadur Maulvi Aminul Islam ;
- Z. R. Zahid Suhrawardy, Esq. ;
- A. H. Harley, Esq. ;
- Maulvi Wahed Hossain ;
- Maulvi Muhammad Musa ; and
- J. A. Taylor, Esq., M.SC, Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education, Bengal (Secretary).

The report of the Committee has been received by Government and is published for general information.

2. The Governor in Council desires to express his thanks to the members of the Committee, and particularly to the non-official members, some of whom lent their services at considerable personal inconvenience, for their labours extending over six months, for the care with which they have considered the subjects above referred to and for the report which they have prepared. The report is exhaustive, containing no less than 197 specific recommendations, which deal not only with the general policy to be pursued, but also with all the different stages of boys' education, as well as with the important questions of female education, technical education and religious and moral instruction. The Governor in Council welcomes the report as a comprehensive statement of the measures which a Committee, representative of the interests of the Muhammadan community throughout the Presidency, regard as necessary for the development and improvement of education among their co-religionists. Those recommendations on which it is possible for the Governor in Council to pass orders have received careful consideration, though many involve large expenditure which it is impossible to undertake under present financial conditions. Those which concern the University of Calcutta will be forwarded to that body for consideration.

3. It is beyond question that the Muhammadans of Bengal are still backward from an educational point of view in spite of the large increase in the number attending schools which has taken place in recent years. At the census of 1911 it was found that only about three-tenths of the total number of literate persons in the Presidency were Muhammadans, though more than half the population profess the faith of Islam. It was then pointed out that though there had been a remarkable expansion of Muhammadan education, this had not yet had time to produce its full effect on the statistics, and that only 4 per cent. of the community were literate. A study of more recent statistics shows that only in the primary stage of education is the number of Muhammadan pupils at all commensurate with the proportion which the community bears to the population of Bengal, and even here the percentage (42) is below their proportional strength. In more advanced stages of education the ratio falls steadily, being 25·3 per cent. in middle schools, 16·8 per cent. in high schools and only 7·8 per cent. in colleges. Having regard to these facts, the Governor in Council is convinced that, though much has already been done to advance Muhammadan education, more is required in order to stimulate its progress.

4. The inequality of the progress in education made by the Hindu and Muhammadan communities is patent. The comparatively slow advance made by the Muhammadans, more especially in the higher branches of education, has prevented them taking as full a part in the political, professional and industrial life of the province as the Hindus; and many of the present administrative difficulties in Bengal are due to the educational inequality between the two communities. Comparatively few Muhammadans are engaged in professional pursuits. They are largely outnumbered by the Hindus in industries and commerce. The deficiency of Muhammadans qualified for appointment to administrative posts is a not infrequent source of embarrassment to Government. Their disabilities are largely due to their having failed to keep pace with the Hindus in the matter of education. The development of the country, in political as well as in other directions, is dependent on the uniform educational progress of the two main constituents of the population and on their equal capacity to take advantage both of the opportunities now open to them and of the fuller opportunities which may be available hereafter. The Government of India are anxious that all reasonable facilities should be provided for the education of Muhammadans, and the Governor in Council is convinced that it is in the interest both of the Government and of the people as a whole that the Muhammadans, who, in spite of recent efforts, have still much lost ground to make up, should receive such special facilities as may be necessary to enable them to benefit as fully as the Hindus from the educational institutions which are maintained, wholly or partially, out of public funds.

5. The primary cause of educational backwardness has been the suspicion with which a conservative people, anxious to preserve their distinctive beliefs and customs, have hitherto regarded the general secular schools. They have long attached special importance to the study of the Koran and have looked askance at any education other than that which is imparted in specifically Moslem institutions. As observed by the Committee, "they were at one time afraid that education given through the medium of English and the vernaculars would sap the principles of Islam, and for a long time they refused to take any part in the educational system of Government, thereby failing to profit by the opportunities of which the Hindus took full advantage. The more enlightened members of the community have since realized that Government have not the slightest desire to interfere in any way with their religion, but there are still a number of Moslems, especially in Northern and Eastern Bengal, who have no desire for any education other than the semi-religious education which has up to the present been given in madrasas."

6. Primary Education.—Although therefore there is a growing tendency for the Muhammadans of Bengal to take advantage of the ordinary courses of instruction and to attend the primary schools in increasing numbers, a purely secular course of instruction does not appeal to all parents. Many prefer maktabs to primary schools, and if they are to be induced to send their children to secular schools, the latter must be made more attractive to them. The general conclusion of the Committee is that it is necessary to maintain special institutions for Muhammadans, but that it is undesirable to develop any further a separate system of education intended solely for that community.

As a corollary to this recommendation, they suggest that Government should recognize the existence of maktabs and encourage them as far as possible to add secular subjects to their courses of study. In these conclusions the Governor in Council concurs.

7. While, on the one hand, they recommend that the course of instruction in maktabs should be made more secular, the Committee suggest, on the other, that a religious element should be introduced into the course followed in ordinary primary schools in order to popularize them among Muhammadans. With this object it is proposed that religious and moral instruction in accordance with the tenets of Islam should be given by teachers or, preferably, local Mullahs, and that in all primary schools work should be suspended for an hour on Fridays, and for half an hour on other days, to allow Musalman boys to say their prayers. The Governor in Council recognizes the value of these suggestions and sympathizes with the desire of the Committee that Muhammadan boys attending primary schools should be given reasonable facilities for religious observances. The whole question of religious and moral instruction in schools is, however, now under the consideration of the Government of India, and the Governor in Council regrets that, pending the issue of orders by that Government, he is unable to take any action either on these recommendations of the Committee or on the suggestion that manuals of religious instruction should be prepared for the guidance of teachers.

8. It appears to the Governor in Council that the best practicable policy is, so far as possible, to arrange the curriculum for primary schools so as to make it acceptable to the Muhammadan community. All the education, however, which many Muhammadan boys receive is that imparted in maktabs, and it is manifestly desirable that these schools should be as efficient in secular subjects as the ordinary primary schools, so that the boys attending them may not be handicapped throughout their educational career. The Governor in Council is therefore of opinion that existing maktabs should be encouraged to adopt gradually the course of studies prescribed for ordinary primary schools, and that, as soon as a maktab conforms to the departmental standard for primary schools with regard to buildings, staff, etc., it should be regarded as a primary school and be eligible for a grant from the funds for primary education in the same way as other primary schools.

9. The other recommendations of the Committee with regard to text-books and the reservation of a suitable number of primary scholarships for Muhammadan boys commend themselves to the Governor in Council, and the Director of Public Instruction will be directed to submit definite proposals to give effect to them. He entirely agrees in the conclusion that the medium of instruction should be Bengali except in a few localities, where Urdu is the vernacular of Muhammadans, but is not prepared to accept the proposal that provision should be made in all primary schools for teaching elementary Urdu in order to facilitate the study of the Koran. He also concurs in the view that books, written in current Bengali, dealing with subjects of interest to Muhammadans, should be available for use in schools, and that books submitted to the Text-book Committees should not be rejected either because they contain words in common use among Muhammadans which have no equivalent in Bengali, or because they are Muhammadan in character. Instructions to this effect will be issued to the Text-book Committees through the Director of Public Instruction.

10. In connection with the question of general policy, it is urged that there should be at least one Muhammadan Deputy Inspector of Schools at each district headquarters and that Muhammadans should have fuller power to control expenditure on primary education by being more largely represented on District Boards and also on their Education and Finance Committees. It is recognized by Government that the employment of a due proportion of Muhammadan officers is one of the best means of advancing the cause of Muhammadan education, and that its diffusion depends largely on their zeal and initiative. With this object, endeavours are already made by the Education Department to employ Muhammadan Deputy Inspectors of Schools where the Muhammadan population preponderates, so far as is compatible with the interests of the service, and at present 9 out of 16 District Deputy Inspectors in North and Eastern Bengal are Muhammadans. This policy will be continued, but, as Deputy Inspectors have to be appointed from the ranks of Sub-Inspectors of Schools, and the number of experienced Muhammadan Sub-Inspectors is still comparatively small, it will not for some time to come be possible to appoint Muhammadan Deputy Inspectors in all districts in which the Muhammadan population predominates.

11. The adequate representation of Muhammadans on District Boards depends partly on the result of elections and partly on the appointments made by Government. One of the objects of these appointments is to correct possible inequalities in the elective system, and, in making them, care is taken to ensure, as far as possible, the due representation of Muhammadans, as well as of other communities. The constitution of Finance Committees is, under the Local Self-Government Act, entirely a matter for the District Boards. Each District Board has also full power under the Act to appoint members of the Board to the Education Committee, but, under clause (c) of section 65B of the Local Self-Government Act, the approval of the Commissioner is necessary to the appointment of gentlemen who are not members of the District Board. Instructions will now issue that, before giving their approval, Commissioners should specially consider whether Muhammadan interests are sufficiently represented.

12. A number of important recommendations have been made by the Committee regarding the organization and curriculum of maktabs. At present there are two systems of maktab organization in Bengal, and the Governor in Council agrees with the Committee that there should be one uniform system throughout the Presidency. The suggestion that the designation of teachers in maktabs should be changed from Mianji to Muallim is also approved. The recommendation of the Committee that model maktabs should be established in every thana of the Presidency in which there is a majority of Muhammadans appears to the Governor in Council to be inconsistent with the general policy of development which, as stated in paragraph 6 of this resolution, has been enunciated by the Committee and accepted by Government. In this connection it may be pointed out that a scheme for establishing model maktabs in Western Bengal has already been carried out, and that increased grants-in-aid have been given to maktabs throughout the province.

13. Secondary Education.—The backwardness of Muhammadans in respect of secondary education is ascribed to various causes, such as the poverty of the community, the demand for religious instruction, the absence of Moslem representation on the governing bodies of educational institutions and the difficulties caused by the anxiety of Muhammadans to study Arabic, Persian and Urdu in addition to Bengali and English. Other causes which have retarded the spread of secondary education among them are the conservatism and apathy of the masses and the fact that the majority live in rural areas where High Schools are few and far between. Many, it is true, have not the means to enable their sons to attend High Schools. A large number of those engaged in agriculture are anxious to have their sons' assistance in their holdings and have no desire that they should go beyond the primary course. In other cases the boys have not sufficient capacity, or are unable, owing to the deficiencies of their previous tuition, to benefit fully by an English education. In such cases, to spend years in obtaining a smattering of English, which will be of no use in after life, only means waste of time which might more profitably be employed in obtaining a sound all-round education in the vernacular. At the same time, it is, as pointed out by the Committee, necessary that the more promising boys of the agricultural classes should be given every chance of continuing their education beyond the primary stage up to any standard of which they may show themselves capable. "If," they observe, "the Moslem community is to occupy the position which it should fill in the community generally, the basis of education must be sound, but there must also be a ladder, for those who can climb it, leading from the village primary school to the University or professional College."

14. In order to provide such facilities, the Committee make various suggestions, the adoption of which would involve considerable extra expenditure by Government. High Schools should, they urge, be started in rural areas largely inhabited by Muhammadans; Government should make a capital grant of three-fourths of their initial cost, besides liberal recurring grants; Middle English Schools should be given special subsidies in order that they may be developed into High Schools. They further recommend that Muhammadans should be more fully represented on educational bodies; that, in order to increase the number of Muhammadan teachers, the initial salary of Muhammadan graduates should be higher than that offered to the followers of other religions; and that the adequate representation of Muhammadans on managing committees and on the teaching staff should be a condition of grants-in-aid.

15. With reference to these recommendations, it is desirable to point out that Government itself has established and maintains a certain number of High Schools, mainly at district headquarters, and that their extension throughout the Presidency is an undertaking beyond its present financial resources. Although, therefore, the Governor in Council agrees that it is desirable that High Schools should be started in rural areas, he is of opinion that their establishment must depend on local efforts, which should be stimulated and encouraged by Government officers. He is ready to make liberal grants towards their establishment and maintenance, but is not prepared to make any hard-and-fast rule as to the share of the initial expenditure that will be borne by Government, and he reserves to himself the right to consider each application on its merits. It is observed that these proposals are put forward in view of the difficulties experienced by Muhammadan boys in obtaining admission to High Schools, and it is hoped that the reservation of places, to which reference is made below, will help to remove the disabilities from which they are said to suffer.

16. The Governor in Council agrees that the number of Muhammadan teachers in secondary schools is at present inadequate: excluding maulvis and pandits, there is, according to the latest returns, only one Muhammadan teacher to every four Hindu teachers in the Government High Schools in Bengal. He is also of opinion that more Muhammadan students are likely to be attracted, if the teaching staff includes a substantial proportion of Muhammadans; and he considers their more extensive employment to be a necessary condition of the progress of secondary education among the members of this community. Up to the present, the comparatively poor prospects of the teaching profession are believed to have deterred Muhammadans from embracing it in any but small numbers; but it is hoped that more will be attracted to it, if effect is given to a scheme for improving the pay and prospects of teachers in secondary schools which is receiving the attention of Government. The proposal that Muhammadan graduates in the Education Department should be paid higher salaries than graduates of other communities would, however, create an invidious distinction and cannot therefore be accepted. The desirability of having a Moslem element on the managing committees of High Schools is already realized; and officers of the Education Department have been directed to see that the Muhammadan community is adequately represented on the managing committees of all schools in which Muhammadan boys are being educated. His Excellency in Council notes with regret that there are so few Muhammadan headmasters, and is of opinion that, in these circumstances, the desirability of appointing a certain number of specially qualified Muhammadan graduates direct to headmasterships should be considered by the Director of Public Instruction. It must, however, be recognized that the headmasterships of Government High Schools should ordinarily be filled up by the appointment of assistant masters who have already proved their capacity in such schools. The only practicable condition, therefore, under which a sufficient number of Muhammadans can become headmasters of Government High Schools, is that a greater number should join the lower grades of the services, and obtain as assistant masters the experience necessary to qualify them for headmasterships.

17. The Committee further recommend that in each Government High School 15 per cent. of the places should be reserved for Muhammadan boys and that this percentage should represent the minimum number of Muhammadan boys who should be in the school at any one time. The Governor in Council is anxious to remove any possible cause of complaint on the ground that Muhammadans cannot obtain admission to High Schools. He will therefore make rules that a definite percentage of places shall be reserved in each Government High School for Muhammadan pupils and that this number should be regarded as a minimum. Muhammadans will be regarded as having a preferential claim to fill vacancies up to the limit fixed, and if the number of Muhammadan applicants is insufficient, they will be filled by members of other religions. He is not prepared to prescribe a general average of 15 per cent. throughout the Presidency, as recommended by the Committee, for in some districts the proportion of Muhammadans to the general population is below, while in others it is above that ratio. The actual proportion to be reserved will therefore be determined, separately, for each Government High School in consultation with the Director of Public Instruction and with reference to the proportional strength and educational requirements of the Muhammadans in the district. The desirability of similar action in the case of aided schools will also be considered. The Governor in Council sympathises with the suggestion that the rules regarding free studentships should be relaxed, but definite orders cannot be issued until after examination of its financial effects.

18. As regards hostel accommodation, he desires that Muhammadans should be in as favourable a position, and have the same facilities, as Hindus, and he therefore accepts the principle that Government should establish hostels for Muhammadan students in Government High Schools, where their number is sufficient to call for separate accommodation. This, however, is entirely a question of the funds at the disposal of Government, and for financial reasons it cannot be adopted generally. In other than Government High Schools the provision of hostels for Muhammadans must, as in the case of Hindus, be regarded as a fitting object for private munificence rather than for the expenditure of public funds, though Government will continue to give grants to supplement private contributions.

19. His Excellency in Council has read with interest the remarks of the Committee on the difficulties which the Moslem community experience in connection with the languages which its members desire to study owing to their association with Muhammadan religion and history. He will forward to the University for their consideration the recommendation that Urdu should be included among the second languages which can be taken for the Matriculation Examination.

20. In spite of adverse financial conditions orders have already been passed giving effect to the recommendation that the income of the Mohsin Fund should be devoted to scholarships for Muhammadan students. Under resolution No. 4147, dated 16th November 1915, published in the Calcutta Gazette of 17th idem, the cost of the maintenance of madrasas hitherto defrayed from the Mohsin Fund Endowment will be charged to Provincial Revenues. With the amount so set free Government have sanctioned the institution of 81 scholarships in Arts Colleges, 4 stipends tenable in the Civil Engineering College, 6 stipends tenable in the Medical College, and 33 stipends for students reading in madrasas. When full effect is given to the scheme, the number of stipendiaries will be 248, viz., 162 in Arts Colleges, 8 in the Civil Engineering College, 12 in the Medical College, and 66 in madrasas.

21. Inspection.—Orders have already been passed which give effect to the recommendations of the Committee regarding the powers and functions of the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education. Their suggestion that a special officer should be appointed for the inspection of Arabic and Persian teaching in madrasas requires further examination. The question of the powers and functions of the Assistant Inspectors for Muhammadan Education is now under the consideration of Government.

22. Anglo-Persian Departments of Madrasas.—His Excellency in Council accepts the recommendations of the Committee with regard to the Anglo-Persian Departments of Madrasas, and orders have been issued converting those departments in the Dacca and Chittagong Madrasas into Moslem High Schools under the Inspectors of Schools of the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions.

23. Collegiate Education.—The recommendations of the Committee on the subject of collegiate education mostly concern matters on which the Governor in Council is not competent to pass orders. The contention of the Committee that, in spite of the growing recognition of the value of hostels, the accommodation for Muhammadan students is inadequate, is unfortunately only too true. During recent years, however, large sums have been spent by Government on Muhammadan hostels outside Calcutta, while in the capital itself Government have established an inter-collegiate hostel for Muhammadans and are extending the Baker Madrasa hostel so as to provide additional accommodation. Other schemes have been inaugurated, but have had to be postponed till the return of normal financial conditions. As in the case of High Schools, the Governor in Council is prepared to reserve a definite proportion of places in Government colleges for Muhammadan students, and he accepts the suggestion that the ratio should be 25 per cent., which will for the present be regarded as a minimum and be liable to modification from time to time. He will further consider whether similar action can be taken to ensure that Muhammadan students will be regarded as having a preferential claim to vacancies in aided colleges up to the same limit. The request for more scholarships to be given from public funds will be considered when financial conditions allow of larger expenditure on education.

24. Technical Education.—There is no doubt, as observed in this Government resolution on the Report of the Director of Public Instruction on Education in 1913-14, that Muhammadans are slow in entering technical and industrial schools, though they have mechanical ability and are widely employed on this account in the lower ranks of engineering establishments. The general question of technical and industrial education in Bengal is now under the consideration of Government, and the recommendations of the Committee will receive attention when the position of Muhammadans in the scheme is being considered.

25. Education of Girls.—His Excellency in Council has read with great interest the recommendations of the Committee with regard to the education of Muhammadan girls. Their view is that a separate system of schools attended only by Muhammadan girls should be established and that the time has come when Government should definitely assume the responsibility for schemes for their education, which should no longer be left to private enterprise. The whole question is admittedly full of difficulties, but, in view of the social susceptibilities of Muhammadans, of their strong feeling that religious knowledge is essential for a girl's education and of the resultant fact that, in order to popularize the secular education of girls, the Koran must be taught, the Governor in Council is inclined to consider that the best practicable solution of the problem would be to establish in Muhammadan villages, in which there is a demand but no provision for the education of Muhammadan girls, separate schools in which the Koran shall be included in the curriculum. The present time is, however, inopportune for any large and expensive scheme of expansion, and for the present, therefore, all that can be done is for Government to continue to aid private enterprise.

26. Religious and Moral Instruction.—This subject was fully discussed in several conferences held in Dacca and Calcutta in 1912, and the results of their deliberations, together with the recommendations of this Government, were forwarded to the Government of India, whose orders are awaited.

By order of the Governor in Council,

L. S. S. O'MALLEY,

Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

THE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

CHAPTER I.

Introduction.

1. Before we attempt to set forth the trend of our discussions and the recommendations which we have decided to put before Government, we feel it desirable to state the problem which we have been called upon to consider and then to summarize the various attempts which have been made in the past to provide and extend educational facilities for Moslems in Bengal. These matters are dealt with in Chapters II and III of this our report.

CHAPTER II.

The Problem.

The Moslem population of India.

2. The Moslem population of India, according to the census of 1911, was 66,647,229. There are no less than 24 million Moslems in Bengal; in other words, more than one-third of the total Moslem population of India are Musalmans domiciled in Bengal.

Moslems and Hindus in Bengal.

3. In Bengal the Moslems represent 52·3 per cent. of the total population, while the Hindus represent 45·2 per cent. These two communities account for all but 2·4 per cent. of the population, and any attempt to appraise the educational progress of the population of the Presidency as a whole resolves itself into the examination of the rate of advance which has been and is being made respectively by Moslems and Hindus.

Occupation and social status of Moslems in Bengal.

4. The provision which a man makes for his children depends largely on the occupation which he himself follows, the amount of money he earns, and the social position he occupies. In comparing, therefore, the respective educational position of Hindus and Moslems it is necessary to take into account the occupations which are followed respectively by these two communities. Table I, which we have appended to this report, shows the most important occupations followed by the people of Bengal and gives the number of Moslems and Hindus who are following each occupation. This table indicates clearly that a great majority of the Moslems are cultivators who till their own land. The number of Musalman cultivators in Bengal exceeds the number of Hindu cultivators by no less than 8 millions, the proportion being 9 Moslems to every 5 Hindus. The landlords, on the other hand, are mostly Hindus, the proportion in this regard being 7 Hindus to every 3 Moslems. The Moslem cultivators of the Presidency are conservative stolid men, generally absorbed in their own concerns and indifferent to anything which does not affect their personal interests. One would not expect to find that such people were very interested in education, and the Moslem cultivators of Bengal have proved no exception, but in recent years they have profited considerably, particularly in the Eastern Divisions, by the large amount of money which has been brought into the country by the jute trade. They have consequently begun to evince a growing appreciation of, and desire for, what is generally known as English education. The Hindus engaged in industry and commerce largely outnumber the Moslems in these pursuits, and when we come to the professions we find that comparatively few Moslems are engaged in them.

Backwardness of Moslems in education.

5. From what has been stated in the previous paragraph we should naturally expect to find the Moslems of the Bengal Presidency more illiterate than the Hindus. Table II, which we attach to this report, shows the comparative literacy of the two communities. The percentage of literates in the Moslem community, as indicated by this table, is smaller than the circumstances described in the previous paragraphs justify. We find that for every 9 literate Moslem males there are 22 literate Hindu males, and that for every 6 Moslem males literate in English there are 37 Hindu males so literate. Moreover, from Table III, which we also attach to the report, which shows the relative number of Hindus and Moslems in various stages of school education, it appears that the percentage of Moslems in the higher stage is 14·7, in the middle stage 25, and in the primary stage 42·6. The figures for colleges have not been included in the table, but these figures are even more striking. Only 7·8 per cent. of the students in arts colleges and 1·4 per cent. of the students in professional colleges are Moslems.

The educational progress of the Moslems is not being maintained.

6. A reference to Chapter X of the Report on Public Instruction in Bengal for 1913-14 will show that the rate of increase of Moslems in general educational institutions is not much greater than that of Hindus. In fact, although the number of Moslems in arts colleges and secondary schools has increased, the percentages of Moslems in arts and professional colleges remains practically the same; while the percentage of pupils in secondary schools is only 0·4 per cent. higher than it was in the previous year.

The decline of Moslem influence.

7. It has often been pointed out that the decline of Moslem influence in India dates from the substitution of English and the vernaculars for Persian as the languages of the courts. Whatever the cause may be, Moslems have certainly for a large number of years failed to take their proper share in the public life of Bengal. They were at one time afraid that education given through the medium of English and the vernaculars would sap the principles of Islam and for a long time they refused to take any part in the educational system of Government, thereby failing to profit by the opportunities of which the Hindus took full advantage. The more enlightened members of the community have since realised that Government have not the slightest desire to interfere in any way with their religion, but there are still a number of Moslems, especially in Northern and Eastern Bengal, who have no desire for any education other than the semi-religious education which has up to the present been given in madrasahs.

The Moslem view of English education is gradually changing.

8. We have pointed out above that the population of Northern and Eastern Bengal consists mainly of conservative Moslem cultivators who still tend to regard with suspicion all education other than that which is imparted in specifically Moslem institutions. There has, however, grown up in the course of the last few years an increasing appreciation of the benefits of English education and a considerable demand on the part of Moslems for the admission of their sons into high schools. We are told that the increase in this demand can be traced to the following among other causes, viz., that as the cultivators become more prosperous they spend more money on litigation. When they go to the courts they find that most of the pleaders and officials of the courts are Hindus; they naturally feel that they would fare better, if there were more of their co-religionists in the courts, and they are now convinced that it is to the advantage of their community that a certain proportion of their boys should go through the University course and become pleaders and Government officials.

9. There is, however, no doubt that the Moslem community is still backward. The whole community was left behind during the last century owing to its conservatism, and since that time the economic pressure on the mass of the people has not been sufficient to make the members of the community bestir themselves to provide their sons with an education which would procure them employment away from their homesteads. Meanwhile public life in modern India is becoming daily more complicated. The policy of Government is in the direction of leaving local affairs more and more in the hands of the people, and in a recently published Resolution the Government of India reiterated the desirability of the development of the principles of Local Self-Government. If the Moslem community is to take its proper share in the public life of the Presidency, the sense of responsibility must be quickened and developed among its members. The best means of effecting this is education.

CHAPTER III.

History of previous action in Bengal.

A.—Primary Education.

Proposals of the Education Commission of 1882-83.

10. The backwardness of the Moslem community was one of the questions taken up by the Education Commission of 1882-83, and they made, amongst others, the following suggestions for the advancement of primary education amongst Musalmans :—

(1) That indigenous Musalman schools should be liberally encouraged to add purely secular subjects to their curriculum of instruction.

(2) That special standards should be prescribed for Musalman primary schools.

(3) That Hindustani should be the principal medium for imparting instruction to Musalmans in primary and middle schools, except in localities where the Moslem community desire that some other language be adopted.

(4) That the official vernacular, in places where it is not Hindustani, should be added as a voluntary subject to the curriculum of primary and middle schools for Musalmans maintained from public funds, and that arithmetic and accounts should be taught through the medium of that vernacular.

Sir Alfred Croft's proposal, 1891.

11. Up to the year 1891 no special efforts were made by the Government of Bengal for the improvement of primary education amongst the Moslems, but in his circular No. 98, dated Calcutta, the 25th July 1891. Sir Alfred Croft drew the attention of Divisional Inspectors to this subject. In this circular he pointed out that Moslems were not content to acquire primary education through the vernacular of their district, and that therefore the ordinary primary schools of the province would not suffice for Hindus and Moslems alike. He also stated that the attempt to create a special course for maktabs by inducing mianjis to add Bengali and arithmetic to the maktab course had generally failed ; that only a few schools had responded to the call, the reason being that the mianjis were generally incompetent to teach the additional subjects demanded of them. The result was that thousands of Moslem children received the only elementary instruction they would ever be likely to get in maktabs from which subjects of practical utility were excluded. Sir Alfred Croft proposed to remedy this state of things by offering definite recognition as well as encouragement in the shape of stipends for the Urdu and Persian course in maktabs on condition that certain standards of useful vernacular instruction were introduced. He divided maktabs into the following three classes, excluding purely Koran schools :—

(1) Maktabs teaching, in addition to the Koran, the ritual of Islam through the Urdu language.

(2) Maktabs teaching Urdu or Persian or both (with or without the Koran and ritual) and also a certain elementary standard in Bengali and arithmetic.

(3) Maktabs teaching the full departmental standards, lower or upper primary, in the vernacular, and Urdu or Persian as an additional language.

The elementary standard in Bengali and arithmetic in maktabs of class (2) above was to correspond to the recognized primary course, and the Urdu and Persian standards were to correspond to the lower and upper primary standards of the system then in existence. Sir Alfred Croft did not propose to aid maktabs of the first class except by a registration fee for the submission of annual returns. Those of the second and third classes were to be aided by stipends, varying from Re. 1 to Rs. 6 a month according to the standard attained. The Urdu stipend was to depend on the way in which the Urdu and Persian course and the departmental course were combined in a maktab. He hoped that, if these proposals were carried out, students from madrasahs would be induced to take up posts as mianjis. Sir Alfred Croft also tried to arrange definite courses of study for adoption in maktabs, but it is not clear whether any definite instructions were ever issued.

Sir Alexander Pedler's proposals, 1904.

13. This scheme was followed until 1904, when Sir Alexander Pedler reviewed the existing system of maktab education and came to the conclusion that the result of 12 years' working under the system was unsatisfactory in the highest degree. He ascribed this as being due to the apathy of the people themselves. He therefore called a conference of gentlemen acquainted with the conditions and requirements of the Moslem community. This conference sat in February 1904 at the Calcutta Madrasah under the presidency of Dr. Ross, who proposed the following classification of maktabs :—

(1) Maktabs teaching the Koran and the ritual of Islam through the Urdu language.
(2) Maktabs teaching Urdu or Persian or both, with or without the Koran and ritual, in addition to certain elementary standards in the vernacular of the district in which the maktab was situated and arithmetic up to at least the third-year infant class standard of the new vernacular scheme.
(3) Maktabs teaching the full departmental standards up to at least the third-year infant class of the new vernacular education scheme, with Urdu or Persian as an additional optional subject.

It will be noticed that this classification preserves the classification of Sir Alfred Croft, but the following grants-in-aid were proposed :—

(1) Maktabs of class I should not be aided except by the payment of an annual fee for the submission of annual returns.
(2) Maktabs of class II should get aid from the primary grant in the same way as ordinary pathsalas.
(3) Maktabs of class III should get the ordinary pathsala grant, together with an addition of 25 per cent. on the ordinary grant. This additional grant was proposed in order to encourage maktabs of classes I and II to adopt the full departmental standards. The payments were to be made out of the primary grants at the disposal of District Boards and in non-Board areas from the funds at the disposal of the department. With regard to the curriculum of studies, Dr. Ross proposed a separate curriculum for the maktabs in Calcutta and in the mufassal. Urdu and Persian literary readers and grammars were prescribed for maktabs ; in other subjects they were to follow the standards laid down for the lower primary and upper primary schools under the new vernacular scheme for education.

Inspecting maulvis.

14. So far the scheme is very similar to that of Sir Alfred Croft, but Sir Alexander Pedler also put forward new proposals. These were the creation of posts of inspecting maulvis to supervise the maktabs and induce the mianjis to add secular subjects to the instruction already imparted in them, and the establishment of departmental maktabs teaching up to the upper primary standard in each district and in Calcutta, the idea being to encourage other maktabs in the province to adopt departmental standards and to provide the means of supplying other maktabs with a better class of mianjis.

Sir Archdale Earle's Conference, 1908.

15. In 1908, Sir Archdale Earle, at that time on special duty, called a conference of Moslem gentlemen to consider the question of the institution of the Title Examination of the Calcutta Madrasah and other problems in connexion with the education of Musalmans. This conference took up the question of improving the education given in maktabs. The following parts of Sir Alexander Pedler's scheme had been given effect to by this time :—

(a) A special curriculum had been drawn up for maktabs in Calcutta.

(b) A special curriculum had been drawn up for maktabs in the mufassal.

(c) One model maktab had been established in Calcutta.

(d) Grants-in-aid to maktabs in Board and non-Board areas had been distributed.

(e) One inspecting maulvi had been appointed in Calcutta.

Sir Archdale Earle's Committee came to the conclusion that the scheme referred to above was very inadequate. They considered—

(1) that the amount of grants-in-aid given to maktabs was ridiculously small, for example, the Khulna district received Rs. 500 a year from which 10 maktabs out of 100 were aided ;

(2) that the inspecting maulvis who had been appointed under the scheme sanctioned by Government were underpaid, ill-qualified and too few in point of number ;

(3) that the number of maktabs maintained by Government—one in each of six districts and one in Calcutta—was insufficient ;

(4) that maktab teachers required special training and that at least one training school should be established for them in each of the districts where there were a considerable number of maktab teachers.

The question was also raised, why a separate course of studies should prevail in Calcutta maktabs, and whether it was necessary to have a curriculum for maktabs different from the ordinary departmental curriculum for primary schools.

The present Western Bengal scheme.

16. These questions were very carefully considered by an expert committee, and their proposals, which represent the scheme at present operative in West Bengal, are shown below :—

(1) Maktabs already aided were to be given an increased aid. All unaided maktabs were to be brought within the aided system at the rates reproduced below. This involved an additional expenditure of Rs. 70,000 a year.

(2) Concurrently with the increased grants-in-aid, increase in the special inspecting staff and improvement in that staff were sanctioned. Nine additional officers were to be appointed and their salary was to be Rs. 30 per month rising by an annual increment of Re. 1 to Rs. 50 a month. Their travelling allowance was to be regulated by the provisions of the Civil Service Regulations. This involved an extra cost of Rs. 6,368 a year.

(3) The number of departmental maktabs was to be increased.

(4) With regard to the question of the training of teachers for maktabs, it was decided that one of the already-sanctioned guru-training schools should be converted into a mianji-training school for the training of maktab teachers in districts in which there were a large number of maktabs. The teachers in these mianji-training schools were to get a higher rate of pay than the teachers in the ordinary guru-training schools.

(5) A special curriculum was drawn up which would be introduced into all maktabs. A boy after going through this curriculum should be sufficiently advanced to enter the second class of an upper primary school.

The West Bengal scheme.

17. Government sanctioned these proposals subject to the proviso that the scheme should be introduced gradually as funds were available. To sum up, the main features of the present West Bengal system are—

(1) The prescription of a special curriculum extending over four classes—a more rudimentary form of the general elementary curriculum plus the Koran and Urdu (where Urdu is not the vernacular language of the pupils). This course is supposed to fit a boy for admission to the bottom class of an upper primary school (Standard III of the vernacular syllabus).

(2) The preparation of special manuals for maktabs. This manual is made up as follows:—

Chapter I—School-room and arrangement of children.
,, II—Attendance registers.
,, III—Hygiene.
,, IV—Arithmetic.
,, V—Observation lessons and Nature Study.
,, VI—General chapter on maktabs.

(Chapters I to IV are a reproduction of the general school manual.)

(Chapter V is adapted to the maktab course and Chapter VI is new.)

(3) The grant-in-aid at special rates:—

(i) For maktabs with only the first-year class—50 per cent. of the ordinary lower primary school grant.
(ii) For maktabs with the second-year class—full ordinary lower primary school grant.
(iii) For maktabs with the third-year class—25 per cent. over the ordinary lower primary school grant.
(iv) For maktabs with the fourth-year class—50 per cent. over the ordinary lower primary school grant.

Where Urdu is taught as a separate subject and a special teacher is required, the prescribed grant is double that of an ordinary lower primary school. The ordinary grant of a lower primary school varies so greatly and is fixed on such variable features that it is not quite clear on what basis the calculation of special maktab rates is made.

(4) The establishment of departmental maktabs in certain districts.
(5) One guru-training school in each of the above districts to be converted into a special school for mianjis.

The position in East Bengal.

18. In East Bengal it is very difficult to state what action has been taken. The position is not so clear since the Partition. Up to the time of the Partition, although East Bengal was a part of Bengal, Sir Alexander Pedler's scheme had not been introduced. There was no system of departmental maktabs, special training schools or special inspecting officers, nor has such a system ever been since established. Out of the Imperial recurring grant of 10 lakhs, sanctioned in 1905, Rs. 3,33,000 were allotted to East Bengal, and from this grant assignments were made to District Boards for maktabs. These were distributed in the form of monthly stipends to such maktabs as endeavoured to teach the lower primary course. In 1907-08, Rs. 9,300 were allotted to maktabs in East Bengal. In 1910-11, allotments aggregating to Rs. 36,583 were made to 1,398 maktabs. In 1913-14, there were in East Bengal 1,782 recognized and 876 non-recognized maktabs; Rs. 56,114 were distributed from public funds in aid of these maktabs.

There are then two systems of maktab organisation in Bengal, and we had to consider whether the two systems should be retained or whether there should be one uniform system throughout the Presidency, and if so, what form that system should take.

19. The second point in connexion with primary education which the Government of India asked this Government to consider was the question of Urdu teaching in primary schools.

The teaching of Urdu in primary schools.

The Education Commission of 1885 suggested—

(1) that Hindustani should be the principal medium for imparting instruction to Musalmans in primary and middle schools except in localities where the Moslem community desire that some other language be adopted ;

(2) that the official vernacular in places where it is not Urdu should be added as a voluntary subject to the curriculum of primary and middle schools for Moslems maintained from public funds, and that arithmetic and accounts should be taught through the medium of that vernacular.

For practical purposes Bengali is the vernacular of this Presidency, but there are a few districts where Urdu is the vernacular of a large number of Moslems, e.g., in Dacca, Calcutta, Murshidabad and Hooghly. In 1889, Government approved of Urdu being taken as a second language in schools in Bengal, wherever an Urdu teacher could be provided.

Sir A. Earle's Moslem Education Committee of 1907-08 stated as their view (1) that Urdu is not to be considered the medium of instruction for Musalman children in the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions, although in exceptional places, where the bulk of the Moslem population speak Urdu as their vernacular, instruction should be imparted through the medium of their own language in accordance with the principles underlying the scheme of vernacular education, and (2) that additional Urdu teachers should be appointed to schools where Urdu is the second language, and that, as far as possible, aided schools should be encouraged to take similar steps.

In Eastern Bengal the question of Urdu teaching was raised at an educational conference held at Barisal in December 1905 under the presidentship of the Lieutenant-Governor (Sir B. Fuller). The question put before the conference was : Is it desirable to make Urdu (of the simplest character) an optional subject in lower primary, upper primary and middle schools in order to encourage Moslems to give their boys a secular education ? The Director of Public Instruction was asked to submit a report on the subject.

He submitted a scheme the main features of which were—

(i) that as an experimental measure Urdu should be introduced in some middle, upper primary and lower primary schools ;

(ii) that payment to the teacher or maulvi should be made by way of capitation allowance at certain rates ;

(iii) that certain Urdu books should be supplied to schools.

It was admitted that Urdu was in no sense a vernacular in Eastern Bengal and Assam. The reasons given for its introduction were (1) that the Moslems of Eastern Bengal require a knowledge of Urdu in order to have easy access to religious books in that language ; (2) that a knowledge of Urdu was necessary for a Musalman gentleman ; (3) that its introduction would popularise education among Moslems ; (4) that it would enable Musalman boys to come to school at an earlier age, since maktab or home instruction generally preceded pathsala instruction, whereas, if Urdu were introduced, the boys would be assisted in reading their religious books.

Government accepted the proposals, but the scheme has not evoked much enthusiasm and Inspectors are now recommending that the money which was to be spent on this scheme should be diverted for other purposes.

We have carefully considered the question of Urdu teaching in primary schools and have made certain recommendations.

20. The third suggestion of the Government of India in connexion with primary education is that special text-books should be written for semi-secular maktabs.

Special text-books for semi-secular maktabs.

The Eastern Bengal Committee on Moslem education, which met at Dacca in 1909-10, laid great stress on the adoption of special Bengali readers and primers particularly framed for Musalmans. It was laid down that the language of the books should be simple and should not exclude common words of Persian or Arabic origin. The Eastern Bengal and Assam Government placed a Sub-Inspector of Schools on special duty for the preparation of readers for lower primary maktabs for boys and girls and for zanana classes.

The following books have been prepared and prescribed :—

(1) Instructions for maktab teachers.
(2) The maktab primer.
(3) " " reader, No. 1.
(4) " " " No. 2.

In Bengal a special manual for maktabs has been prepared. This manual is in Urdu, and contains the following matter :—

Chapter I—School-room and arrangement of children.
" II—Attendance registers.
" III—Hygiene.
" IV—Arithmetic.
" V—Observation lessons and Nature Study.
" VI—General chapter on maktabs.

Chapters I to IV are a reproduction of the general school manual (Junior Teachers' Manual). Chapter V is adapted to the maktab courses, and Chapter VI is new.

21. The fourth suggestion of India is that stories not distasteful to Moslems and also stories of particular interest to them should be included in the text-books for ordinary schools.

The inclusion in the ordinary school text-books of materials congenial to Moslems.

The All-India Muhammadan Anglo-Oriental Educational Conference, which was held at Dacca in December 1906, brought to the notice of the Eastern Bengal and Assam Government that the text-books prescribed for schools in Eastern Bengal did not deal with such subjects as Moslem history and literature which might interest Musalman students.

The subject was discussed by a Committee appointed in February 1909 to consider the curriculum for vernacular schools in Eastern Bengal. The Committee recommended that the reading books used in rural schools should contain a large proportion of stories which would interest both Hindus and Musalmans. Special vernacular books were accordingly prepared and prescribed.

22. The Government of India suggest that Moslem teachers should be appointed where practicable.

The need for Moslem teachers.

In maktabs the teachers are Moslems. In ordinary primary schools the teacher is ordinarily not appointed to the school but starts the school himself.

23. In 1888-89 two Moslem Assistant Inspectors were appointed—one for Eastern Bengal and the other for Bihar, with instructions among other things "to ascertain and report to the Inspectors the special educational wants of Muhammadans and to endeavour to acquire influence with those in authority among their co-religionists in order to induce them to introduce into their system of education useful secular subjects such as arithmetic, accounts and the local vernacular." But this system of having Assistant Inspectors of Musalman education was abolished in 1901, as, in pursuance of the recommendations of the Education Commission of 1885, a large number of posts on the ordinary inspecting staff had by that time been filled by Moslems.

The provision of a separate inspecting agency for Moslems.

Inspecting maulvis for maktabs were appointed under Sir A. Pedler's scheme and have been retained ever since.

In 1908, Mr. Earle, who was then on special duty in the Education Department, addressed Government on the subject of Musalman education. Among other recommendations he suggested that a special Moslem inspecting staff should be appointed. He considered that there should be in each Inspector's division a special officer who should be concerned solely with the education of Moslems. He proposed that such an officer should inspect among other institutions all the maktabs in his circle. Mr. Earle did not think it necessary to create any new posts for these special officers. He recommended that, of the existing superior staff, one Moslem officer in each Inspector's circle, either an Assistant or a selected Deputy Inspector, should be set apart for the duties. Mr. Earle's recommendations were generally approved by Government.

No such officers nor inspecting maulvis were appointed in Eastern Bengal.

The Dacca Committee on Musalman education were of opinion (1) that no special Moslem agency was required, (2) that where there was no Deputy or Sub-Inspector qualified to examine maktab boys in Urdu, the inspecting officer should call in the aid of a local Moslem Marriage Registrar, (3) that it was not desirable that the inspecting agency should examine the boys in the Koran.

B.—Secondary Education.

24. The Government of India also discuss the causes which have retarded the spread of secondary education among Musalmans, and make certain observations and suggestions.

Their first suggestion is—

The improvement of existing institutions for the education of Moslems, e.g., the Calcutta Madrasah.

The improvement of the Calcutta Madrasah.

25. In 1909, the Government of India suggested to this Government that a Muhammadan college for the two Bengals should be established by removing the Calcutta Madrasah to a more suitable site either in Bengal or in Eastern Bengal and Assam, and reorganizing it on the lines of the Aligarh College; they suggested that a considerable sum could be raised by the sale of the existing buildings and site, whereby the Madrasah might be started on an enlarged and improved scale in more healthy and commodious surroundings. The feelings and wishes of the Muhammadan community were, however, against the proposal, and Government were assured that any attempt to remove the Madrasah from Calcutta would be most unfavourably viewed by the Muhammadans of Bengal and Eastern Bengal. The Government of India were, however, informed that the improvement of the Madrasah and the restoration of its status as an arts college affiliated to the University were being kept in view, and that the Government of Bengal desired to effect these ends as soon as funds were available. Proposals have now been worked out, but owing to the present international crisis funds are not available.

The provision of separate institutions for Moslems and the reservation of vacancies for Moslem pupils.

26. The second suggestion of the Government of India is that separate institutions for the education of Moslems should be established in places where this can be done without detriment to efficiency or discipline and without unreasonable expense. They observe that one of the reasons which have retarded the spread of education among Moslems is the linguistic difficulty. They think that special schools and colleges for Moslems may go far to meet this difficulty, but they remark that this is an expedient which for financial reasons cannot be adopted generally; and where this is not feasible a good deal may be done by reserving a certain number of vacancies for Musalman pupils in institutions which by reason of their reputation draw many applicants for admission and by safeguarding the interests of the community in other ways.

27. So far as this Presidency is concerned, we have the Anglo-Persian departments of the Madrasahs at Calcutta, Dacca, and Chittagong which teach up to the Matriculation standard and are very popular with the Moslem community. Schemes for the establishment of a Musalman college at Dacca, and another in Calcutta are under consideration.

28. Since 1905 a special class of institutions called middle madrasahs has been established in Eastern Bengal. They are bilingual middle vernacular schools and act as feeders to high schools and central madrasahs. They are aided from public funds. These institutions were popular for a time, but they have now served their purpose and are no longer being encouraged.

The teaching of Urdu in secondary schools.

29. The Government of India next raise the question of Urdu in secondary schools. In Bengal, except in Calcutta, Dacca, Murshidabad and Hooghly, the vernacular of Moslems is Bengali.

30. The question of Urdu as second language has been engaging the attention of Government for some time past. As Director of Public Instruction Mr. Earle did his best to make provision for additional teachers in those schools which took up Urdu as a second language and which required Urdu teachers. It was recognized that unless Moslem boys learnt something of Urdu in the lower classes of high schools, they entered the higher classes, where they had to study Persian, totally unprepared for taking up that language. Mr. Earle recommended that the policy of providing additional teachers where necessary should be steadily pursued, and aided schools should, as far as possible, be encouraged to take similar steps.

Hostels for Moslem pupils.

31. The Government of India next suggest the maintenance of hostels for Moslem pupils under private management with religious teaching. They observe that one of the reasons which have retarded the spread of secondary education among Moslems is the demand for religious instruction. They think that this demand can be arranged in privately-managed hostels attached to Government institutions.

32. The question of religious instruction in hostels was discussed at the Dacca Conference on moral and religious education in March 1912. The Moslem members of the Conference were of opinion that prayer and religious instruction should be compulsory for all boys whose parents desire it and that religious instruction should be given by the Superintendent of the hostel himself. If he is unable to do so, a maulvi may be appointed to carry out the duties under the supervision of the Superintendent. The Conference were of opinion that in aided schools the governing authorities should be free to make such arrangements as they consider desirable.

33. The Moslem members of the Calcutta Conference were of opinion that prayer and religious instruction should be compulsory for all boys; that, as regards prayer, there should be no exception or relaxation, and that, as regards religious instruction, it should be presumed that the guardians desire it, unless they communicate their wishes to the contrary. They thought that in a Moslem hostel the Moslem superintendent should ordinarily see to prayer and religious observances.

The appointment of a reasonable number of Moslems to the committees and to the governing bodies of aided institutions.

34. Under the new University Regulations no college or school can be affiliated to the Calcutta University, unless it is placed under the management of a regularly-constituted governing body or a committee on which the teaching staff is represented. In order to meet the requirements of these regulations, governing bodies have now been constituted for all government colleges and consist, with very few exceptions, of the following members :—

(1) the Divisional Commissioner;

(2) the Principal of the college; and

(3) the senior professor of the college.

Of these, the first is the President and the second Vice-President and Secretary.

The managing committees of all high schools have, for the same reason, been entirely reconstituted. In Western Bengal the managing committee of a collegiate school consists of—

(1) the Commissioner (President),
(2) the Principal or Lady Principal (Vice-President),
(3) the Divisional Inspector of Schools, and
(4) the Head Master or Head Mistress (Secretary).

The managing committee of a Government zilla or high school in Western Bengal consists of—

(1) the District Magistrate (President),
(2) the School Inspector (Vice-President),
(3) the Assistant Inspector,
(4) the Head Master or Head Mistress (Secretary).

In Eastern Bengal and Assam it consists of—

(1) the District Magistrate (President),
(2) the School Inspector (Vice-President),
(3) the Assistant Inspector,
(4) the Head Master (Secretary),
(5) a civil officer recommended by the Commissioner and approved by Government, and
(6) a teacher of the school elected by members of the teaching staff.

There are no separate orders for Eastern Bengal and Assam regarding collegiate schools.

Rules have been framed defining the duties of these committees.

35. The Government of Eastern Bengal and Assam prescribed certain rules regarding the constitution of a representative managing committee for every aided school, unless specially exempted by the Director of Public Instruction. The rules laid down that the members of the committee should be representative of the various classes of the community.

36. The Government of India observe that one of the many causes which have retarded the spread of secondary education among the Moslems is the want of Musalman representation on the governing bodies of educational institutions. They remark that in certain parts of the country the great majority of secondary schools are managed by Hindu bodies and that among the 100 ordinary members of the Calcutta Senate only 6 are Moslems. The establishment of special Moslem schools and colleges would, in their opinion, simplify this and other matters; but they apprehend that it will seldom be possible to adopt this expedient for financial reasons.

Moslems as teachers and inspecting officers.

37. The question of providing an adequate number of Moslems to be teachers and inspecting officers has engaged the attention of the Government for many years. In 1893, Dr. Martin (Director of Public Instruction) dealt with two of the recommendations of the Education Commission about the employment of Moslems as educational officers. He remarks that "it appears to me that, provided candidates with the necessary qualifications are obtainable, orders should be issued to the Education Department and to District and Municipal Boards to appoint only Moslem candidates to sub-inspectorships, till such time as the Musalman element in the inspecting staff of each district is reported to be in proportion to its Musalman population. The circle inspectors, in making appointments to zilla schools, should also be guided by a similar principle." In order to keep the Director of Public Instruction informed as to what was done in the matter it was proposed by the Director that Inspectors of Schools, when making appointments to masterships in zilla schools, should, on each occasion, report to him the name of the candidate selected, with special reports on those cases in which it might be thought desirable to depart from this principle; and that no appointment should be of a substantive character, till finally confirmed by the Director of Public Instruction. The Director of Public Instruction was authorised to issue orders departmentally in regard to the employment of Moslems as teachers in zilla schools.

38. In December 1898, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal visited Cuttack. The question of the employment of Moslems as educational officers (Sub-Inspectors) arose with reference to a request made in an address then presented to His Honour. Dr. Martin was consulted and, as a result, information regarding the employment of Moslems in zilla schools in the Presidency, Dacca and Chittagong Divisions for the period 1894—1898 was called for. The figures indicated that the Inspectors had not complied with the wishes of Government in administering the patronage entrusted to them. The Lieutenant-Governor insisted that the pledge given by Government should be carried out by the Education Department, and though His Honour did not interfere on that occasion, he desired it to be clearly understood by Inspectors of Schools that the orders of Government must be obeyed, and that any appointments which were made in contravention of the Government policy would be cancelled.

39. In May 1901, the Director of Public Instruction forwarded a report regarding the employment of Moslems in zilla schools during the year 1900. His Honour remarked that the figures were amazing, as out of 382 teachers on the Government staff only 26 were Moslems. He declined altogether to believe that qualified Moslems could not be found. He thought that Hindu head masters were in the habit of making it known that no Musalmans need apply. His orders were—

(1) that, if there is no local candidate, head masters must apply to the nearest madrasah—Calcutta or Dacca, and

(2) that instructions, in unmistakeable terms, should be given to appointing authorities.

Orders were accordingly issued to the Director of Public Instruction, and he was desired to submit an annual statement to Government regarding the employment of Moslems as teachers and Sub-Inspectors.

40. Very soon after the creation of the province of Eastern Bengal and Assam, Sir B. Fuller called for a statement from the Director of Public Instruction showing certain particulars regarding Moslem pupils and masters. The returns, as remarked by His Honour, brought out into very strong relief the smallness of the part played by the Government high schools of Eastern Bengal in the education of the Musalman community. He thought it probable that the attendance of the Moslem students would be much larger, if the teaching staff included a substantial proportion of Moslems. He noted that the teaching staff was almost wholly Hindu, and desired that the gradual raising of the proportion of Moslem masters to at least 33 per cent. should be aimed at.

41. An annual statement regarding the employment of Moslems as teachers in zilla and Government high schools is now submitted for the whole Presidency.

42. In connexion with the improvement of educational facilities for Moslems in Bengal, Mr. Earle, while on special duty, suggested that a special Moslem inspecting staff should be appointed in each Inspector's division and recommended that, out of the existing staff, an Assistant or a selected Deputy Inspector should be set apart in each Inspector's circle for the purpose of watching the educational interests of Moslems. The proposals were approved by Government, and two officers of the rank of Assistant or Deputy Inspector were set apart for the purpose in the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions. There were no such special officers in Eastern Bengal.

43. The employment of a due proportion of Moslem officers in the Education Department has always been regarded as one of the best means of advancing the cause of Musalman education. It was laid down by the Government of Eastern Bengal and Assam that the number of Musalman Sub-Inspectors of Schools in every district should be in proportion to the Moslem population and that a fixed proportion of the teachers in Government high schools should be Moslems. It is not easy, however, to secure the services of Moslems qualified to hold high posts in the Education Department. We attach a table (Table IV) which shows the proportion of Moslems to the total population of each division and compares the number of Moslem school inspecting officers in each grade with the number of inspecting officers of other communities. Musalman inspecting officers are essential to the expansion of education among Moslems. It is evident that more Musalmans are required as inspecting officers, but the comparatively poor prospects which the educational services now offer deter qualified men from joining the department. The number of Moslem teachers in Eastern Bengal, especially in primary schools, is. however, considerable, the total number in institutions of all kinds being 14,656 on the 31st March 1912 for the whole province of Eastern Bengal and Assam. Similar figures for Bengal are not available in the Bengal Quinquennial Review, which gives figures for secondary and special schools under Government, but not for primary schools. In Bengal there are 83 Muhammadan teachers in secondary schools, 15 in special schools.

44. As regards sub-inspectorships, the standing orders are that the number of Moslem Sub-Inspectors in every district of the Presidency should bear to the total number of Sub-Inspectors in the district the same proportion as the Musalman population of the district bears to the total population.

45. The Government of India also ask Local Governments to consider whether any extension of the present system of scholarships is required in the interests of poor Moslem students.

Scholarships.

46. The award of special scholarships and the provision of free education for poor students have for long been included in the Government programme for the encouragement of education among Moslems. Ever since the recommendations of the Education Commission of 1882-83 were promulgated, a certain number of scholarships of every grade have been reserved from Moslems. We attach a table (Table VI) which shows the total number of Government scholarships of all kinds available in the Presidency and the number under each head reserved for Moslems.

47. The rules relating to free studentships were also revised in favour of Moslems by the Eastern Bengal and Assam Government. The number of free studentships tenable in high, middle and upper primary schools was raised to 13 per cent. of the roll-number, and it was decided that these free studentships should be held in the proportion of 8 : 5 by Muhammadans and Hindus, respectively. A number of half-free studentships have also been provided in schools and colleges out of the proceeds of the Mohsin Fund.

48. In Government and Government-aided middle and high schools in Bengal, Moslem pupils who pay no fees may not exceed 5 per cent. of the total roll-number of the schools. In addition to pupils admitted under this concession, Moslems may be admitted free up to 8 per cent. of the number of Moslems on the roll, but the number of pupils admitted under this provision must not exceed 12. Six junior and 8 senior scholarships are reserved for Moslems. There are also scholarships which have been created for Moslem students from private endowments—10 at the Matriculation, 5 at the Intermediate and 5 at the B.A. stage. Besides scholarships, a certain proportion of the fees of Moslem boys in schools and colleges is paid from the Mohsin Fund, so far as the income of that fund permits.

49. The Government of India observe that one of the reasons which have retarded the spread of secondary education among Moslems is the poverty of the community. They remark that this has been to a large extent met by special Government scholarships and endowments and that this is essentially a matter for the Local Government and the community themselves. They, however, think that in parts of the country where Musalmans are slow to enter institutions for technical and industrial training—and they notice that very few Moslems have been selected for the State Technical Scholarships—it may be found desirable to offer some special facilities by wav of stipends or scholarships.

C.—Education of Girls.

50. In paragraph 6 of their letter the Government of India observe that no system of education for Moslems could be regarded as complete unless it includes arrangements for the education of girls, and they desire to see adopted the general principles detailed in paragraphs 16—18 of their Resolution of the 21st February 1913. These principles are :—

(a) The education of girls should be practical with reference to the position which they will fill in social life.

(b) It should not seek to imitate the education suitable for boys, nor should it be dominated by examinations.

(c) Special attention should be paid to hygiene and the surroundings of school life.

(d) The services of women should be more freely enlisted for instruction and inspection.

(e) Continuity in inspection and control should be specially aimed at.

51. The education of girls among Moslems has made a rapid advance during the last decade, especially in Eastern Bengal where there has been a rise from 5,564 in 1901-02 to 16,468 in 1906-07 and 56,683 in 1911-12. This result is attributed partly to the introduction, facilitated by special grants made through the District Boards, of a simple course of primary instruction into maktabs and Koran schools, and partly to a remarkable awakening among the Moslems of certain districts to the benefits of female education.

52. The question of the improvement of female education was discussed by the Simla Conference of 1901. The recommendations of the Government of India on the suggestion of the Conference were that the Local Governments should establish model primary schools for girls, and where necessary, Government schools for different stages as models. They also recommended that the curriculum of all primary schools for girls should be restricted to the three R's and such subjects as will be useful to them and cannot be learnt at home and that all useless subjects should be rigidly excluded.

53. The Director of Public Instruction was asked for a report on the question of model schools and was asked to draw up and submit to Government a curriculum for these institutions. A syllabus was prescribed and a recurring grant for the establishment of model primary girls' schools was sanctioned in 1902. A scheme was next submitted for the training of zanana ladies, and it was proposed that it should in the first instance be tried in nine different centres. This was sanctioned. These zanana classes were meant for both Moslems and Hindus.

54. In July 1907, the Director of Public Instruction submitted proposals which had been worked out at a conference of leading Moslems, convened to consider the question of promoting the education of Moslem girls and women. Government sanctioned these proposals, which were—

(1) that, in lieu of the ordinary syllabus prescribed for girls' schools, the syllabus prepared by the conference should be approved as an experimental measure for use in special schools for Moslem girls and also for use in connexion with Moslem zanana instruction ;

(2) that special readers in accordance with the syllabus should be prepared ;

(3) that the books should be written in Urdu.

55. In Eastern Bengal, besides the creation of zanana classes, elaborate schemes were prepared for the education of Moslem girls. These proposals were formulated by the Female Education Committee held at Dacca in 1909, 1910 and 1911. The main features of the scheme were—

(1) that secular instructions should be given in selected maktabs, aided by grants ;

(2) that departmental schools of a certain type should be opened as an experiment in Musalman centres ;

(3) that a central female madrasah should be established at Dacca ;
(4) that a Moslem hostel should be established in connexion with the Dacca Eden School for girls ;
(5) that special readers should be prepared for primary schools and zanana classes ;
(6) that urban schools should be started at district and subdivisional head-quarters.

D.—Conclusion.

56. The impression we obtain from a perusal of what is stated in this chapter is that, though much has been attempted and something at least done to improve the position of the Moslems of Bengal, much more will have to be done before the community can take its proper share in the public life of the Presidency.

CHAPTER IV.

The General Policy.

The separate educational system for Moslems should be recognized but not further developed.

57. Although there has been a tendency during the past few years for Moslems to take more advantage of the ordinary courses of instruction, and although the number of Moslems in various kinds of schools has increased, yet wherever private Moslem enterprise is concerned—it tends to develop purely Islamic institutions. The reason is that there is still a strong feeling in the community that a separate system of education will preserve the social and religious independence of Moslems.

58. We fully realise this tendency and at the same time we feel that, with the limited funds which are at the disposal of Government for the encouragement of education, it is impracticable to insist that a Moslem boy shall, throughout his educational career, be educated in schools intended exclusively for Moslems. At the same time we cannot ignore the fact that a large section of the community regards general educational institutions with suspicion, and we therefore think that it is still necessary for Government to aid and in some cases to maintain a number of separate institutions for Moslems. In this connexion we record the following recommendation :—

RECOMMENDATION 1.—That while it is necessary to maintain special institutions for Moslems it is undesirable to develop further a system of education for this community separate from that of other communities. The existing systems should be carefully examined to see where they fail to satisfy members of the community, and necessary modifications should be introduced.

CHAPTER V.

Primary Education.

59. The Government of India state in their letter that Moslems hold their own in primary schools. We desire to observe that the figures for Bengal do not support this view. Out of 1,027,654 pupils attending primary schools on 31st March 1914, 4,61,711 or less than half were Moslems.

60. In Bengal, Moslems receive their primary education in (a) ordinary primary schools, (b) maktabs. We had first of all to decide whether in view of the recommendation made at the end of the last chapter, we could consistently recommend Government to recognize and develop maktabs.

61. The majority of the people of Bengal live in rural areas and not in large towns. The people are conservative and, therefore, although we think it is undesirable to develop further a system of schools for the Moslem community separate from the general system, we consider that Government must recognise the existence of maktabs and encourage them as far as possible to add secular subjects to their courses of study. We consider it essential to keep our recommendations concerning maktabs entirely distinct from our recommendations with regard to the ordinary primary institutions for the education of Moslems and others.

A.—Ordinary Primary Schools.

62. District Boards are primarily responsible for the maintenance of primary schools under public management in a district; they are also responsible for making grants-in-aid to schools, whether under public or private management.

63. Each District Board has an education committee consisting of (a) the Deputy Inspector of Schools, (b) three members of the District Board, (c) not more than three residents of the district not being members of the District Board. This committee controls directly the affairs of schools maintained by the District Board on the recommendation of the Deputy Inspector of Schools. The Deputy Inspector is assisted in his work by Sub-Inspectors.

64. The chief condition for a grant-in-aid is that a curriculum prescribed by the Department of Public Instruction shall be followed. There are at present two separate and distinct curricula for primary schools in force in Bengal—one prescribed by the late Government of Eastern Bengal and Assam and the other prescribed by the late Government of Bengal. The unification of these curricula is a matter which is at present occupying the attention of Government.

65. We wish to point out to Government that, in order to safeguard Moslem interests, certain modifications are necessary in the organization which controls the primary grants and also in the curricula which have been prescribed.

66. The distribution of the primary grants in any district is in the hands of the District Board, who are advised in this matter by the school inspecting staff of the district. Now the Moslem community is neither sufficiently represented on the inspecting staff nor on the District Board. Hence it may result that primary schools started by Musalmans or in Moslem localities fail to get sympathetic treatment from the authorities. Again, a course of instruction, which is purely secular, can never appeal to Moslem parents, and if the ordinary primary schools are to attract Moslems, there must be provision in the curriculum for religious teaching. The text-books which are prescribed for use in primary schools are usually written by non-Moslems; they often contain sentiments and phrases which are regarded by Moslems as objectionable. At any rate the text-books used in the ordinary primary schools do not contain ideas and sentiments which appeal to Moslems. Moslem authors are generally poor and cannot go to the expense of publishing books on the chance of their being prescribed; indeed it has been represented to us that they have little chance of getting their books prescribed, as the Moslem community is not well represented on the text-book committees.

67. In order to make primary schools acceptable to Musalman parents, we make the following recommendations for the consideration of Government.

RECOMMENDATION 2.—That the representation of Moslems on the education and finance committees of District Boards is not sufficient to ensure that the interests of the Moslem community are not neglected. The number of Moslems on both these committees should be increased.

To effect this increment we recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 3.—That of the Deputy Inspectors at district head-quarters one should always be a Moslem and that there should always be both on the District Board and on its education and finance committee a Moslem Deputy Inspector of Schools who is stationed at the district head-quarters.

RECOMMENDATION 4.—That, in selecting the three non-members of the Board for the education committee, due regard should be paid to the interests of Moslems.

RECOMMENDATION 5.—That, as three members of the education committee are elected from members of the District Board itself, it is very necessary from the point of view of Musalmans that they should be adequately represented on District Boards. We recommend that the number of Moslem members on District Boards should bear the same ratio to the total number of members on the Board as the Moslem population bears to the total population of the district.

RECOMMENDATION 6.—That there should be greater Moslem representation on the finance committees of the District Boards.

We also recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 7.—That the number of Moslem Deputy Inspectors should be increased so that in each division the ratio of the number of Moslem Deputy Inspectors to the total number of Deputy Inspectors should be the same as the ratio of the Moslem population to the total population of the division.

68. We make the following recommendations with regard to the curriculum :—

RECOMMENDATION 8.—That in primary schools the last period of each day shall be set aside for moral instruction.

RECOMMENDATION 9.—That during this period Moslem boys should be given such instruction as will tend to make them good Moslems.

RECOMMENDATION 10.—That this religious instruction should be given by the mulla attached to a local mosque (or if such a mulla cannot be found, by some resident at the locality to whom a suitable sum should be paid as remuneration). This religious teacher should be regarded as a member of the school staff and should be paid from the school funds. A whole-time Moslem teacher should be appointed on the staff of any school in which the number of Moslem boys would justify such an appointment. This teacher should give the necessary moral instruction.

RECOMMENDATION 11.—That in all primary schools work should be suspended for one hour on Fridays to enable Moslem boys to say their Juma prayers ; on other days in the week work should be suspended for half an hour to enable Moslem boys to say their midday prayers.

RECOMMENDATION 12.—That manuals for religious instruction should be prepared in the vernaculars of the province for the guidance of the teachers.

69. We also recommend that—

RECOMMENDATION 13.—Moslems should be adequately represented on the text-book committee which is to be formed for the whole Presidency.

RECOMMENDATION 14.—That no book should be rejected as a text-book on account of its containing words conveying ideas or sentiments peculiar to Moslems, or such words in common use among them as have not an exact equivalent in current Bengali.

RECOMMENDATION 15.—That Moslem authors should be allowed to submit their books to the text-book committee in manuscript.

RECOMMENDATION 16.—That Government should encourage authors to publish Bengali books which are Moslem in character.

RECOMMENDATION 17.—That readers prescribed for maktabs shall also be prescribed as alternative readers in lower primary schools.

70. Two other questions in connexion with the ordinary primary schools occupied our attention : (1) questions of scholarships in primary schools, (2) questions of Urdu teaching in primary schools, in Bengal.

Scholarships.

71. There are at present certain scholarships open for competition to pupils attending lower primary schools ; there are other scholarships open for competition to pupils attending upper primary schools or primary classes of middle and high schools.

72. Lower primary scholarships are distributed according to thanas. A preliminary selection of candidates is made by the Sub-Inspector of Schools. The number of names selected must not exceed three times the number of scholarships allotted to each thana, and the name of not more than two candidates from each school may appear in the list. The final selection for scholarships is made by means of an examination of the selected candidates in books and subjects prescribed from time to time by the Deputy Inspector of Schools. The scholarships are finally awarded by the District Board in consultation with the Deputy Inspector.

73. Similar rules apply in the case of upper primary scholarships except that the scholarships are distributed according to subdivisions. The preliminary selection is made by the Deputy Inspector of Schools and the scholarships are finally awarded by the Inspector of Schools.

74. The results of the scholarship examinations for the past few years show that the ratio of the number of scholarships gained by Moslem boys to the number of scholarships gained by Hindu boys is much less than the ratio of the number of Moslem school boys to the number of the Hindu school boys. We think that this may be due to the method of selecting the candidates from the various schools. Government has already accepted the principle of reserving scholarships for Moslem boys, but we consider that the number reserved (in the case of lower primary scholarships 7 out of 684 and in the case of upper primary school scholarships 24 out of 194) is totally inadequate.

75. We, therefore, recommend to Government—

RECOMMENDATION 18.—That more lower and upper primary scholarships should be reserved for Moslems.

RECOMMENDATION 19.—That the system of awarding these scholarships should be carefully checked.

Urdu in primary schools.

76. The question of Urdu in primary schools is one of the most difficult questions which the Committee had to face. There is still an idea at the back of the minds of more conservative members of the community that Urdu is the mother-tongue of all Moslems. Such persons admit that Moslems may have had to adopt the vernacular of the people among whom they live for the affairs of everyday life, but they contend that the language which is connected with Moslem religion and tradition is Urdu. Urdu is the language which represents the modern culture and civilisation of Moslems in India. At the same time we realise that the majority of Moslems in Bengal not only do not read and write Urdu but do not even speak it. Whatever may be the reason, the fact remains that the vernacular of the great majority of Moslems in Bengal is Bengali. We recognise that Bengali must be the medium of instruction in schools attended by children whose vernacular is Bengali. We also realise that, if Moslem boys are forced to learn Urdu in addition to their ordinary school subjects, the burden imposed on them will handicap them throughout their school career. At the same time we feel that Muhammadan boys should have the opportunity of learning the elements of Urdu to facilitate their study of the Koran.

After much discussion we agreed to record the following resolutions :—

RECOMMENDATION 20.—That the medium of instruction in primary schools must be the vernacular of the boys, that is Bengali, excepting in the case of schools in Calcutta, Dacca and Murshidabad or other localities in which Urdu is the vernacular of Moslems.

RECOMMENDATION 21.—That, while accepting the view that Bengali is ordinarily the medium of instruction in primary schools, we feel that some provision should be made for the teaching of elementary Urdu as a help to imparting religious instruction, but that this provision should not necessarily involve the instruction of Urdu readers into the schools.

B.—Maktabs.

77. The discussion on this subject was based on a note prepared by the Secretary. This note, which is attached to this report, describes how two different systems of maktab organisation have grown up in the Eastern and Western sections of the Presidency. It concludes by making certain definite recommendations.

78. We first of all decided that it would be advisable to have one common system of maktab organisation throughout the Presidency and then considered in detail the requirements of maktabs under the following heads :—

(1) The curriculum.
(2) Model maktabs.
(3) Moallim training schools.
(4) Special inspecting officers.
(5) Scholarships.
(6) Special manuals and readers.
(7) The system of grants-in-aid.

79. We agreed to make the following recommendations to Government :—

RECOMMENDATION 22.—That the curriculum for maktabs should be so arranged that a Moslem boy, after completing it, will be in the same position with regard to secular learning as a boy who has completed the lower primary course.

RECOMMENDATION 23.—That the curriculum shown as an Appendix to this report may be regarded as suitable for maktabs, subject to the proviso that such modifications shall be carried out in it as may be deemed to be necessary, when a uniform vernacular curriculum has been prescribed for the whole Presidency.

RECOMMENDATION 24.—That model maktabs should be established in each of the thanas of the Presidency in which there is a preponderance of Moslems.

RECOMMENDATION 25.—That these maktabs should be under the control and management of the District Boards exactly as Board lower primary schools are.

RECOMMENDATION 26.—That these maktabs should be of the type of Board lower primary schools.

RECOMMENDATION 27.—That the staff of a maktab for 50 boys or less should consist of at least two trained teachers, one for general subject and the other for Urdu and the Koran. Both should be Moslems, if possible. Additional teachers should be appointed for each 25 boys.

RECOMMENDATION 28.—That training schools for maktab teachers should be started in localities having not less than 150 maktabs.

RECOMMENDATION 29.—That the staff of such a training school should be Moslem as far as possible and that a Qari or a Hafiz should be appointed in addition to the staff required for secular subjects.

RECOMMENDATION 30.—That this committee wish to emphasize the need for practising maktabs in connection with these training schools, in which the teachers in training can practise under conditions which prevail in ordinary maktabs.

RECOMMENDATION 31.—That the term "mianji" should no longer be used to designate teachers in maktabs, but that these teachers should in future be known as "moallims."

RECOMMENDATION 32.—That each district should be given a special Sub-Inspector of Schools for the supervision of maktabs.

RECOMMENDATION 33.—That where there are more than 90 maktabs in a district, an Assistant Sub-Inspector should be appointed on the general basis of an Assistant Sub-Inspector of Schools for every 90 maktabs.

RECOMMENDATION 34.—That the salary of the Sub-Inspector should be Rs. 60 and that of the Assistant Sub-Inspector Rs. 40 and that travelling allowance should be paid in accordance with the conditions of the Civil Service Regulations.

RECOMMENDATION 35.—That the rates of pay recommended in the previous recommendation being much higher than those of inspecting maulvis, it is desirable that men of higher qualifications should be appointed. To be qualified for the post a candidate should have passed at least the final Madrasah examination and have a working knowledge of English.

RECOMMENDATION 36.—That a maktab scholarship examination should be established on similar lines to the primary scholarship examination.

RECOMMENDATION 37.—That a number of scholarships of Rs. 3 per month, tenable for two years in upper primary classes of high and middle schools or in training schools or in Government-aided madrasahs, should be provided.

RECOMMENDATION 38.—That these scholarships should be renewable for a further period of two years.

RECOMMENDATION 39.—That teachers' manuals should be prepared at Government expense for the use of moallims in training.

RECOMMENDATION 40.—That these manuals should be prepared both in Urdu and Bengali.

RECOMMENDATION 41.—That special readers of a definitely Moslem character should be prescribed for use in maktabs, and that these readers should also be prescribed as alternative text-books in lower primary schools.

RECOMMENDATION 42.—That the District Board grants to maktabs should be shown under a separate head in the District Board budget.

RECOMMENDATION 43.—That the proposition statement for District Board grants to maktabs should be prepared in consultation with the Special Sub-Inspector and with the concurrence of the Assistant Inspector of Schools for Muhammadan education.

As regards grants-in-aid to maktabs, we decided to put forward the following recommendations :—

RECOMMENDATION 44.—(a) That maktabs having all four classes of a lower primary school shall be eligible for a minimum grant of Rs. 6.

(b) That maktabs having all but the highest class shall be eligible for a minimum grant of Rs. 4.

(c) That maktabs having only the two lowest classes shall be eligible for a grant of Rs. 2; that maktabs having only two classes shall not be required to entertain two teachers.

RECOMMENDATION 45.—That the returns from maktabs from the various districts should be kept separate from the returns for primary schools, as already is the case in the Burdwan and Presidency Divisions.

CHAPTER VI.

Secondary Education.

80. We have already alluded to the fact that the higher the stage of instruction the fewer the Moslem pupils. Table III, which is attached to this report, illustrates this. The Government of India have suggested in their letter which instituted this inquiry that the reasons which have retarded the spread of secondary education among Moslems are—the poverty of the community, the linguistic difficulty, the demand for religious instruction, and the absence of Moslem representation from the governing bodies of educational institutions. Another reason may be added, viz., the conservatism and apathy of the masses of the people.

The secondary school system.

81. Most English schools are under private management, but there are several schools managed and maintained by Government and local bodies. The following statement shows the number of English schools in Bengal :—

Government schools	43
Managed by local bodies	45
Aided schools	1,018
Unaided schools	827

82. The Department of Public Instruction has some control over Government schools and those managed by local bodies. In aided schools certain regulations can be imposed as a condition of the grant. The department has also a slight control over the unaided schools, as the pupils of these schools compete for Government scholarships. All high schools, however, are really controlled by the Calcutta University, as the final examination at the end of the school course is the Matriculation examination of this University. The first difficulty which has to be surmounted by a boy intending to follow a professional career is the Matriculation examination, and hence the sole object of high school authorities is to get their boys through this examination. Boys must study in a school which is recognized by the Syndicate of the University. Recognition is usually given on the recommendation of an Inspector of the Education Department, as the University has no inspecting agency of its own. The curriculum for the Matriculation examination is prescribed by the Syndicate of the University independently of the Department of Public Instruction.

83. We regret to find that so small a percentage of the boys reading in secondary schools is Moslem. We have carefully examined the whole question and come to the conclusion that, unless more high English schools are established and unless certain very decided reforms are made both in the organisation and curriculum of existing schools, no headway will be made, so far as the admission of Moslem boys to these schools is concerned. We have considered the subject under the following headings :—

(1) Inadequacy of high school accommodation.
(2) The constitution of managing committees of high English schools.
(3) The constitution of the teaching staffs of high English schools.
(4) Scholarships.
(5) Reservation of places for Moslem boys in high schools.
(6) Keeping of a register of applications for admission into high schools.
(7) Provision of hostel accommodation for Moslem boys.
(8) Transfer rules.
(9) Inspection and other general questions.

Need for high schools in centres of rural areas.

84. We desire to draw the attention of Government to the fact that Moslems find difficulties in gaining admission to the high schools which are located in district head-quarters, as these places are largely inhabited by public servants and other people in good position, the majority of whom are non-Moslems. With this end in view we passed the following recommendations—

RECOMMENDATION 46.—That schools should be started at convenient centres in rural areas largely inhabited by Moslems.

RECOMMENDATION 47.—That liberal capital and recurring grants should be given to schools started in these localities.

RECOMMENDATION 48.—That the Government capital grant should be three-quarters of the total initial cost of starting the schools, and that in backward localities it might even bear a higher proportion than this to the total initial expenditure.

Schools in backward localities and University recognition.

85. We wish to point out to Government that, under present conditions, it is difficult for schools in backward localities to fulfil the requirements for recognition laid down by the University. This is specially the case in rural areas in Eastern Bengal the schools of which are largely attended by Moslems. We suggest—

RECOMMENDATION 49.—That inspecting officers should take into consideration the local conditions when reporting on a school in a backward locality for the purposes of recognition by the University.

The development of middle into high schools.

86. We desire to point out to Government that successful middle English schools tend to develop into high English schools. This development is often interfered with, because a District Board is not allowed to subsidise a high English school, though it can subsidise a middle school. In many cases the school authorities cannot afford to lose the District Board grant, and they are therefore unable to raise their schools to the status of high schools We suggest—

RECOMMENDATION 50.—That this difficulty should be removed at an early date either by subsidising such schools from provincial revenues or by some other method.

Students who fail at the Matriculation examination.

87. We desire to point out that many Moslem boys in Bengal have their educational career stopped, because they happen to fail at the Matriculation examination. They find it difficult to gain readmission to a high school. We therefore suggest—

RECOMMENDATION 51.—That some arrangements should be made which would allow a boy to continue his career even if he happens to fail to pass the Matriculation examination the first time he appears.

Managing Committees.

88. In Bengal most of the high schools are managed by committees on which Moslems are not adequately represented. Rules regulating the appointments to managing committees of schools maintained and aided from the public funds have been framed by the Education Department, and the University has laid it down as a condition of recognition that Moslems should be represented on the committees of all recognised schools. We, however, consider that the rules framed for the appointment of managing committees both by the department and University are generally defective, and, with reference to this matter, we make the following recommendations to Government :—

RECOMMENDATION 52.—That there should be at least two Moslems on the managing committee of every Government school and that, where inspecting officers are appointed members of these committees, the Assistant Inspector of Schools for Moslem Education should be appointed.

RECOMMENDATION 53.—That the adequate representation of Moslems on the managing committees of high schools should be made a condition of receiving grants-in-aid from the public funds.

RECOMMENDATION 54.—That the committee recommend that in Eastern Bengal districts not less than 6 out of 10, and in Western Bengal not less than 4 out of 10, members of managing committees of aided schools should be Moslems.

89. Even unaided schools recognised by the University are public institutions, and as such the University should insist on their being made acceptable to all classes and communities of His Majesty's subjects in Bengal. We therefore recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 55.—That the University should insist on the adequate representation of Moslems on the managing committee, before granting recognition to any new school.

RECOMMENDATION 56.—That, in the case of those schools already recognised, the University should notify the authorities that, as vacancies occur on the school committees, Moslems should be appointed until the community is adequately represented.

Visiting committees.

90. For most Government educational institutions there are advisory visiting committees. We therefore recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 57.—That Moslems should be well represented on all visiting committees so that attention may be given to the interests of Moslem pupils.

Dearth of Moslem teachers.

91. We consider that the cause of education among Moslems has suffered very greatly in the past owing to the fact that a totally inadequate number of Moslems have been in the past and still are employed as teachers in those sections of English schools in which instruction is imparted through the medium of English. We consider that the employment of more Moslems as teachers in secondary schools is a necessary condition of any real advance on the part of the Musalman community, and with this idea in our minds we make the following recommendations for the consideration of Government —

RECOMMENDATION 58.—That, in view of the fact that there is no Government secondary school which is not attended by some Moslem boys, there should be appointed a sufficient number of Moslem teachers, not only to see to the interests of the Moslem boys already in the schools but also to encourage other Moslem boys to join these schools.

RECOMMENDATION 59.—That Moslem graduates are not numerous and therefore qualified Moslems cannot be procured for the salary now paid to school teachers. Moslem graduates should be offered a higher initial salary to induce them to take up teaching work in Government schools.

RECOMMENDATION 60.—That, when any grants-in-aid are made, Government should make it a condition that a sufficient number of Moslem teachers are employed on the school staff.

RECOMMENDATION 61.—That, when making the grants-in-aid. Government should take into consideration the fact that higher rates of pay have to be given to Moslems than to Hindus.

92. The general principles enumerated in the two previous recommendations should apply to the staffs of unaided schools. The University should insist upon the appointment of Moslem English teachers before recognition is given. With this end in view we recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 62.—That an Inspector of Schools should carefully note on the representation of Moslems on the staff of the schools recognised or requiring recognition when sending in reports to the University.

The problem of Moslem head masters.

93. In the previous paragraph we have made certain recommendations regarding the representation of Moslems on the English staffs of high English schools, but we would particularly draw the attention of Government to the fact that there are 39 high English schools in Bengal, but that only in the case of the Comillla Zilla School is the head master a Moslem. It must be obvious to Government that, under these conditions, high schools cannot be so congenial to Moslems as they might be if there were more Moslem head masters. We cannot believe that Moslems, who would be both willing and competent to take up such posts, are not available. If there are no Moslems in the department who are fit for this work, qualified outsiders should be appointed. We would, however, respectfully point out to Government that a Moslem, who is competent for the head mastership of a school, will not be prepared to enter Government service in class VIII of the Subordinate Educational Service. We recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 63.—That Moslems should be appointed as head masters of Government schools until at least half of these posts are filled up by members of this community.

RECOMMENDATION 64.—That, with a view to improving the general efficiency of high schools, European head masters should be appointed to selected high schools in Bengal as is the case in the Bombay Presidency and in other provinces of India.

RECOMMENDATION 65.—That Government, when making grants-in-aid to high schools started or maintained by Moslems, should make sufficiently large grants to enable these schools to maintain Moslem head masters.

The language difficulty.

94. The Government of India note that the linguistic difficulty is one of the reasons which has retarded the spread of secondary education among Moslems. While a Bengali Hindu has only to read three languages, viz., English, Sanskrit and Bengali, a Bengali Moslem boy has to read as many as five languages, viz., English, Arabic, Persian, Urdu and Bengali. This burden of languages has very seriously told upon the general educational progress of Musalmans in Bengal. But while its injurious effect has been thoroughly realised by the leaders of the community, they have not been able to shake off the idea that the study of the three languages, viz., Arabic, Persian and Urdu, is indispensable for Moslems. Two other languages are necessary, viz., English and Bengali. Without the former neither a secondary nor a University education is possible; the latter is the vernacular of the great majority of Moslems in Bengal and some knowledge of it is a necessity of everyday life. We have carefully examined this question of languages to see whether the number of languages cannot be curtailed, and the general conclusion at which we arrived was that only one of the three languages (viz., Persian, Arabic and Urdu) need necessarily be studied thoroughly. Arabic is the language of the Koran and the only recognised source for the study of their religious traditions, culture, philosophy and history. But since the essentials of Islam have been translated from Arabic into several other Moslem languages, Arabic need be studied deeply only by those who wish to specialize in Moslem learning. The study of Persian has been in vogue among Moslems as a matter of fashion for the last 30 years. Many Moslems urge that it enables them, without the study of Arabic, to acquire religious knowledge and makes them familiar with Moslem traditions, etc., but we wish to point out that this knowledge can now be acquired through the medium of Urdu; moreover, Urdu is a language which is not only spoken by the Moslems of other parts of India, but has also come to be regarded as the lingua franca of the whole country. The Hon'ble Nawab Syed Nawab Ali Chaudhury, Khan Bahadur, read a note prepared by Major Peart, late Secretary of the Board of Examiners, Fort William, in which he points out that all the advantages which a boy can gain by the study of a foreign language can be acquired by the study of Urdu. While, however, we think that Persian is a language which can easily be dispensed with by Bengali Moslems, and while for the average Bengali Moslems the elements of Arabic only are necessary, yet we realise that public opinion among Moslems is such that provision for teaching Arabic and Persian and Urdu must be made in high schools. We, however, regard Urdu as the most important language for Moslems to learn at school, and we are of the opinion that this language ought to be included among the second languages which can be taken for the Matriculation examination. If it is urged that this language is not a classical language, we would point out that Persian has been included as a second language for many years and that Persian has little more claim than Urdu to being considered a classical language. After very careful deliberation we decided to make the following recommendations to Government :—

RECOMMENDATION 66.—That Urdu should be recognised by the University of Calcutta as a second language for those whose vernacular is not Urdu.

RECOMMENDATION 67.—That, in order to place Moslem boys on an equality with non-Moslem boys with regard to the study of languages, the study of a language other than English and a vernacular should be made compulsory for pupils of all grades from class V to X inclusive (class X being the Matriculation class).

RECOMMENDATION 68.—That in all schools in which there are Moslem pupils, provision should be made according to the requirements of the pupils for instruction in Arabic, Persian and Urdu in all classes from V to X.

RECOMMENDATION 69.—That a Moslem graduate with knowledge of Arabic, Persian and Urdu should be appointed to the staff of every school in which Arabic, Persian and Urdu are taught in order that he may supervise the work of the maulvis.

The simplification of the Calcutta University courses in Persian and Arabic and the improvement of the teaching of these languages.

95. We desire to draw the attention of the University to the fact that they have recommended to the Government of India that the Arabic part of the Matriculation course in Persian should be omitted. In extension of this principle we recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 70.—That the University should take the necessary steps for the exclusion of the Arabic portion from the Intermediate and B. A. courses in Persian.

96. We also desire to emphasize the fact that it is far more difficult for students to master the Matriculation, Intermediate and the B. A. courses in Arabic and Persian than it is for them to master the corresponding course in Sanskrit. We therefore suggest—

RECOMMENDATION 71.—That the Arabic and Persian courses should be modified in order to make the standard of difficulty for students of these languages the same as the standard of difficulty for the students of the other classical languages. We suggest that this matter requires the very early attention of the authorities.

RECOMMENDATION 72.—That the study of Arabic, Persian or Urdu being necessary for Moslem boys, competent teachers of these languages with a working knowledge of English should be appointed to all Government schools.

RECOMMENDATION 73.—That it should be made a condition of grant-in-aid that such teachers are maintained in aided schools.

RECOMMENDATION 74.—That the University should make the maintenance of such teachers a condition for recognition.

97. We wish to point out that the maulvis, who are at present teaching Arabic. Persian and Urdu, are educated in madrasahs and are unused to high school methods. We therefore recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 75.—That training classes for high school maulvis should be started as soon as possible; that these training classes should be opened in connexion with the training colleges at Dacca and Calcutta and should be under the superintendence of a man whose vernacular is Urdu and who has a knowledge of Arabic, Persian and English; that maulvis should be instructed in the modern methods of teaching classical languages, and should also learn how to speak Urdu properly.

Moral and religious education.

98. The question of moral and religious education is dealt with in a separate chapter of this report, but we desire at this point to make it quite clear that for Moslems the teaching of morals is inseparable from the teaching of religion. Government have already recognised the desirability of introducing moral instruction into the school curriculum. In these circumstances we desire to impress on Government the urgent necessity for making religious instruction for Moslems a part of the secondary school curriculum, and we suggest that the time which a Moslem boy would devote to this subject might be spent, so far as non-Moslem boys are concerned, in moral instruction.

Scholarships, stipends and free studentships.

99. The Government of India in their letter suggest as one of the reasons for the slow progress of Moslems the poverty of the community, and they go on to say that this has to a large extent been met by special Government scholarships and endowments. In spite of this statement we venture in all respect to point out that the provision of scholarships, free studentships, etc., in Bengal is quite inadequate to the demand. We, therefore, make the following recommendations :—

RECOMMENDATION 76.—That special contributions should be made from the public revenues for the purpose of enabling Moslem boys to take greater advantage of the secondary school system; that these contributions should take the form of grants made to boys to enable them to continue their education; that these grants should be awarded on conditions both of capacity and need; and that in this connexion we desire to invite the attention of Government to the scheme recently proposed by the Commissioner of Sindh for the encouragement of secondary education among the Moslems of that province and to state that in our opinion a similar scheme should be adopted for Bengal.

RECOMMENDATION 77.—That the income of the Mohsin Fund now devoted to the maintenance of certain Government madrasahs should be set free for providing scholarships for short-fee payment in colleges; but that this should not exclude the reconsideration of the allotment, if a more urgent need arises later.

100. The Committee desire to invite the attention of Government to the working of the present rules about free studentships in high schools. This rule as operative in Western Bengal now makes it impossible to award a free studentship to a Moslem boy, unless there are at least 12 Moslem boys in the school and in Eastern Bengal the number of free students is limited to 12. We recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 78.—That the rule should be altered so as to allow free studentships to be granted to Moslems up to a limit of 8 per cent. of the total school enrolment and there should be no prescribed maximum for the number of Moslems admitted free on the above basis.

RECOMMENDATION 79.—That the condition of merit should not be interpreted so as to exclude Moslem boys from the advantages of this rule when they first apply for admission to schools; that the head master should test the capacity of a boy at the time when he first applies for the free studentship.

RECOMMENDATION 80.—That the allotment of the full number of free studentships should be insisted on before grants-in-aid are given from public funds.

RECOMMENDATION 81.—That when giving grants-in-aid Government should take into consideration the loss of income from fees which the enforcement of this rule may entail.

RECOMMENDATION 82.—That in the case of unaided schools the University should impress on school authorities the necessity for observing this rule with regard to free studentships before granting recognition.

101. The Government of India suggest that Moslems may be encouraged to attend secondary schools by reserving places in the schools for them. We recommend to Government—

Reservation of places for Moslem pupils.

RECOMMENDATION 83.—That in all Government schools 15 per cent. of the places should be reserved for Moslem boys ; that this percentage should represent the minimum number of Moslem boys who should be in the school at any one time and should not be interpreted to mean that not more than 15 per cent. of the places in the school may be filled by Moslems.

102. We desire to emphasize the disabilities under which Moslem pupils labour owing to the absence of adequate hostel accommodation in connexion with the various high schools of the Presidency. We wish to impress on Government the urgency of the question and to request that the immediate attention of the authorities should be drawn to this matter. We desire to make the following recommendations for the consideration of Government :—

Hostels.

RECOMMENDATION 84.—That in connexion with Government high schools Government should provide hostels to accommodate Moslem students.

RECOMMENDATION 85.—That Government should help aided schools to provide hostels by more liberal grants-in-aid ; that a grant of three-quarters of the cost should be made by Government against a local contribution of one-quarter of the cost ; that, in special cases where no local contribution is forthcoming, Government should bear the entire cost.

RECOMMENDATION 86.—That it is necessary to make religious observances compulsory in all Moslem hostels ; and that definite arrangements should also be made for religious instruction.

RECOMMENDATION 87.—That, while realising that the control and management of a hostel attached to a high school must be in the hands of the head master of the school, we suggest that in cases in which Moslems are not sufficiently represented on the school managing committee, an advisory committee of Moslems should be appointed to bring to the notice of the head master any deficiencies which might be noticed in the hostel or hostels provided for Moslems.

103. We desire to emphasize the necessity for proper discipline in hostels and accordingly recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 88.—That definite rules should be drawn up for the guidance of hostel superintendents.

104. We desire to draw the attention of Government to the fact that in some of the hostels already provided for Moslems there are vacant places. This is because many Moslem boys are too poor to take advantage of the accommodation provided. We suggest—

RECOMMENDATION 89.—That Government should give some help from the public funds to enable Moslem boys to live in hostels.

RECOMMENDATION 90.—That the provision of stipends for poor Moslem boys to enable them to live in hostels may be regarded as a good object for private benevolence.

105. A list of hostel projects which are being considered by the department was put up before us. We desire to draw the attention of Government to the great delay which has occurred in connexion with some of the hostel schemes which have been before Government and to emphasize the necessity for more rapid action. In this connexion we suggest—

RECOMMENDATION 91.—That plans and estimates which have been approved by a District Engineer should be accepted by Government.

RECOMMENDATION 92.—That grants should be paid out on a completion certificate issued by a District Engineer.

106. We recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 93.—That the transfer rules of Western Bengal be made applicable to the whole Presidency.

Transfer rules.

107. We desire to observe that secondary education will be more popular with Moslem boys, if it is controlled by officers in sympathy with them. At present Moslems are not well represented on the senior inspecting staff, and we should be glad if Government could appoint more Moslems to the ranks of Assistant Inspectors and Additional Inspectors.

Inspection.

108. Since the appointment of the Special Assistant Director for Muhammadan Education and the appointment of Special Assistant Inspectors for Muhammadan Education there has been some dissatisfaction among the community in regard to the function and powers of these officers. We also note that not one of the inspecting officers of the department has special qualifications in Arabic and Persian, and that therefore the teaching of these languages in madrasahs cannot be inspected. We do not consider that this should be the work of the Special Assistant Director. We think that his work is rather concerned with Moslems in general educational institutions and that a special officer with qualifications in Arabic and Persian should be appointed to report to the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education as to the educational work done in the madrasahs. As regards the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education, the Committee make the following recommendation to Government for consideration :—

RECOMMENDATION 94.—That we understand that, according to the original orders sanctioning the post of Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education, Bengal, this officer should be placed in respect of madrasahs and maktabs in the position of an Inspector of Schools and should be given full powers of initiation and control which are vested in an officer of this class; that he should correspond direct with the Director of Public Instruction with regard to these institutions and that they should be removed from the jurisdiction of the Divisional Inspector of Schools. In addition, the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education has to visit educational institutions of all kinds in order to look after the interests of Muhammadans in these institutions. We feel that it would be to the disadvantage of maktabs and madrasahs, if they were removed from the control of the Divisional Inspector. Maktabs in particular get all their grants from the District Boards through the District Deputy Inspector of Schools, who is an officer subordinate to the Inspector of Schools. As far as administration is concerned, we feel that it would be a mistake to remove these institutions from the control of the Divisional Inspector.

We think that the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education should be an integral part of the Director of Public Instruction's office, and that his chief duties should be to see to the interests of Moslems in general educational institutions. In this case there will be no need for his separate office and establishment. The special staff of clerks which has been recently appointed should be absorbed in the Director of Public Instruction's office and should be given work by the assistant in charge of that office. The Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education must be familiar with all sections of the work in the Director of Public Instruction's office ; he must be familiar with any new regulations or schemes which are evolved for the improvement of education in Bengal in order that he may represent to the Director of Public Instruction how these new regulations, schemes, etc., will affect the Musalman community. In order to keep himself familiar with the conditions under which Moslem students are working, he must visit madrasahs, maktabs and general educational institutions.

RECOMMENDATION 95.—That an officer with special qualification in Arabic and Persian should be appointed to inspect the work of the Madrasahs in Arabic and Persian.

109. Some members of the Committee think that a European should be appointed to the post, others that an Indian should be appointed. We all agree, however, that the man appointed should be well acquainted with the modern methods of studying Arabic and should be also acquainted with the work in connexion with Arabic which has been attempted in western countries. We recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 96.—That the post should be a special post, not included in any particular service ; that if an Indian is appointed, his salary should be Rs. 500—50—750 ; if a European is appointed he should be appointed on special terms.

110. With regard to the powers and functions of the Special Assistant Inspectors for Moslem Education, we recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 97.—That the Assistant Inspectors should be subordinate to the Inspectors of Schools and not to the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education ; but that at the same time copies of their reports and recommendations to the Divisional Inspectors should be submitted to the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education for information.

RECOMMENDATION 98.—That the Special Assistant Inspectors should have the same control over the subordinate inspecting staff as other Assistant Inspectors.

RECOMMENDATION 99.—That, while the inspection of Moslem schools, such as madrasahs and maktabs, will of course be the principal charge of these special officers, they should also visit other schools of all grades, including high schools, and keep the Inspectors informed as to the educational requirements of their co-religionists ; that they should also visit training schools for teachers.

RECOMMENDATION 100.—That the District Board's educational budget should be carefully examined by the Special Assistant Inspectors in order that they may be able to make representations to the Inspectors in the interests of Moslem schools ; that the maktab and madrasah allotments of District Boards should be distributed by the Deputy Inspector in consultation with the Assistant Inspector of Schools for Moslem Education.

RECOMMENDATION 101.—That an additional Inspector should be appointed at once for the Rajshahi Division ; and that this officer should be a Moslem.

111. We invite the attention of Government to Recommendations Nos. 13, 14, 15 and 16 (see Chapter IV, paragraph 69 above) with regard to the text-books for primary schools. We recommend that these recommendations should apply to text-books in use in secondary schools.

Madrasahs.

112. The question of the reform of madrasahs did not come under our consideration, as the Government order publishing the reformed scheme for madrasahs in Bengal, drawn up by a sub-committee of the Dacca University, was published in July 1914. A special committee has also been appointed to consider the improvement of the Calcutta Madrasah which is to be maintained as an institution for the study of Arabic and Persian on indigenous lines. We wish, however, to record certain recommendations which will, probably, facilitate the introduction of the reformed scheme into madrasahs, viz. :—

RECOMMENDATION 102.—That the savings from that portion of the Imperial recurring grant, which was set aside for the Madrasah Reform Scheme, should be regranted year by year and be made available for capital expenditure.

RECOMMENDATION 103.—That there should be a senior madrasah of the reformed type in every division.

RECOMMENDATION 104.—That the Rajshahi junior madrasah should be raised to the status of a senior madrasah : that a new senior madrasah of the reformed type should be started at Murshidabad for the Presidency Division.

RECOMMENDATION 105.—That the recommendations which have been made about the building grants for secondary schools and hostels should also apply to madrasahs.

RECOMMENDATION 106.—That the Arabic teachers in madrasahs should be scholars well versed in Arabic, but not necessarily qualified in English. We realize the value of a knowledge of English, but feel that the field of selection will be considerably narrowed, if it is compulsory for all Arabic teachers to know English.

RECOMMENDATION 107.—That, when appointing English teachers to madrasahs, preference should be given to those with a knowledge of Arabic.

RECOMMENDATION 108.—That a number of scholarships should be given from the public funds to be awarded—

(a) on the results of the Junior Madrasah examination to be tenable for four years at a senior madrasah or a high school ;

(b) on the results of the special Madrasah Matriculation examination to be tenable for three years and renewable for a further period at the Muhammadan College at Dacca.

113. The Anglo-Persian departments of the Government madrasahs at Calcutta. Dacca and Chittagong are high schools for Moslem boys. We recommend—

Anglo-Persian departments.

RECOMMENDATION 109.—That these institutions should be placed under the control of the Inspector of Schools, as is the case with other high schools.

RECOMMENDATION 110.—That a member of the Indian Educational Service should be appointed as head master of the Anglo-Persian department of the Calcutta Madrasah.

RECOMMENDATION 111.—That the staff of the Anglo-Persian department of the Calcutta Madrasah should be reorganized on the lines recommended by the Committee for the organization and reform of madrasahs in Eastern Bengal and Assam for the Anglo-Persian department of the Dacca Madrasah.

RECOMMENDATION 112.—That early steps should be taken to give effect to the recommendation of the Dacca Committee for the Anglo-Persian departments of the Dacca and the Chittagong Madrasahs.

RECOMMENDATION 113.—That, in the event of these recommendations not being given effect to at an early date, an experienced Moslem in the Provincial Educational Service should be appointed as head master of the Anglo-Persian departments at Dacca and Chittagong as soon as possible.

CHAPTER VII.

Collegiate Education.

114. We notice with regret that, out of 14,746 students studying in arts colleges in Calcutta, only 1,151 are Moslems, and we appeal to Government to take such action as will enable Moslems to have a greater share in the facilities which are offered for college education. We consider the poverty of the community, its inadequate representation on the Senate, Syndicate and Boards of Studies of the University, as also on the governing bodies of colleges, the non-affiliation of colleges in Arabic and Persian, and the lack of hostel accommodation for Moslem college students are the chief reasons why Moslems do not take greater advantage of the collegiate system.

Dearth of Moslem students.

115. As the Senate of the University of Calcutta controls and regulates the working of colleges and to a great extent of the working of high schools, we recommend—

Representation of Moslems on the Senate of the Calcutta University.

RECOMMENDATION 114.—That, in order to safeguard the interests of Moslem students, men having an intimate knowledge of the conditions of their lives should be on the Senate to regulate their courses of studies.

RECOMMENDATION 115.—That, in order to increase the number of Moslems qualified to sit on the Senate, a school of Islamic Studies should be created by, or in connexion with, the University.

RECOMMENDATION 116.—That well-known Moslem scholars should be eligible for appointment on the Senate, even though they may not be graduates.

RECOMMENDATION 117.—That the ratio of the number of Moslem senators to the total number of Indian senators should be equal to the ratio of the Musalman population of Bengal to the total population.

116. The executive government of the University is vested in the Syndicate. The Syndicate consists of the Vice-Chancellor of the University, the Director of Public Instruction to the Government of Bengal, Representation of Moslems on the Syndicate of the Calcutta University.

and 16 of the ex-officio or ordinary Fellows of the University, who are elected for a period of one year partly by the Senate and partly by the Faculties. We desire to draw the attention of Government to the fact that, under these conditions, it is almost impossible for any Moslem to become a member of the Syndicate. We, therefore, recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 118.—That the Moslem Fellows of the University should be allowed to nominate one representative on the Syndicate from among themselves.

RECOMMENDATION 119.—That there should be at least one Moslem member on every Board of Studies.

Moslems should be represented on the Board of Studies for Sanskritic languages.

117. It is necessary that text-books containing expressions which are repugnant to Moslem taste and feelings should not be included amongst the text-books which are studied in the various University courses. We, therefore, invite the attention of Government and the University authorities to the necessity for adequate Moslem representation on the Board of Studies for Sanskritic languages, as this Board selects the text-books in Bengali, the study of that language being compulsory on all students for the University examinations.

Carmichael Professorship.

118. We desire to remind Government of the fact that when the Carmichael Professorship of Ancient Indian History and Culture was created, it was created not only for the benefit of Sanskritists but for the benefit of students of history generally. We note that when this chair was last filled, a Sanskritist was appointed for a period of nine years. Indian history and culture is not merely the history of the Hindus, and it is essential, not only in the interests of Moslems but of scholarship generally, that the holders of the professorships should not be exclusively those who are only competent to deal with the Hindu period. We recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 120.—That no professor should be appointed for more than two years, and that a Sanskritist and a scholar acquainted with the history of Musalman civilisation should be appointed to the professorship alternately. We also urge that, in fairness to Moslems, the next occupant of the chair should be the latter.

Representation of Moslems on the governing bodies of colleges.

119. We desire to draw the attention of Government to the fact that Moslems are seldom represented on the governing bodies of colleges. We suggest—

RECOMMENDATION 121.—That the present rules regulating the appointments of these bodies should be re-drafted, so as to make it possible to appoint as members Moslems who can take an interest in college affairs.

Colleges should make provision for the teaching of Arabic and Persian.

120. We urge on Government the importance of affiliating the Dacca and Presidency Colleges in Arabic and Persian up to the M.A. standard, and we recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 122.—That no college should be given a grant-in-aid, unless there are professors of Arabic and Persian and Urdu on its staff, and that in order to enable the aided colleges to make this provision increased grants should be given where necessary.

Subjects congenial to Moslems.

121. We desire to draw the attention of Government to the fact that certain combinations of subjects, e.g., History, Philosophy and Logic, particularly appeal to Moslem students. We suggest that the courses provided in Government colleges should be such as to allow Moslem students to choose such combinations.

122. We invite the attention of Government and University to the fact that there is no provision for studying the history of Islamic civilisation in any of the University courses below the M.A. standard. We, therefore, recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 123.—That provision should be made for the inclusion of this subject in the B.A. course; and that as regards the I.A. course an elementary study of this subject might be made alternative with the study of Greek and Roman history now prescribed.

Moslems and the Calcutta University examinations.

123. We draw the attention of Government and the University authorities to the fact that Moslems are not often appointed by the University to be examiners or paper-setters in subjects other than Arabic and Persian. We recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 124.—That as there are many qualified Moslems, more of them should be appointed as examiners and paper-setters.

RECOMMENDATION 125.—That roll-numbers should be used instead of the names of candidates on answer papers.

RECOMMENDATION 126.—That college authorities should be asked to make arrangements for the readmission of students who fail at their examinations for reasons other than incapacity.

Need for increased hostel accommodation.

124. We wish to point out to Government that in spite of the growing recognition of the value of hostels, the actual accommodation provided for Moslem students in Bengal is inadequate to their requirements. We consider that all students not living with parents or with guardians, who will definitely assume responsibility for their wards, should live in supervised hostels. The need of such hostels is urgent all over the Presidency. We wish to make the following recommendations.—

RECOMMENDATION 127.—That all Government colleges should have separate Moslem hostels attached to them.

RECOMMENDATION 128.—That liberal grants should be given to enable aided colleges to provide hostel accommodation for Moslems.

RECOMMENDATION 129.—That the University authorities should impress on the authorities of private colleges the necessity for providing hostel accommodation for Moslems.

The Calcutta University Law College hostel.

125. We desire to draw the attention of Government and the University authorities to the rules and regulations by which the Law College hostel is governed. Although this hostel was built very largely from public funds no Moslem is permitted to reside therein. We do not think that the provision of a mess is a satisfactory substitute for accommodation in the Law College hostel.

The reservation of places in colleges for Moslem students.

126. In order to ensure that Moslems will be able to secure admission into colleges, we recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 130.—That in Government colleges 25 per cent. of the total number of places shall be reserved for Moslems.

RECOMMENDATION 131.—That no grant-in-aid should be given to any college in which 25 per cent. of the available places are not reserved for Moslem students.

We suggest that if these recommendations are given effect to, a date may be fixed after which the places reserved for Moslems, which have not been filled, should be opened to students of other communities.

Scholarships.

127. We consider that the number of scholarships provided is not sufficient, considering the backwardness of the Moslem community. We recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 132.—That six additional junior scholarships for Moslems of the value of Rs. 10 each should be established.

RECOMMENDATION 133.—That two of these scholarships should be reserved for the Dacca Division and one for each of the other divisions.

RECOMMENDATION 134.—That four more senior scholarships of Rs. 12 each should be established for Moslems.

RECOMMENDATION 135.—That one of these scholarships should be reserved for the Presidency Division, one for the Burdwan Division and two for the Eastern divisions.

RECOMMENDATION 136.—That eight post-graduate scholarships for Moslems of Rs. 30 each should be established; and that these should be tenable for two years in the Dacca or Presidency College.

RECOMMENDATION 137.—That a system of junior and senior stipends (distinct from scholarships) should be established, that the holders of these stipends should not be designated scholars; that the stipends should be junior and senior.

RECOMMENDATION 138.—That the junior stipends should be awarded on the results of the Matriculation examination and that the senior stipends should be awarded by the Director of Public Instruction at his own discretion.

The suggested College at Murshidabad.

128. The question of establishing a college at Murshidabad was raised at the meetings of Bengal Presidency Muhammadan Education Conference held in Dacca in April 1914. It was brought before the Committee by Khan Bahadur Diwan Khundkar Fazl-i-Rabbi. The Hon'ble Nawab Syed Nawab Ali Chaudhury, Khan Bahadur, and the Secretary went to Murshidabad to investigate the matter. They found that it would be impossible to establish a college at Murshidabad without the expenditure of large sums from the public funds. In the circumstances we passed the following resolution:—

RECOMMENDATION 139.—That this Committee respectfully point out to Government that the Nawab Bahadur's Institution at Murshidabad provides free high school education for boys, without distinction of caste or creed, and provision has been made in this school for the teaching of Sanskrit to accommodate those boys who desire to study this language: also that hostel accommodation has been provided for Hindu boys. The Committee therefore respectfully urge Government to impress on the authorities of the Berhampur College that, in fairness to Moslem students, provision should be made in that college for the teaching of Urdu, Persian and Arabic, and that hostel accommodation for Moslem students should be provided in connexion with that college.

CHAPTER VIII.

Technical Education.

129. We regret to notice the small number of Moslem students in the various professional colleges and technical institutions. With regard to professional colleges we feel that adequate facilities are not afforded to the Musalman community in consideration of the fact that the community has only recently begun to take any interest at all in collegiate education.

Moslems and the Medical College, Calcutta.

130. With regard to the Medical College, Calcutta, we make the following recommendations:—

RECOMMENDATION 140.—That Moslems, who have passed the Matriculation examination, should be eligible for admission into the Medical College.

In this connexion we wish to point out that the Matriculation examination is the qualifying examination for admission into the Medical College. Candidates with this qualification cannot secure admission. We request Government to inquire into the matter and to take steps to ensure that qualified Moslems are not rejected. We also recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 141.—That Government should establish six scholarships of the value of Rs. 20 a month each, tenable for a full course in the Calcutta Medical College.

Moslems and technical and industrial schools.

131. We suggest that the reasons why Moslems do not take advantage of the existing technical and industrial schools are—

(1) the poverty of the community;

(2) the difficulty of finding employment after completing the course of study in such institutions.

We have been told that not one ex-student of the Sibpur College is employed on the East Indian Railway. If this is true we cannot but suppose that such a remarkable state of affairs is due to the fact that the work of this institution has been too much directed towards preparing students for the Public Works Department, District Board work, etc. With these considerations before us we record the following resolutions :—

RECOMMENDATION 142.—That the expenses of the courses of engineering colleges and schools must be reduced.

RECOMMENDATION 143.—That if it is not possible to increase the number of posts recruited from engineering colleges for the Public Works Department, District Boards, etc., an attempt should be made to bring the courses of these institutions into line with the requirements of railway companies, electrical firms, and commercial bodies who employ engineers.

RECOMMENDATION 144.—That arrangements should be made for the residence of Moslem students who attend engineering colleges.

132. With regard to the industrial education, we think it desirable to remind Government that, while in the Moslem community cultivators are in a large majority, there are many Musalman artisans. We consider that when provision is being made for industrial training, care should be taken that boys are not taught trades or callings which they will never follow. Again, the pupils of industrial schools are not likely to persevere with their studies, unless they can earn something during the period of their training, nor will the training be of very much use to a boy, unless at the end of his school career he is able to get some money with which he can start a trade. We make the following recommendations for the consideration of Government :—

RECOMMENDATION 145.—That agricultural schools with model farms attached may be started at suitable centres for the children of jotedars and cultivators.

RECOMMENDATION 146.—That industrial schools might be opened for the children of artisans.

RECOMMENDATION 147.—That stipends should be awarded to the pupils of industrial schools during their course of training.

RECOMMENDATION 148.—That arrangements should be made whereby a boy could obtain an advance from a co-operative credit society at the conclusion of his school course, to enable him to purchase modern tools with which to practise his calling.

133. In recording the above resolutions we desire to remind Government that it is from the agricultural classes that colleges and high schools get their Moslem students. While therefore we consider it to be most desirable that cultivators as such should be given every opportunity of improving their methods and thus becoming more prosperous, we think it equally necessary that more promising boys of these classes should be given every chance of continuing their education beyond the primary stage up to any standard of which they may show themselves capable. If the Moslem community of Bengal is to occupy the position which it should fill in the community generally, the basis of education must be sound, but there must also be a ladder for those who can climb it, leading from the village primary school to the university or professional college.

CHAPTER IX.

The Education of Girls.

134. The question of the education of Muhammadan girls is full of difficulties. A glance at the second part of Table II which is attached to this report will show how far Moslem girls are educated in the recognized schools of Bengal. We think that the time has now arrived when Government should definitely assume the responsibility for such schemes for the education of Moslem girls as it may be found desirable to inaugurate. The policy of aiding private enterprise should be continued but much more is required.

A separate system of schools is necessary.

135. We are very definitely of the opinion that a separate system of schools will have to be established and maintained for Moslem girls. In the schools which already exist Moslem girls do not find a congenial atmosphere so that, for the present at any rate, it will be necessary to establish and maintain schools which admit none but the daughters of Moslems. We understand that in some districts Moslem girls attend the ordinary girls' schools. We have no desire to discourage such a tendency, but we make the following recommendations for the consideration of Government :—

RECOMMENDATION 149.—That while recognizing the general necessity for a distinct system of schools for Moslem girls, the Committee do not desire to discourage the attendance of Moslem girls at primary schools, provided that they can attend such institutions without forfeiting respect.

RECOMMENDATION 150.—That by way of making the instruction given at the ordinary primary schools more congenial to Moslem parents for the education of their girls, it is suggested that provision should be made for giving such girls religious instruction in accordance with the principles advocated in connexion with the primary education of Moslem boys. It is also pointed out that the arrangements in schools where there are Hindu teachers are sometimes offensive to Moslems. The Committee feel that anything which is calculated to offend Moslems should be scrupulously avoided, especially in those schools which Moslems might wish to use for the education of their girls.

RECOMMENDATION 151.—That where it is not possible to establish separate primary schools for girls, ordinary primary school teachers should be encouraged to undertake the separate instruction of Moslem girls.

RECOMMENDATION 152.—That where a Moslem woman is willing to undertake the instruction of girls, she should not, as a condition of receiving grant, be made to appear before a male inspecting officer.

RECOMMENDATION 153.—That the girls reading in the ordinary primary schools should be allowed to use the readers in use in maktabs.

RECOMMENDATION 154.—That seeing that maktabs are already used to a considerable extent by Moslem girls, these institutions might be made more attractive by providing for some general instruction in sewing.

RECOMMENDATION 155.—That the object to be aimed at is that, wherever there is a demand, there should be established a school for girls liberally aided from public funds; that there should be, in every subdivision, at least one special school for Moslem girls: that these schools should be aided schools in the sense that they should be under the control of local committees, but Government should be asked to bear the total cost of these institutions.

Changes recommended in the inspecting staff.

136. We feel that some reforms are necessary in the inspecting staff of girls' schools; we consequently make the following recommendations :—

RECOMMENDATION 156.—That some Moslem ladies should be included among the Assistant Inspectresses of the Presidency. We hold that such ladies are available and that, if necessary, special terms should be offered.

RECOMMENDATION 157.—That European ladies in the Indian Educational Service might be deputed to Hyderabad and other places for the purposes of studying the special needs of Moslem girls and the methods by which those needs might be met.

RECOMMENDATION 158.—That the lady inspecting officers of the Education Department should try and visit the leading Moslem ladies of their localities for the purpose of interesting them in the education of Moslem girls.

Model schools at Calcutta and Dacca.

137. Nawab A. F. M. Abdur Rahman and the Hon'ble Mr. A. K. Ghuznavi thought that good model schools should be provided at Dacca and Calcutta for Moslem girls. The Committee generally agreed with the principles, but there was much discussion regarding the detailed arrangements for these schools. The discussion was based on a note on the subject which had been prepared by the Hon'ble Mr. A. K. Ghuznavi. The following conclusions were ultimately arrived at :—

RECOMMENDATION 159.—That there should be established—both in Calcutta and Dacca—a model school managed by Government and conducted on purdah lines.

RECOMMENDATION 160.—That these schools should, to begin with, provide for a six years' course starting from the infant-year course and teaching the following subjects :—

(i) Religious instruction, including the Koran ;

(ii) Vernacular (either Urdu or Bengali) ;

(iii) Elementary arithmetic ;

(iv) Rudiments of history and geography ;

(v) Cookery ;

(vi) Sewing, knitting and embroidery ;

(vii) Elementary domestic hygiene and house-keeping.

(viii) Drawing from inanimate objects.

That provision should be made for teaching English and Persian as optional subjects ; and that modern methods of infant school teaching should be employed in the schools.

RECOMMENDATION 161.—That these institutions should be developed, as demand arises, to provide higher instruction for girls.

RECOMMENDATION 162.—That from the beginning the school should be staffed with a view to providing for this development, and that a Moslem lady graduate should be engaged as Principal from the first.

RECOMMENDATION 163.—That residential accommodation should be provided for boarders, and that suitable conveyance arrangements should be made for day scholars.

RECOMMENDATION 164.—That there should be a committee of management consisting of representative Moslem gentlemen and a board of lady visitors.

RECOMMENDATION 165.—That a start should be made in hired quarters and that Government should provide the schools with suitable buildings as soon as funds permit.

RECOMMENDATION 166.—That fees should be charged at the rate of Rs. 2 in the lower division and Rs. 4 in the higher division, both fees to be inclusive of the conveyance charges (these are of course the fees for tuition ; boarding fees will have to be fixed later).

RECOMMENDATION 167.—That examinations should be conducted at certain stages of the school course by the school staff assisted by the lady inspecting staff ; that certificates should be awarded at the end of the junior and senior courses and that these should be countersigned by the Director of Public Instruction.

Purdah arrangements for Moslem female examinees.

138. We wish to bring to the notice of Government the difficulties experienced by Moslem ladies when sitting for public examinations and to recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 168.—That the University of Calcutta should be asked, when necessary, to make special arrangements for examinations under strictly purdah conditions for Moslem ladies.

RECOMMENDATION 169.—That the Education Department should try and arrange with the Cambridge and Oxford Syndicates for special facilities for the examination of Moslem girls or ladies under purdah conditions.

Scholarships.

139. We suggest that Moslem ladies might be induced to take more interest in education, if they were encouraged by scholarships. We recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 170.—That scholarships should be reserved for Moslem girls at all stages and that special scholarships should be attached to the model schools.

140. One of the greatest obstacles in the way of the education of Moslem girls at present is the difficulty of obtaining qualified Moslem female teachers. We recommend—

Teachers.

RECOMMENDATION 171.—That a beginning should be made by the establishment, both in Calcutta and Dacca, of departmentally managed training schools for teachers conducted strictly on purdah lines and confined to Moslem ladies.

RECOMMENDATION 172.—That provision should be made for residential accommodation as also for the conveyance of non-boarders.

RECOMMENDATION 173.—That stipends should be provided at the rates of Rs. 30 for boarders and Rs. 20 for day-scholars.

RECOMMENDATION 174.—That the qualification for admission should be carefully scrutinized with a view to the exclusion of those who might be considered undesirable.

RECOMMENDATION 175.—That a candidate for admission should be able to read and write in Bengali or Urdu.

RECOMMENDATION 176.—That the minimum course should be three years, though a student might be kept longer, if this were considered necessary.

RECOMMENDATION 177.—That the standard to be attained at the end of the course should be the lower primary standard or its equivalent.

RECOMMENDATION 178.—That the staff should be ladies suitably qualified and remunerated, preferably, but not necessarily, Moslems.

141. We wish to make it quite clear that our view is that the training school discussed in the previous section should be quite separate from the model schools. We are of opinion—

RECOMMENDATION 179.—That if there is any demand for the training of Moslem ladies to be secondary school teachers, this provision should be made at the Government training college for women secondary school teachers, such arrangements being made as to make the work there congenial to Moslems.

142. We realize that it would be difficult for all the teachers who may wish to be trained and to join the training classes at Dacca and Calcutta. We therefore recommend—

RECOMMENDATION 180.—That classes for the training of women teachers should also be started in connexion with the schools for Moslem girls in head-quarters towns.

143. We gather from the report of the Department of Public Instruction, 1913-14, that the system of zanana teaching is full of promise for the future. The system of house visitation seems to be popular in Western Bengal, and the system of family gatherings seems to be popular in the Eastern divisions.

Zanana teaching.

We make the following recommendations :—

RECOMMENDATION 181.—That the number of peripatetic Moslem teachers in Calcutta is very small and should be doubled at once.

RECOMMENDATION 182.—That there should be mahalla schools in Moslem localities conducted by Moslem mistresses or, where this cannot be secured, by elderly Moslem male teachers.

Mahalla Schools.

RECOMMENDATION 183.—That there should be a number of rewards especially intended for Moslem pupils passing out of these schools.

RECOMMENDATION 184.—That there should be a certificate examination for those girls and ladies who receive education in purdah with their parents and guardians, and that rewards should be given to those obtaining certificates.

144. We draw the attention of Government to the need of suitable books for Moslem girls in the various stages of education. We venture to remind Government of the steps taken by Mr. Earle to provide certain books for use in Moslem zananas and to make the following recommendations :—

RECOMMENDATION 185.—That the books prepared for Moslem zanana classes should be printed as soon as possible.

RECOMMENDATION 186.—That the special maktab readers that were prepared for the Eastern Bengal and Assam Government should be used in Moslem girls' schools.

CHAPTER X.

Religious and Moral Instruction.

145. The Committee are aware that this subject was fully discussed at the Conference on Moral Education held at Dacca in January 1912 and at Calcutta in December 1912. The President informed the Committee that the results of the discussions at these conferences had been forwarded to the Government of India. We feel, however, that our work will be incomplete unless we make some recommendations for the consideration of Government on this subject. We have therefore resolved—

RECOMMENDATION 187.—That moral education for Moslems cannot be separated from religious education and that a manual should be prepared to help teachers to give such instruction.

RECOMMENDATION 188.—That as moral education cannot be given to Moslems except by a Moslem teacher, it is necessary that there should be two or more teachers on the staff of each school to see to the moral and intellectual progress of the Moslem boys; that these teachers should be men of the highest character imbued with a love for their vocation. In this connexion the Committee desire to draw the attention of this Government to the fact that the prospects of teachers are not good, and unless they are appreciably improved Moslem teachers will not be attracted to the educational service.

RECOMMENDATION 189.—That if teachers' guilds are formed, as was suggested at the Conference on Moral and Religious Education in schools held in Bengal in 1912, Moslems must be represented thereon.

RECOMMENDATION 190.—That the Committee wish to point out to Government that the house system, if adopted for Indian schools, involves the establishment of houses for Moslems supervised by Moslem teachers.

RECOMMENDATION 191.—That if school societies are formed as was suggested by the Conference on Moral Education, these societies should be carefully supervised, and that no discussion in which the religion of Islam is involved should be allowed to take place unless a Moslem teacher is present.

RECOMMENDATION 192.—That Moslem pupils in all schools and colleges should be required to wear their distinctive dress, including a cap.

RECOMMENDATION 193.—That dramatic performances should not be encouraged in schools in which there are Moslem boys; but that there is no objection to the boys learning dialogues, recitations, etc.

RECOMMENDATION 194.—That in all schools, facilities should be given for Moslem students to perform their daily devotions; and that a room in the school or a house in the compound should be set apart for this purpose.

RECOMMENDATION 195.—That in every secondary school one period of 30 minutes should be set apart for religious instruction on alternate days, and that the necessary provision should be made for this instruction in the sc ool time-table.

RECOMMENDATION 196.—That religious observances should be strictly enforced in Moslem hostels attached to public institutions; and that these hostels should be placed under superintendents who fully realize the responsibilities with which they are entrusted.

RECOMMENDATION 197.—That the Moslem Institutes, both in Calcutta and Dacca, are valuable institutions; but that they are both badly in need of furniture and libraries. The Committee recommend that Government should give substantial aid to these institutions to enable them to provide these necessities.

CHAPTER XI.

Miscellaneous.

Syedpur Trust Estate.

146. We wish to bring to the notice of Government that the Syedpur Trust Estate now pays three per cent. of its revenues to the general rate fund. We think that this percentage is too high and suggest that Government should forego this charge.

147. It has been suggested that this report should be circulated to local Anjumans in order that they might express their views on the recommendations of the Committee before they are finally submitted to Government. We think that the views of local Anjumans are adequately set forth in the previous pages and feel that no useful purpose would be served by circulating the report.

CHAPTER XII.

Conclusion.

148. In conclusion and for convenience of reference, we set forth below, under appropriate heads, all the resolutions which we passed in the course of our deliberations.

I.—The general policy.

Resolution 1.—That while it is necessary to maintain special institutions for Moslems it is undesirable to develop further a system of education for this community separate from that of other communities. The existing systems should be carefully examined to see where they fail to satisfy members of the community, and necessary modifications should be introduced.

II.—Primary education.

A.—Ordinary primary schools.

Resolution 2.—That the representation of Moslems on the education and finance committees of District Boards is not sufficient to ensure that the interests of the Moslem community are not neglected. The number of Moslems on both these committees should be increased.

Resolution 3.—That of the Deputy Inspectors at district headquarters, one should always be a Moslem, and that there should always be both on the District Board and on its education and finance committee a Moslem Deputy Inspector of Schools who is stationed at the district headquarters.

Resolution 4.—That in selecting the three non-members of the Board for the education committee, due regard should be paid to the interests of Moslems.

Resolution 5.—That as three members of the education committee are elected from members of the District Board itself, it is very necessary from the point of view of Musalmans that they should be adequately represented on District Boards. We recommend that the number of Moslem members on District Boards should bear the same ratio to the total number of members on the Board as the Moslem population bears to the total population of the district.

Resolution 6.—That there should be greater Moslem representation on the finance committees of District Boards.

Resolution 7.—That the number of Moslem Deputy Inspectors should be increased, so that in each division the ratio of the number of Moslem Deputy Inspectors to the total number of Deputy Inspectors should be the same as the ratio of the Moslem population to the total population of the division.

Resolution 8.—That in primary schools the last period of each day shall be set aside for moral instruction.

Resolution 9.—That during this period Moslem boys should be given such instruction as will tend to make them good Moslems.

Resolution 10.—That this religious instruction should be given by the molla attached to a local mosque (or if such a molla cannot be found, by some resident of the locality to whom a suitable sum should be paid as remuneration). This religious teacher should be regarded as a member of the school staff and should be paid from the school funds. A whole-time Moslem teacher should be appointed on the staff of any school in which the number of Moslem boys would justify such an appointment. This teacher should give the necessary moral instruction.

Resolution 11.—That in all primary schools, work should be suspended for one hour on Fridays to enable Moslem boys to say their Juma prayers; on other days in the week work should be suspended for half an hour to enable Moslem boys to say their midday prayers.

Resolution 12.—That manuals for religious instruction should be prepared in the vernaculars of the province for the guidance of the teachers.

Resolution 13.—That Moslems should be adequately represented on the Text-Book Committee which is to be formed for the whole Presidency.

Resolution 14.—That no book should be rejected as a text-book on account of its containing words conveying ideas or sentiments peculiar to Moslems, or such words in common use among them as have not an exact equivalent in current Bengali.

Resolution 15.—That Moslem authors should be allowed to submit their books to the Text-Book Committee in manuscript.

Resolution 16.—That Government should encourage authors to publish Bengali books which are Moslem in character.

Resolution 17.—That readers prescribed for maktabs shall also be prescribed as alternative readers in lower primary schools.

Resolution 18.—That more lower and upper primary scholarships should be reserved for Moslems.

Resolution 19.—That the system of awarding the scholarships should be carefully checked.

Resolution 20.—That the medium of instruction in primary schools must be the vernacular of the boys, that is, Bengali, excepting in the case of schools in Calcutta, Dacca and Murshidabad or other localities in which Urdu is the vernacular of Moslems.

Resolution 21.—That while accepting the view that Bengali is ordinarily the medium of instruction in primary schools, we feel that some provision should be made for the teaching of elementary Urdu as a help to imparting religious instruction, but that this provision should not necessarily involve introduction of Urdu readers into the schools.

B.—Maktabs.

Resolution 22.—That the curriculum for maktabs should be so arranged that a Moslem boy, after completing it, will be in the same position with regard to secular learning as a boy who has completed the lower primary course.

Resolution 23.—That the curriculum shown as an Appendix to this report may be regarded as suitable for maktabs, subject to the proviso that such modifications shall be carried out in it as may be deemed to be necessary when a uniform vernacular curriculum has been prescribed for the whole presidency.

Resolution 24.—That model maktabs should be established in each of the thanas of the Presidency in which there is a preponderance of Moslems.

Resolution 25.—That these maktabs should be under the control and management of the District Boards exactly as Board lower primary schools are.

Resolution 26.—That these maktabs should be of the type of Board lower primary schools.

Resolution 27.—That the staff of a maktab for fifty boys or less should consist of at least two trained teachers, one for general subjects and the other for Urdu and the Koran. Both should be Moslems, if possible. Additional teachers should be appointed for every 25 boys.

Resolution 28.—That training schools for maktab teachers should be started in localities having not less than 150 maktabs.

Resolution 29.—That the staff of such a training school should be Moslems as far as possible, and that a Qari or Hafiz should be appointed in addition to the staff required for secular subjects.

Resolution 30.—That this Committee wish to emphasize the need for practising maktabs in connection with these training schools, in which the teachers in training can practise under conditions which prevail in ordinary maktabs.

Resolution 31.—That the term "mianji" should no longer be used to designate teachers in maktabs, but that these teachers should in future be known as "moallims."

Resolution 32.—That each district should be given a special Sub-Inspector of Schools for the supervision of maktabs.

Resolution 33.—That where there are more than 90 maktabs in a district, an Assistant Sub-Inspector should be appointed on the general basis of an Assistant Sub-Inspector of Schools for every 90 maktabs.

Resolution 34.—That the salary of the Sub-Inspector should be Rs. 60 and that of the Assistant Sub-Inspector Rs. 40, and that travelling allowance should be paid in accordance with the conditions of the Civil Service Regulations.

Resolution 35.—That the rates of pay recommended in the previous recommendation being much higher than those of inspecting maulvis it is desirable that men of higher qualifications should be appointed. To be qualified for the post a candidate should at least have passed the final madrasah examination and have a working knowledge of English.

Resolution 36.—That a Maktab Scholarship examination should be established on similar lines to the Primary Scholarship examination.

Resolution 37.—That a number of scholarships of Rs. 3 per month tenable for two years in upper primary classes of high and middle schools, or in training schools or in Government-aided madrasahs, should be provided.

Resolution 38.—That these scholarships should be renewable for a further period of two years.

Resolution 39.—That teachers' manuals should be prepared at Government expense for the use of moallims in training.

Resolution 40.—That these manuals should be prepared both in Urdu and Bengali

Resolution 41.—That special readers of a definitely Moslem character should be prescribed for use in maktabs, and that these readers should also be prescribed as alternative text-books in lower primary schools.

Resolution 42.—That the District Board grants to maktabs should be shown under a separate head in the District Board budget.

Resolution 43.—That the proposition statement for District Board grants to maktabs should be prepared in consultation with the Special Sub-Inspector and with the concurrence of the Assistant Inspector of Schools for Muhammadan Education.

Resolution 44.—(a) That maktabs having all four classes of a lower primary school shall be eligible for a minimum grant of Rs. 6.

(b) That maktabs having all but the highest class shall be eligible for a minimum grant of Rs. 4.

(c) That maktabs having only the two lowest classes shall be eligible for a grant of Rs. 2; that maktabs having only two classes shall not be required to entertain two teachers.

Resolution 45.—That the returns for maktabs from the various districts should be kept separate from the returns for primary schools, as already is the case in the Burdwan and Presidency Divisions.

III.—Secondary education.

Resolution 46.—That schools should be started at convenient centres in rural areas largely inhabited by Moslems.

Resolution 47.—That liberal capital and recurring grants should be given to schools started in these localities.

Resolution 48.—That the Government capital grant should be three-quarters of the total initial cost of starting the schools, and that in backward localities it might even bear a higher proportion than this to the total initial expenditure.

Resolution 49.—That inspecting officers should take into consideration the local conditions when reporting on a school in a backward locality for the purpose of recognition by the University.

Resolution 50.—That the difficulty of converting middle schools to high schools on account of the loss of the District Board grant should be removed at an early date by subsidising such schools from provincial revenues or by some other method.

Resolution 51.—That some arrangements should be made which would allow a boy to continue his career even if he happens to fail to pass the Matriculation examination for the first time he appears.

Resolution 52.—That there should be at least two Moslems on the managing committee of every Government school ; and that where inspecting officers are appointed members of these committees, the Assistant Inspector of Schools for Moslem Education should be appointed.

Resolution 53.—That the adequate representation of Moslems on the managiug committees of high schools should be made a condition of receiving grant-in-aid from public funds.

Resolution 54.—That the Committee recommend that in Eastern Bengal districts not less than 6 out of 10, and in Western Bengal not less than 4 out of 10, members of managing committees of aided schools should be Moslems.

Resolution 55.—That the University should insist on the adequate representation of Moslems on the managing committees before granting recognition to any new school.

Resolution 56.—That in the case of those schools already recognized, the University should notify the authorities that, as vacancies occur on the school committees, Moslems should be appointed until the community is adequately represented.

Resolution 57.—That Moslems should be well represented on all visiting committees, so that attention may be given to the interests of Moslem pupils.

Resolution 58.—That in view of the fact that there is no Government secondary school which is not attended by some Moslem boys, there should be appointed a sufficient number of Moslem teachers, not only to see to the interest of the Moslem boys already in the school, but also to encourage other Moslem boys to join these schools.

Resolution 59.—That Moslem graduates are not numerous and therefore qualified Moslems cannot be procured for the salary now paid to school teachers. Moslem graduates should be offered a higher initial salary to induce them to take up teaching work in Government schools.

Resolution 60.—That when any grants-in-aid are made Government should make it a condition that a sufficient number of Moslem teachers are employed on the school staff.

Resolution 61.—That when making grants-in-aid Government should take into consideration the fact that higher rates of pay have to be given to Moslems than to Hindus.

Resolution 62.—That Inspectors of Schools should carefully note on the representation of Moslems on the staffs of schools recognized or requiring recognition, when sending in reports to the University.

Resolution 63.—That Moslems should be appointed as head masters of Government schools until at least half of these posts are filled up by members of this community.

Resolution 64.—That with a view to improving the general efficiency of high schools, European head masters should be appointed to selected high schools in Bengal as is the case in Bombay Presidency and in other provinces of India.

Resolution 65.—That Government, when making grants-in-aid to high schools started or maintained by Moslems, should make sufficiently large grants to enable these schools to maintain Moslem head masters.

Resolution 66.—That Urdu should be recognized by the University of Calcutta as second language for those whose vernacular is not Urdu.

Resolution 67.—That in order to place Moslem boys on an equality with non-Moslem boys with regard to the study of languages, the study of a language other than English and a vernacular should be made compulsory for pupils of all grades from class V to X inclusive (class X being the Matriculation class).

Resolution 68.—That in all schools in which there are Moslem pupils provision should be made, according to the requirements of the pupils, for instruction in Arabic, Persian and Urdu in all classes from V to X.

Resolution 69.—That a Muhammadan graduate with knowledge of Arabic, Persian and Urdu should be appointed to the staff of every school in which Arabic, Persian and Urdu are taught, in order that he may supervise the work of the maulvis.

Resolution 70.—That the University should take the necessary steps for the exclusion of the Arabic portion from the Intermediate and B.A. courses in Persian.

Resolution 71.—That the Arabic and Persian courses should be modified in order to make the standard of difficulty for students of these languages the same as the standard of difficulty for the students of the other classical languages. We suggest that this matter requires the very early attention of the authorities.

Resolution 72.—That the study of Arabic, Persian or Urdu being necessary for Moslem boys, competent teachers of these languages, with a working knowledge of English, should be appointed to all Government schools.

Resolution 73.—That it should be made a condition of grant-in-aid that such teachers are maintained in aided schools.

Resolution 74.—That the University should make the maintenance of such teachers a condition for recognition.

Resolution 75.—That training classes for high school maulvis should be started as soon as possible; that these training classes should be opened in connexion with the training colleges at Dacca and Calcutta and should be under the superintendence of a man whose vernacular is Urdu and who has a knowledge of Arabic, Persian and English; that maulvis should be instructed in the modern methods of teaching classical languages, and should also learn how to speak Urdu properly.

Resolution 76.—That special contributions should be made from the public revenues for the purpose of enabling Moslem boys to take greater advantage of the secondary school system; that these contributions should take the form of grants made to boys to enable them to continue their education; that these grants should be awarded on conditions both of capacity and need; and that in this connection we desire to invite the attention of Government to the scheme recently proposed by the Commissioner of Sindh for the encouragement of secondary education among the Moslems of that province, and to state that in our opinion a similar scheme should be adopted for Bengal.

Resolution 77.—That the income of the Moshin Fund now devoted to the maintenance of certain Government Madrasahs should be set free for providing scholarships for short-fee payments in colleges; but that this should not exclude the reconsideration of the allotment, if a more urgent need arises later.

Resolution 78.—That the rules regarding free studentships should be altered so as to allow free studentships to be granted to Moslems up to a limit of 8 per cent. of the total school enrolment, and there should be no prescribed maximum for the number of Moslems admitted free on the above basis.

Resolution 79.—That the condition of merit should not be interpreted so as to exclude Moslem boys from the advantages of this rule when they first apply for admission to schools; that the head master should test the capacity of the boy at the time when he first applies for a free studentship.

Resolution 80.—That the allotment of the full number of free studentships should be insisted on before grants-in-aid are given from public funds.

Resolution 81.—That when giving grants-in-aid Government should take into consideration the loss of income from fees which the enforcement of this rule may entail.

Resolution 82.—That in the case of unaided schools the University should impress on the school authorities the necessity for observing this rule with regard to free studentships before granting recognition.

Resolution 83.—That in all Government schools 15 per cent. of the places should be reserved for Moslem boys; that this percentage should represent the minimum number of Moslem boys who should be in the school at any one time and should not be interpreted to mean that not more than 15 per cent. of the places in the school may be filled by Moslems.

Resolution 84.—That in connexion with Government high schools, Government should provide hostels to accommodate Moslem students.

Resolution 85.—That Government should help aided schools to provide hostels by more liberal grants-in-aid; that a grant of three-quarters of the cost should be made by Government against a local contribution of one-quarter of the cost ; that in special cases where no contribution is forthcoming, Government should bear the entire cost.

Resolution 86.—That it is necessary to make religious observances compulsory in all Moslem hostels ; definite arrangements should also be made for religious instruction.

Resolution 87.—That while realising that the control and management of a hostel attached to a high school must be in the hands of the head master of the school, we suggest that in cases in which Moslems are not sufficiently represented on the school managing committee, an advisory committee of Moslems should be appointed to bring to the notice of the head master any deficiencies which might be noticed in the hostel or hostels provided for Moslems.

Resolution 88.—That definite rules should be drawn up for guidance of hostel superintendents.

Resolution 89.—That Government should give some help from the public funds to enable Moslem boys to live in hostels.

Resolution 90.—That the provision of stipends for poor Moslem boys to enable them to live in hostels may be regarded as a good object for private benevolence.

Resolution 91.—That plans and estimates which have been approved by a District Engineer should be accepted by Government.

Resolution 92.—That grants should be paid out on a completion certificate issued by a District Engineer.

Resolution 93.—That the transfer rules of Western Bengal be made applicable to the whole Presidency.

Resolution 94.—That we understand that according to the original orders sanctioning the post of Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education, Bengal, this officer should be placed in respect of madrasahs and maktabs in the position of an Inspector of Schools and should be given full powers of initiation and control which are vested in an officer of this class ; that he should correspond direct with the Director of Public Instruction with regard to these institutions, and that they should be removed from the jurisdiction of the Divisional Inspector of Schools. In addition the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education has to visit educational institutions of all kinds in order to look after the interests of Muhammadans in these institutions. We feel that it would be to the disadvantage of maktabs and madrasahs if they were removed from the control of the Divisional Inspector. Maktabs, in particular, get all their grants from the District Boards through the District Deputy Inspector of Schools, who is an officer subordinate to the Inspector of Schools. As far as administration is concerned, we feel that it would be a mistake to remove these institutions from the control of the Divisional Inspector. We think that the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education should be an integral part of the Director of Public Instruction's office, and that his chief duties should be to see to the interests of Moslems in general educational institutions. In this case there will be no need for his separate office and establishment. The special staff of clerks which has been recently appointed should be absorbed in the Director of Public Instruction's office and should be given work by the assistant in charge of that office. The Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education must be familiar with all sections of the work in the Director of Public Instruction's office ; he must be familiar with any new regulations or schemes which are evolved for the improvement of education in Bengal in order that he may represent to the Director of Public Instruction how these new regulations, schemes, etc., will affect the Musalman community. In order to keep himself familiar with the conditions under which Moslem students are working, he must visit madrasahs, maktabs and general institutions.

Resolution 95.—That an educational officer with special qualification in Arabic and Persian should be appointed to inspect the work of the madrasahs in Arabic and Persian.

Resolution 96.—That the post should be a special post, not included in any particular service; that if an Indian is appointed his salary should be Rs. 500—50—750; if an European is appointed he should be appointed on special terms.

Resolution 97.—That the Assistant Inspectors of Schools for Muhammadan Education should be subordinate to the Inspectors of Schools and not to the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education; but that at the same time copies of their reports and recommendations to Divisional Inspectors should be submitted to the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education for information.

Resolution 98.—That the Special Assistant Inspectors should have the same control over the subordinate inspecting staff as other Assistant Inspectors.

Resolution 99.—That while the inspection of Moslem schools, such as madrasahs and maktabs, will of course be the principal charge of these special officers, they should also visit other schools of all grades, including high schools, and keep the Inspectors informed as to the educational requirements of their co-religionists; that they should also visit training schools for teachers.

Resolution 100.—That the District Board's educational budget should be carefully examined by the Special Assistant Inspectors in order that they might be able to make representations to the Inspectors in the interests of Moslem schools; that the maktab and madrasah allotments of District Boards should be distributed by the Deputy Inspector in consultation with the Assistant Inspector of Schools for Moslem Education.

Resolution 101.—That an additional Inspector should be appointed at once for the Rajshahi Division, and that this officer should be a Moslem.

Resolution 102.—That the savings from that portion of the Imperial recurring grant, which was set aside for the Madrasah Reform Scheme, should be regranted year by year and be made available for capital expenditure.

Resolution 103.—That there should be a senior madrasah of the reformed type in every division.

Resolution 104.—That the Rajshahi Junior Madrasah should be raised to the status of the senior madrasah; that a new senior madrasah of the reformed type should be started at Murshidabad for the Presidency Division.

Resolution 105.—That the recommendations which have been made about the buildings grants for secondary schools and hostels should also apply to madrasahs.

Resolution 106.—That the Arabic teachers in madrasahs should be scholars well versed in Arabic but not necessarily qualified in English. We realize the value of a knowledge of English, but feel that the field of selection will be considerably narrowed, if it is compulsory for all Arabic teachers to know English.

Resolution 107.—That when appointing English teachers to madrasahs preference should be given to those with a knowledge of Arabic.

Resolution 108.—That a number of scholarships should be given from the public funds to be awarded,—

(a) on the results of the Junior Madrasah examination to be tenable for four years at a senior madrasah or high school,

(b) on the results of the special Madrasah Matriculation examination to be tenable for three years and renewable for a further period at the Muhammadan College at Dacca.

Resolution 109.—That the Anglo-Persian departments of the Government Madrasahs at Calcutta, Dacca and Chittagong should be placed under the control of the Inspector of Schools as is the case with other high schools.

Resolution 110.—That a member of the Indian Educational Service should be appointed as head master of the Anglo-Persian department of the Calcutta Madrasah.

Resolution 111.—That the staff of the Anglo-Persian department of the Calcutta Madrasah should be reorganized on the lines recommended by the Committee for the organization and reform of madrasahs in Eastern Bengal and Assam for the Anglo-Persian department of the Dacca Madrasah.

Resolution 112.—That early steps should be taken to give effect to the recommendation of the Dacca Committee for the Anglo-Persian departments of the Dacca and Chittagong Madrasahs.

Resolution 113.—In the event of these recommendations not being given effect to at an early date, an experienced Moslem in the Provincial Educational Service should be appointed as head master of the Anglo-Persian departments at Dacca and Chittagong as soon as possible.

IV.—Collegiate education.

Resolution 114.—That in order to safeguard the interests of Moslem students, men having an intimate knowledge of the conditions of their lives should be on the Senate to regulate their courses of studies.

Resolution 115.—That in order to increase the number of Moslems qualified to sit on the Senate, a school of Islamic Studies should be created by or in connexion with the University.

Resolution 116.—That well-known Moslem scholars should be eligible for appointment on the Senate, even though they may not be graduates.

Resolution 117.—That the ratio of the number of Moslem senators to the total number of Indian senators should be equal to the ratio of the Musalman population of Bengal to the total population.

Resolution 118.—That the Moslem Fellows of the University should be allowed to nominate one representative on the Syndicate from among themselves.

Resolution 119.—That there should be at least one Moslem member on every Board of Studies.

Resolution 120.—That no University professor should be appointed for more than two years, and that a Sanskritist and a scholar acquainted with the history of Musalman civilisation should be appointed to the Carmichael Professorship of Ancient Indian History and Culture alternately. We also urge that, in fairness to Moslems, the next occupant of the chair should be the latter.

Resolution 121.—That the present rules regulating the appointments of the governing bodies of colleges should be re-drafted, so as to make it possible to appoint as members Moslems who can take an interest in college affairs.

Resolution 122.—That no college should be given a grant-in-aid unless there are professors of Arabic and Persian and Urdu on its staff; and that in order to enable aided colleges to make this provision increased grants should be given, where necessary.

Resolution 123.—That provision should be made for the inclusion of the history of Islamic civilization in the B.A. course; and that as regards the I.A. course an elementary study of this subject might be made alternative with the study of Greek and Roman history now prescribed.

Resolution 124.—That as there are many qualified Moslems, more of them should be appointed as examiners and paper-setters.

Resolution 125.—That roll-numbers should be used instead of the names of the candidates on answer papers.

Resolution 127.—That all Government colleges should have separate Moslem hostels attached to them.

Resolution 128.—That liberal grants should be given to aided colleges to provide hostel accommodation for Moslems.

Resolution 129.—That the University authorities should impress on the authorities of private colleges the necessity for providing hostel accommodation for Moslems.

Resolution 130.—That in Government colleges 25 per cent. of the total number of places shall be reserved for Moslems.

Resolution 131.—That no grant-in-aid should be given to any college in which 25 per cent of the available places are not reserved for Moslem students.

Resolution 132.—That six additional junior scholarships for Moslems of the value of Rs. 10 each should be established.

Resolution 133.—That two of these scholarships should be reserved for the Dacca Division and one for each of the other divisions.

Resolution 135.—That one of these scholarships should be reserved for the Presidency Division, one for the Burdwan Division. and two for the Eastern divisions.

Resolution 136.—That eight post-graduate scholarships for Moslems of Rs. 30 each should be established, and that these should be tenable for two years in the Dacca or Presidency College.

Resolution 137.—That a system of junior or senior stipends (distinct from scholarships) should be established ; that the holders of these stipends should not be designated scholars ; that the stipends should be junior and senior.

Resolution 138.—That the junior stipends should be awarded on the results of the Matriculation examination, and that the senior stipends should be awarded by the Director of Public Instruction at his own discretion.

Resolution 139.—That this Committee respectfully point out to Government that the Nawab Bahadur's Institution at Murshidabad provides free high school education for boys, without distinction of caste or creed, and provision has been made in this school for the teaching of Sanskrit to accommodate those boys who desire to study this language, also that hostel accommodation has been provided for Hindu boys. The Committee, therefore, respectfully urge Government to impress on the authorities of the Berhampur College that, in fairness to Moslem students, provision should be made in that college for the teaching of Urdu, Persian and Arabic, and that hostel accommodation should be provided in connection with that college for Moslem students.

V.—Technical education.

Resolution 140.—That Moslems who have passed the Matriculation examination should be eligible for admission into the Medical College.

Resolution 141.—Government should establish six scholarships of the value of Rs. 20 a month each, tenable for a full course in the Calcutta Medical College.

Resolution 142.—That the expenses of the courses of engineering colleges and schools must be reduced.

Resolution 143.—That if it is not possible to increase the number of posts recruited from engineering colleges for the Public Works Department, District Boards, etc., an attempt should be made to bring the courses of these institutions into line with the requirements of railway companies, electrical firms, and commercial bodies who employ engineers.

Resolution 148.—That arrangements should be made whereby a boy could obtain an advance from a co-operative credit society at the conclusion of his school course to enable him to purchase modern tools with which to practise his calling.

VI.—Education of girls.

Resolution 149.—That while recognising the general necessity for a distinct system of schools for Moslem girls, the Committee do not desire to discourage the attendance of Moslem girls at primary schools, provided that they can attend such institutions without forfeiting respect.

Resolution 150.—That by way of making the instruction given at the ordinary primary schools more congenial to Moslem parents for the education of their girls, it is suggested that provision should be made for giving such girls religious instruction in accordance with the principles advocated in connection with the primary education of Moslem boys. It is also pointed out that the arrangements in schools where there are Hindu teachers are sometimes offensive to Moslems. The Committee feel that anything which is calculated to offend Moslems should be scrupulously avoided, especially in those schools which Moslem might wish to use for the education of their girls.

Resolution 151.—That where it is not possible to establish separate primary schools for girls, ordinary primary school teachers should be encouraged to undertake the separate instruction of Moslem girls

Resolution 152.—That where a Moslem woman is willingly to undertake the instruction of girls, she should not, as a condition of receiving grant, be made to appear before a male inspecting officer.

Resolution 153.—That the girls reading in the ordinary primary schools should be allowed to use the readers in use in maktabs.

Resolution 154.—That seeing that maktabs are already used to a considerable extent by Moslem girls, those institutions might be made more attractive by providing for some general instruction in sewing.

Resolution 155.—That the object to be aimed at is that, wherever there is a demand, there should be established a school for girls liberally aided from public funds ; that there should be, in every subdivision, at least one special school for Moslem girls ; that these schools should be aided schools in the sense that they should be under the control of local committees, but Government should be asked to bear the total cost of these institutions.

Resolution 156.—That some Moslem ladies should be included among the Assistant Inspectresses of the Presidency. We hold that such ladies are available, and that, if necessary, special terms should be offered.

Resolution 157.—That European ladies in the Indian Educational Service might be deputed to Hyderabad and other places for the purpose of studying the special needs of Moslem girls and the methods by which those needs might be met.

Resolution 158.—That the lady inspecting officers of the Education Department should try and visit the Moslem ladies of their localities for the purpose of interesting them in the education of Moslem girls.

(ii) Vernacular (either Urdu or Bengali) ;

(iii Elementary arithmetic ;

(iv) Rudiments of history and geography ;

(v) Cookery ;

(vi) Sewing, knitting and embroidery ;

(vii) Elementary domestic hygiene and house-keeping ;

(viii) Drawing from inanimate objects.

That provision should be made for teaching English and Persian as optional subjects ; and that modern methods of infant school teaching should be employed in the schools.

Resolution 161.—That these institutions should be developed, as demand arises, to provide higher instruction for girls.

Resolution 162.—That from the beginning the school should be staffed with a view to providing for this development, and that a Moslem lady graduate should be engaged as Principal from the first.

Resolution 163.—That residential accommodation should be provided for boarders, and suitable conveyance arrangements should be made for day scholars.

Resolution 164.—That there should be a committee of management consisting of representative Moslem gentlemen and a board of lady visitors.

Resolution 165.—That a start should be made in hired quarters and that Government should provide the schools with suitable buildings as soon as funds permit.

Resolution 166.—That fees should be charged at the rate of Rs. 2 in the lower division and Rs. 4 in the higher division, both fees to be inclusive of conveyance charges (these are of course the fees for tuition ; boarding fees will have to be fixed later).

Resolution 167.—That examinations should be conducted at certain stages of the school course by the school staff assisted by the lady inspecting staff ; that certificates should be awarded at the end of the junior and senior courses, and that these should be countersigned by the Director of Public Instruction.

Resolution 168.—The University of Calcutta should be asked, when necessary, to make special arrangements for examinations under strictly purdah conditions for Moslem ladies.

Resolution 169.—That the Education Department should try and arrange with the Cambridge and Oxford Syndicate, for special facilities for the examination of Moslem girls and ladies under purdah conditions.

Resolution 170.—That scholarships should be reserved for Moslem girls at all stages and that special scholarships should be attached to model schools.

Resolution 171.—That a beginning of training work for teachers should be made by the establishment, both in Calcutta and Dacca, of departmentally managed training schools for teachers conducted strictly on purdah lines, and confined to Moslem ladies.

Resolution 172.—That provision should be made for residential accommodation as also for the conveyance of non-boarders.

Resolution 173.—That stipends should be provided at the rates of Rs. 30 for boarders and Rs. 20 for day scholars.

Resolution 174.—That the qualification for admission should be carefully scrutinized with a view to the exclusion of those who might be considered undesirable.

Resolution 175.—That a candidate for admission should be able to read and write in Bengali or Urdu.

Resolution 176.—That the minimum course should be three years, though a student might be kept longer if this was considered necessary.

Resolution 177.—That the standard to be attained at the end of the course should be the lower primary standard or its equivalent.

Resolution 178.—That the staff should be ladies suitably qualified and remunerated, preferably, but not necessarily, Moslems.

Resolution 179.—That if there is any demand for the training of Moslem ladies to be secondary schools teachers, this provision should be made at the Government training college for women secondary school teachers, such arrangements being made as to make the work there congenial to Moslems.

Resolution 180.—That classes for the training of women teachers should also be started in connection with the schools for Moslem girls in head-quarters towns.

Resolution 181.—That the number of peripatetic Moslem teachers in Calcutta is very small and should be doubled at once.

Resolution 182.—That there should be mahalla schools in Moslem localities conducted by Moslem mistresses or, where this cannot be secured, by elderly Moslem male teachers.

Resolution 183.—That there should be a number of rewards especially for Moslem pupils passing out of these schools.

Resolution 184.—That there should be a certificate examination for those girls and ladies who receive education in purdah with their parents and guardians, and that reward should be given to those obtaining certificates.

Resolution 185.—That the books prepared for Moslem zanana classes should be printed as soon as possible.

Resolution 186.—That the special maktab readers that were prepared for the Eastern Bengal and Assam Government should be used in Moslem girls' schools.

VII.—Religious and moral instruction.

Resolution 187.—That moral education for Moslems cannot be separated fromr eligious education, and that a manual should be prepared to help teachers to give such instruction.

Resolution 188.—That as moral education cannot be given to Moslems except by Moslem teachers, it is necessary that there should be two or more teachers on the staff of each school to see to the moral and intellectual progress of Moslem boys ; that these teachers should be men of the highest character imbued with a love for their vocation. In this connexion the Committee desire to draw the attention of this Government to the fact that the prospects of teachers are not good, and unless they are appreciably improved Moslem teachers will not be attracted to the educational service.

Resolution 189.—That if teachers' guilds are formed, as was suggested at the Conference on Moral and Religious Education in schools held in Bengal in 1912, Moslems must be represented thereon.

Resolution 190.—That the Committee wish to point out to Government that the house system, if adopted for Indian schools, involves the establishment of houses for Moslems supervised by Moslem teachers.

Resolution 191.—That if school societies are formed as was suggested by the Conference on Moral Education these societies should be carefully supervised and that no discussion in which the religion of Islam is involved should be allowed to take place unless a Moslem teacher is present.

Resolution 192.—That Moslem pupils in all schools and colleges should be required to wear, their distinctive dress, including a cap.

Resolution 193.—That dramatic performances should not be encouraged in schools in which there are Moslem boys ; but that there is no objection to the boys learning dialogues, recitations, etc.

Resolution 194.—That in all schools facilities should be given for Moslem students to perform their daily devotions ; and that a room in the school or a house in the compound should be set apart for this purpose.

Resolution 195.—That in every secondary school one period of 30 minutes should be set apart for religious instruction on alternate days ; and that the necessary provision should be made for this instruction in the school time-table.

Resolution 196.—That religious observances should be strictly enforced in Moslem hostels attached to public institutions ; and that these hostels should be placed under superintendents who fully realize the responsibilities with which they are entrusted.

Resolution 197.—That the Moslem Institutes, both in Calcutta and Dacca, are valuable institutions, but that they are both badly in need of furniture and libraries. The Committee recommend that Government should give substantial aid to these institutions to enable them to provide these necessities.

FIFTY-FOURTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE GOVERNMENT CINCHONA PLANTATIONS AND FACTORY IN BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1915-16.

1. General.—In last year's report the scientific side of the department's work that during 1905 to 1915 had effected a great increase in productivity was briefly reviewed, but space limitations prevented a review of the financial aspect of the work also being given. As, although the department is kept up for other than purely financial considerations, the financial side is no less interesting than the other, and as during the period in which most profitable use was made of the money resources of the department, its financial working was on several occasions subjected to adverse and ill-informed outside criticism, a general account of the financial results over the period 1900 to 1916 may not be amiss.

Since April 1900 to March 1916 the total expenditure of all sorts whatsoever for all purposes was in round figures Rs. 42,65,600 and the total receipts Rs. 39,30,000, leaving a deficit of Rs. 3,35,600. Paradoxical as it may seem to those who would take this as proof of financial mismanagement, the deficit was incurred entirely within the period 1905 to 1914, during which the department was being greatly improved. The explanation is simple. About the beginning of the 1905-1915 period it was seen that the demand for quinine—since 1892 in excess of the yield from plantation bark—was exceeding the factory output capacity, and that as over 90 per cent. of the world's supply of bark and quinine was in the hands respectively of Java planters and about a dozen manufacturers, the risk of the formation of a "trust" and the abolition of an open market was not to be taken lightly. It was foreseen that, if while there was still an open market, large quantities of bark and quinine were purchased at the lowest rates ever touched, it would allow the formation of a reserve of quinine large enough to meet the increase in demand and to serve as a stand-by in case of a severe malarial epidemic, what time the plantations were being extended on a scale large enough to render the department independent of external supplies and prices. So during 1908-1914 large sums were expended on purchase of bark and quinine at very low rates and on extra extensions of plantations. Subsequent developments have thoroughly justified the then heavy expenditure. For instance, if the annual quinine yield from the plantations had remained at its 1905 figure of 9,000 lbs., Government would have had to pay during 1913-15 at least Rs. 7,74,000 in purchase of enough bark or quinine to make up the quantity (74,000 lbs.) distributed during these years, whereas it cost Government to make the quantity required above the 1905 output level less than Rs. 3,08,000. In those two years alone Government saved at least Rs. 4,66,000, which exceeds the deficit for a period of 16 years. The deficit will speedily be replaced by a surplus yearly increasing, and meanwhile it is covered many times over by readily realisable assets.

For the total expenditure during 1900-16 of Rs. 42,65,600 Government has received Rs. 39,30,000 and has acquired entirely within the 1905-1916 portion of the period and possesses now, (a) additions to factory buildings and machinery that have quintupled its 1900 output capacity, four new bungalows and other plantation buildings ; (b) 2,418 acres afforested with a full complement of selected timber and fuel trees, the trees only valued at Rs. 46,360 ; (c) 2,295 acres planted with a full complement of cinchona, the trees only valued at Rs. 7,69,085; (d) a reserve of 165,000 lbs. quinine valued at Rs. 18,97,500; (e) other manufactured products. bark and chemicals valued at Rs. 2,05,055, making a total of Rs. 29,18,000. The total return for the Rs. 42,65,600 expenditure is therefore in cash and readily realisable assets Rs. 68,48,000. In this estimate nothing is claimed for value of factory and other buildings and machinery; the planted forest trees are valued at the low figure of Rs. 20 per acre (Rs. 10 per acre for the 200 acres planted in 1915-16); the cinchona trees are valued at half the present market-rate for the bark represented by them; the quinine reserve is valued at Rs. 11½ per lb., the average market-rate for the period 1900-15, the abnormal year 1915-16 being excluded; the actual present market-value of the reserve is about 60 lakhs; the other products are valued at the lowest rates at which they have ever been sold. The gross surplus over the period is Rs. 25,82,400. Deducting from this Rs. 1,26,000 as liberal value for the cinchona trees on Mungpoo—there were none on Munsong—in 1900 and Rs. 2,34,000 for value of stock on 1st April 1900, the net surplus is Rs. 22,22,400, equivalent to an average annual surplus of Rs. 1,38,900 over an annual average expenditure of Rs. 2,66,600. Assuming that, in addition to the actual expenditure of Rs. 42,65,600 over the whole period, the department had had to expend at the beginning of 1900-01 the sums of Rs. 3,60,000 for cinchona trees and stock then in existence and Rs. 25,00,000 in purchase—at ten times the official assessment value—of the 25,000 acres of land at the department's disposal, and assuming that not only these sums, but each year's total expenditure of all sorts whatsoever, were entirely "capital" invested in the department, then the surplus mentioned is equal to a return of 3 per cent. per annum on the sum "invested" each year from the year of its "investment" to the end of the period.

It is hoped that this exposition will make clear that under conditions of presentment as stringent as few commercial companies would choose to adopt, the financial side of the department's work is as satisfactory as the scientific.

A considerable quantity of the best seed and full information regarding cultivation have been supplied to the Forest Department of British East Africa and the Medicinal Plants Board of Victoria to aid in establishing plantations in British East Africa and on the Bellenden Ker Mountains of Queensland, respectively. This is significant in view of the fact that so small a proportion of the world's supply of bark is grown within the Empire.

2. Extensions, acreages and crop.—Hitherto in the annual returns the originally planted acreage of each block has been shown until its final clearance. This practice, inasmuch as the harvesting of a block extends over a series of years, incorrectly credits the plantation for those years with an acreage which does not bear a full complement of cinchona, and in the year of final clearance cuts off an acreage that should be distributed over a series of years. So this year all the merely nominal acreages have been cut off and henceforth the returns will or should show only acreages bearing a full complement of cinchona.

(a) Mungpoo.—The rainfall was 109·24 inches, 13·58 inches below the average for 37 years. Forty acres of C. ledgeriana, 20 on Mungpoo and 20 on Sittong divisions, were planted at a cost of Rs. 3,200. The seed was from parent trees of not less than 9 per cent. quinine sulphate contents. The area under cinchona, is now 529 acres. The dry bark crop was 117,012 lbs., being 107,569 lbs. C. ledgeriana, 3,253 lbs. C. succirubra, and 6,190 lbs. C. [Ledger × succirubra]. 38,400 maunds (1,405 tons) of firewood, of value (exclusive of cutting and carriage) Rs. 2,304, were supplied to the factory. The afforested area was increased by 200 acres, bringing the total now up to 2,418 acres. The stock of Ipecacuanha plants was increased by 30,000 plants, making a total of over 48,000 plants.

(b) Munsong.—The rainfall was 97·49 inches, the average for the last 15 years being 94·06. In June and August 1915 locusts did much damage to the young plants, but all vacancies have since been filled in. Extensions were 272 acres at a cost of Rs. 18,120, and consisted of 200 C. ledgeriana (72 on Kashyem, 56 on Munsong and 72 on Burmiak); 50 C. [Ledgeriana × succirubra] (30 on Kashyem, 20 on Burmiak); and 22 C.

officinalis on Kashyem. The ledger and hybrid seed was from trees of not less than 10 and the officinalis from trees of not less than 7 per cent. quinine sulphate contents. Blocks Nos. II to VI of C. ledgeriana have been finally cleared, and their original acreage of 363½ together with 161½ acres, the equivalent of the bark harvested so far from all the remaining blocks, has been cut off from the returns. The acreage remaining .... is 1,766 acres. The bark crop was 452,325 lbs., of which 398,670 were C. ledgeriana, 52,392 C. succirubra, 1,030 C. officinalis, and 233 [C. ledgeriana × succirubra].

(c) Plantations as a whole.—The total area with a full complement of cinchona is 2,295 acres.. .... The estimated total number of trees is 3,091,100, being 2,450,000 on Munsong and 641,100 on Mungpoo. The total bark crop was 569,337 lbs.

3. Factory work.—158,745 lbs. of Mungpoo and 801,001 lbs. of Munsong bark with respective average quinine sulphate percentages of 4·44 and 4·48 were used up, or a total of 960,570 lbs. with an average percentage of 4·47, equivalent to 42,937·47 lbs. quinine sulphate theoretically available. 41,982¾ lbs. were extracted, or 97 per cent. of the theoretically possible. Of the total 168¼ lbs. were used in making cinchona febrifuge, leaving 41,814½ lbs. as the net quantity of quinine sulphate manufactured. In addition 1,227 lbs. cinchona febrifuge, 1,429 lbs. quinoidine and 640 lbs. residual alkaloids were made.

4. Cost and value of plantation bark.—The total expenditure on Munsong from its beginning up to 31st March 1916, including its proportion of general charges, is, in round figures, Rs. 8,19,050. The sum of the acreages under cinchona at the end of each year of the plantation's existence is 13,163, so that the average annual expenditure per acre is Rs. 62·2. The yield of bark from Blocks I-VI, now finally cleared, is equal to an annual average dry bark increment per acre of 435 lbs. over an average period of 12 years. The cost of Munsong bark is therefore almost 2·3 annas per lb. The cost of Mungpoo bark is 2 annas per lb. So the cost of the 452,325 lbs. of Munsong bark at 2·3 annas per lb. and of the 117,012 lbs. of Mungpoo bark at 2 annas comes to a total of Rs. 79,648-3-2, including all charges to godowns for the quantity harvested. The average market unit rate for the year was 7·3 Dutch cents, and the average quinine percentage of the bark was 4·47. Deducting 55.645 lbs. of C. succirubra bark the value of the ledger, officinalis and hybrid barks harvested is $\frac{7·3 \times 4·47 \times 513.692}{5 \text{ cents} \times 1·102 \text{ lbs.} \times 16 \text{ annas}}$ = Rs. 1,90,134-12, or nearly 6 annas per lb. Valuing the 55,645 lbs. C. succirubra at 2·5 annas per lb., the value of the total harvest is Rs. 1,98,829-4. This shows a difference to the advantage of Government of about Rs. 1,19,000 plus cost of freight and carriage between the actual cost and what it would have cost Government to buy the bark.

5. Cost and value of quinine produced.—(a) Cost in bark.—The 801,000 lbs. of Munsong bark at 2·3 annas per lb. and 158,745 lbs. of Mungpoo bark at 2 annas per lb. used up in producing 41,814½ lbs. quinine sulphate cost Rs. 134,987, so that the quinine sulphate cost Rs. 3·22 per lb. in the bark.

(b) Cost of extraction, purification, packing and delivery to railway.—The factory expenditure plus share of general charges plus depreciation on buildings and machinery was Rs. 84,424. Adding to this Rs. 14,450 the value at cost price plus carriage of the chemicals, etc., used in excess of the quantities purchased during the year, the total charges for all factory products were Rs. 98,874. Deducting Rs. 4,347, the cost of manufacturing products other than quinine sulphate, the cost of extraction, purification, etc., of the 41,814½ lbs. quinine sulphate is Rs. 94,527 or Rs. 2·26 per lb.

(c) Total cost of manufacture.—This is Rs. 1,34,987 (cost in bark) + Rs. 94,527 (cost of extraction etc.) = Rs. 2,29,514 or $\frac{\text{Rs. } 2,29,514}{41,814\frac{1}{2} \text{ lbs.}}$ = Rs. 5-7-8 per lb. The increase in cost-rate 0·3 annas per lb. placed upon Munsong bark accounts for the increase of 5 annas 4 pies per lb. on last year's cost-rate.

(d) Value.—The average wholesale market-rate for 1915 was Rs. 17 per lb., giving a valuation of Rs. 7,10,846½ for the quinine made, or a difference between cost and value to the advantage of Government of Rs. 4,81,332½. At actual present rates the difference is about 12 lakhs.

6. Sales and selling rates.— ...... The total issues of all products were 45,812½ lbs , of which 39,743 were quinine sulphate. Of the latter quantity 16,800 lbs. were distributed as tablet "treatments." The rates for quinine sulphate were Rs. 17 per lb. on credit to medical depôts and Rs. 15-8 to Rs. 14-8 according to quantity taken by cash purchasers. The increase in market-rates that raised the average for 1915 to Rs. 17 per lb. took place too late in the year to render it feasible to readjust for the remainder of the year the rates for purchasers other than medical depôts, which rates, however, have since been raised above the rate charged to medical depôts for 1915-16. Products other than quinine sulphate were sold at the same rates as for last year, except cinchonidine sulphate, which, according to quantity purchased, was Re. 1 to Rs. 2 per lb. cheaper.

7. Expenditure and receipts.—...... The total expenditure on the whole department was Rs. 2,01,615-2-11. The total gross receipts were Rs 6,63,406-8-9, of which Rs. 1,12,086-0-10, being two-fifths of Rs. 2,80,215-0-9, the receipts for sale of tablets, were credited to the Prisons Department to cover cost of conversion of bulk quinine into tablets and of distribution of the latter, leaving Rs. 5,51,320-7-11 as net receipts for the Cinchona Department. The year's surplus is therefore Rs. 3,49,705-5.

8. Stock account and quinine reserve.—......The quinine reserve is now over 165,000 lbs., worth at present rates 60 lakhs, but taken in the stock account at Rs. 28,09,148-12-9. The value of stock of all sorts on 31st March 1916 was Rs. 30,01,513-13-3.

9. Block account.—......The areas under cinchona are valued except for the year's extensions—the cost of which is taken as their value—on their estimated dry bark content and average quinine percentage, at the average unit rate for bark for the year. To err on the safe side, in estimating the value of the cinchona trees bark increment has been disallowed to all blocks of cinchona beyond their tenth year. The total value of the planted cinchona and forest trees, buildings and machinery is Rs. 10,31,046-8.

10. Profit and loss account.— ...... The profit balance on the year's working is Rs. 7,79,703-10-9.

11. Land rent.—Rupees 4,541-6 were paid into the Darjeeling Treasury, but no credit is taken for this in the cinchona accounts.

12 Staff.— ...... In January 1916 Messrs. G. E. Shaw, Government Quinologist, and P. T. Russell, Manager of Mungpoo Plantation, were deputed to Madras for a short time to advise the Madras Government on the working of the Madras Cinchona Department Both officers have received the thanks of that Government.

Superintendent, Royal Botanic Garden, Calcutta, and of Cinchona Cultivation in Bengal.

REPORT ON FAMINE AND SCARCITY IN THE DISTRICTS OF BANKURA AND TIPPERA FOR THE WEEK ENDING 29th JULY 1916.

IN the Bankura district the distress in the affected areas is generally unchanged. The rainfall was general, but more rain is wanted for transplantation. The prospects of standing crops are favourable. The relief measures are adequate. The condition of people on relief-works is generally good. Private charitable funds are giving relief. Adequate advances are being made to weavers. Cloths are being distributed by the District Charitable Relief Fund. Prices have fallen. The price of rice is 8¼ seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief-works was 10,070, and in receipt of gratuitous relief 21,510—total 31,580. The increase in the number of persons on relief-works was due to the retardation of transplantation in local areas owing to insufficient rainfall. Two thousand nine hundred and eighty nine persons were relieved on private works.

In the Tippera district rain fell during the week, but more rain is needed for the standing winter paddy and jute crops. Harvesting of autumn paddy is nearly completed and the cutting of jute continues. Public health is good. The relief-works have been closed owing to agricultural employment being available and general improvement in conditions. The distress in the Sadar subdivision is abating. The price of rice is 7 seers per rupee. The number of persons on test-works was 622, and in receipt of gratuitous relief 4,957—total 5,579.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS

For the week ending on the 7th August 1916.

Summary.—During the week under report heavy rain fell in a few districts of North Bengal, but generally the fall varied from light to moderate in the rest of the province. More rain is urgently needed in the western districts for the transplanting of winter rice and for the growth of the standing crops. Some damage has been caused to the standing autumn crops in North Bengal by excessive rainfall and flood during the past weeks. Injury to jute by insect-pests is also reported from some districts of the Presidency Division. Harvesting of autumn paddy and jute is in progress. Cattle-disease prevails in six districts. The average price of common rice for the province has fallen by about 0·5 per cent. as compared with that of the previous week. Scarcity continues to be reported among the hill tribes of the Chittagong Hill Tracts.
